workmen.

NOTE. To those who intend to have their houses painted and papered inside, I would say,

the sooner they send me their orders the better,

as warm, pleasant weather in the spring always brings an immense amount of outside painting, while inside work can be done in stormy March and as any other time.

REGULA

The seal of the Knights of Pythias is visible at the bottom of the page. It features a circular design with the words "KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS" around the perimeter. In the center, there is a figure, possibly a knight or a symbolic character, holding a staff or a similar object. The seal is partially cut off by the bottom edge of the page.

Poetry.

AT NIGHTFALL.

When in the evening's solitude,
My thought has leisure to be free,
The purer life, the higher mood,
The nobler purpose wakes in me.
But, in the cares that through the day
Constrain the mind from hour to hour,
The nobler purpose fades away,
Grows faint, and loses all its power.
So some pure star's exelling ray,
With all the beauty of its light,
Is hidden by the glare of day,
And only shines with fall of night.

FLAT FEET IN HORSES.

M. Bronson writes Prof. Law that his horse has been lame for two years, and is growing worse. Within two or three weeks after being shod, he shows lameness in one fore foot, and a little tenderness in the other, getting over it in a few days if the shoes are taken off. He shows it most when first taken out of the stable, and is inclined to walk on snow rather than hard road. Turning around short appears to hurt him more than walking straight forward. He is flat-footed, and has very tough, hard feet.

Prof. Law answers through the New York Tribune:

Flat feet are always liable to lameness, from the shoe setting down upon the sole some time after shoeing. The growth and strength of the horn should be encouraged and preserved as much as possible. When preparing for the shoe the sole should not be cut away below the level of the wall, so as to leave that without its natural support, exposed to breaking or splitting. It is better to bring the sole and wall to the same level by the use of the rasp, and to round the edges of the wall by the same means, in order to check any tendency to breaking down. Prepared in this way, these parts mutually support each other, and the wall does not so readily give way, nor allow the sole to settle down upon the sole, or bruise it.

The shoes should be somewhat longer than usual to protect the heel, and as the desired shape and form of the foot can only be attained after several successive shoeings, it is often needful to apply a round bar shoe so as to throw a portion of weight on the frog until the rest of the foot is sufficiently strong to bear it alone. The shoeing should be done by the best workman you can secure, and the toughness and growth of horn should be sought by daily smearing of the hoof—sole included—with a mixture in equal parts of tar and lard.

GRASSING A TERRACE OR BANK.

"To use the most improved method for covering a bank of earth with grass, there is just one satisfactory way," if time and uniformity of the surface are important. This is to cover it with sods, taken from a road side or from an old pasture-field. A heavy seedling of white clover and red-top will make a good finish where the soil does not wash and gully away; but alone they are hardly reliable for terrace work. Upon very steep surfaces the turf may be held in place by means of wooden pins driven through it into the bank. Pieces of lath, a foot long, answer the purpose very well.—American Agriculturist.

Big Crops. A farmer near Lawrence, Kansas, raised last year eighty acres of corn, with eighty bushels to the acre; twenty acres wheat, thirty bushels to the acre. Value of the crop $4535. So says the Lawrence Journal.

Incidents.

An Englishman, Irishman, and Scotchman were found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hung. The Judge told them they could each choose the tree on which they would like to be hung.

The Scotchman promptly chose an ash tree and the Englishman an oak.
"Well Pat, what do you choose?"
"If it please your honor, I would rather be hung on a goss-berry bush."
"Oh said the Judge, that's not large enough."
"Begorra, said Pat, I'll wait till it grows."

A prudent man advised his drunken servant to pay by his money for a rainy day. In a few weeks his master inquired how much he had saved.
"Faith, none at all," said he; "it rained yesterday, and it will rain."

A young lady in town who was boasting of her teeth, was asked if they were natural or artificial.
"Neither," was the reply; "they are gutta serena."

"No, Catharine," said Patrick to his wife, "did you ever catch a lie coming out of my mouth?"
"You may well say that," replied Kate; "they fly out so fast that nobody can catch 'em."

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands Bear Testimony to their Wonderful and Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK.

Made of Pure Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirit, and Refine Liqueurs doctored, spiked and sweetened with the tasteless and harmless Apples.

"Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from all the most valuable and healthful ingredients from all the most famous vineyards.

THEY ARE A GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER AND A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Restorer and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in the young or old, these Bitters have no equal. They are a true and reliable Medicine, and a true and reliable Medicine, and a true and reliable Medicine.

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., APRIL 1st, 1871.

Miscellany.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WAKEFIELD, MAR. 27, 1871.
To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Stoneham, with its granite hills and other landscape scenery, reminds me of Quincy. It was here that I received some of my first impressions, and am now receiving my last. I looked around for familiar objects,—the pedagogue and old school house, where we were taught not by precept, but by the twig how the tree should be inclined,—but they had all disappeared. Lost even to memory.

The town is very pleasantly located, is of modern growth, and has some very fine public buildings, and private residences, good enough for a merchant prince, or country 'Squire. It is very compact,—the centre of the town is the whole town, it has but few surroundings. Manufactories,—of which there are a variety,—has given activity and an impetus to business here,—in fact, it is the main stay,—the shoe business, in particular, is carried on very extensively. The operatives, as they go and return from their labor, gives a very lively appearance to the streets, like a holiday.—There is a weekly paper printed here, the Stoneham Sentinel, the size of the Patriot, equally prepossessing, with all the freshness, and originality to make it an interesting local paper. There is a job office in connection,—all new materials, and with an experienced head the best of work is turned out. No railroad passes through the place, but they have a horse car, which connects with the Maine branch, which gives them all the advantages of that road. As to its political caste I have not been informed. It used to be democratic. But I have my suspicions, that, like some other communities, it has backslidden from the true faith to worship other gods.

A NEW HEALTH JOURNAL. Health and Home is the title of a new Health Magazine, of 44 pages royal octavo, just issued in very neat form by W. R. De PUTY & BROTHERS, 805 Broadway, New York. In their prospectus the publishers promise a high-toned, practical health journal, not in the interest of any medical party or clique, but one which shall "gleam from all fields, hold under contribution all schools of medicine, and seek aid from all intelligent accessible teachers." The first number now before us has a varied and inviting table of contents, which needs only to be seen in order to awaken attention. The publishers offer it to subscribers at $1.50 a year, and call for canvassers in all parts of the country, to whom they will pay large cash commissions.

There is one thing that can always be found, and that is fault.

A NEW INVENTION. A burial casket has been made of hard india rubber, by Messrs. Shearer and Wright, of Albion, N. Y. It claims to be superior to the metallic burial case, which it is designed to supersede, being much lighter and cheaper and capable of being hermetically sealed in five minutes, whereas the same work on the metallic case occupies at least an hour. It can be made to imitate all kinds of woods,—the lightest and darkest. It can be made nearly as low in price as the cheapest wooden coffin, and much cheaper than rosewood. Its durability is its greatest merit however, a most satisfactory test having been made of a piece of the material it is made of, which was exhumed after being buried fourteen years, and showed no change even in color.

Chemists and scientific men pronounce the material the best possible for the purpose.

Microscopic photography has been the most interesting, if not the most important, scientific event of the war, and every body has read with wonder of the London Times having been sent into Paris reduced to the size of the palm of the hand. The opportunity is now offered to our citizens of obtaining copies of this wonderfully minute publication, in which the photographic process reproduces the work of the printing press. Messrs. L. H. Rogers & Co., No. 61 William Street, New York, for twenty-five cents, will supply all who are curious on the subject with four pages of the London Times or eight pages of Harper's Weekly that might have come from Lilliput.

NOTICE!

To Whom it may Concern.

WE, the Selectmen of the Town of Quincy, in consequence of the alarming spread of a disease known as the Hoof and Mouth Disease among Cattle in this State; do, by the authority vested in us, by Chapters 210 and 220 of Acts of 1860, hereby forbid all persons or corporations from driving or taking neat cattle from, to, or through this Town, either by public or private conveyance without permit in writing from the Selectmen.

And we require that any person who knows or has reason to suspect the existence of any such disease among the cattle in his possession, under his care, or in his vicinity, shall forthwith give notice to the Selectmen of this Town under penalty of the Statutes, as follows: "By fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year."

Welcome the Washing Day!

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW!

Washing reduced to a Science by using the

CHAMPION

Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN. Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

- 1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.
- 2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.
- 3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.
- 4th. It washes the whole garments at once.
- 5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.
- 6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.
- 7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.
- 8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

CARELESS FOLKS. The average of careless people so maintained with surprising exactness, and they keep pace with the ratio of the population in cities and large towns. A gentleman connected with the post office has made this subject a specialty. The examination of the post offices in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Chicago, show that the number of letters that are dropped into the box without a stamp or without a direction, keep pace with the increase of population. Nine-tenths of letters without direction are love letters, or letters about lotteries or kindred matters. All such letters have to be opened to see where they are to go, and people who indulge in that kind of writing should look sharp.

OYSTERS. The area of the oyster beds of the Chesapeake and its tributaries is computed to embrace 3000 acres. These beds yield to commerce about 25,000,000 of bushels annually, and it is stated that a sufficient quantity besides is taken to form the chief provender of 20,000 persons. We learn from a review of the oyster trade of Baltimore for the last year, that the capital employed in that city in carrying on the canning alone of the oyster is $10,000,000. About 8,000,000 bushels of oysters are consumed by the packers, one-fourth of which are packed raw in cans and shipped to various points, packed in ice, while the remainder are steamed slightly and sealed hermetically in cans of one, two and three pounds each.

A New Bedford merchant recently detected a prominent citizen in the act of stealing from his store. Having missed a number of articles of value during the past year, the merchant thought it a good chance to get square, and therefore presented a bill of $115, which the "respectable citizen" paid rather than be exposed.

IRON RUST. This may be removed by salt mixed with a little lemon juice.

CAUTION

FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

Dr. W. W. Physician and Surgeon, No. 1 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhoea, Menstrual Disorders, &c., are all treated on new pathological principles, and relief guaranteed in a very few days. No moral certainty is the new mode of treatment, the most delicate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted persons rejoice in perfect health.

Dr. W. has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of women than any other physician of Boston, and is prepared to receive patients who may wish to consult with him a few days under his treatment.

Dr. W. since 1846, having confined his whole attention to the cure of female diseases, has a large and successful office practice for the cure of female diseases.

Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

A PLEASANT SURPRISE. A large and animated party of the parishioners and friends of Rev. Mr. Hall and wife paid them an unexpected visit on Tuesday evening last—the tenth anniversary of their marriage.

Instead of following the old and stupid custom of carrying each a separate parcel of tin and thus lumbering up the house with duplicated and unserviceable ware the whole affair was prearranged and all acted in concert to procure a few choice and beautiful articles of real value.

The company took possession of the house, hustled the gentleman and his lady out of range, and quietly laid the table with near a hundred dollars' worth of silver, china and tin ware and other presents.—Mr. Carter then presented them with a few impromptu but appropriate remarks and Mr. Hall responded with true warmth and earnestness.

Without further formality the party blended and chatted for two or three hours and had withal a most sociable and enjoyable time.

THE CALFSKIN ROBBERY. We have but a few facts in addition to those already given to our readers in regard to this robbery. The State Constables Garey, Porter and Bailey have continued their search, and on Saturday morning last found a few more pairs of vamps which had been stolen, although not from Mr. Page, but by other parties who have identified them. The State Constables in searching for this stolen property have won for themselves no small amount of credit. Since they started, a few weeks since, in pursuit of the calfskins, they have worked with untiring zeal and energy. Many a long midnight hour have they watched, and we are happy to say it has not been all in vain.

NEW LOCATION. We understand that the Trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank have made arrangement with John Quincy Adams, Esq., for the occupation of very eligible rooms in his building, No 84 Hancock Street, for many years known as the "Quincy Bookstore," and more recently, until its removal to its present location—occupied by the Post Office, which will be at once fitted and furnished in a secure and suitable manner for the permanent use of the Bank. This will give the Bank ample accommodations in what is beyond all question, the most favorable, pleasant and accessible location available for its purpose.

QUARRIES AT AUCTION. We are requested to call the attention of our readers to the large sale of quarry lands advertised in our columns by Mr. Faxon. The tract comprises about fifty acres, with quarries partly opened but which have been worked under temporary leases only. It is centrally located, easy of access, and will be sold in lots. Estates of this description are not often offered at auction in this market. The proximity of the new railroad and the demand for building uses will tend to enhance the value of this property.

The deed of this land is in the hands of the heirs of the late Josiah Bass, and is probably the oldest document of this kind to be found in this town, or perhaps in the county. The deed was given in the time of King George IV.—1765.

At an adjourned parish meeting of the Universalist Society, held on Fast Day, the members after electing a Treasurer, and also a Parish Committee for the ensuing year, which consisted of Messrs. W. Abernethy, Jos. W. Lombard and William Parker, Jr., let about one-quarter of the pews in the Church at auction. The said pews have recently been given to the Society, and this is their first effort in letting them at auction, which proved quite successful.

LECTURE. Rev. Dr. Manning's lecture on "John Brown," next Monday evening, will be given in the Lecture Room of the Orthodox Church. Tickets at the door at 25 cents. Tickets admitting to this lecture and Rev. W. H. H. Murray on the 17th, and also to the readings of Prof. Churchill, 50 cents.—to be had at Messrs. Clapp and Holden's stores.

PLYMOUTH COUNTY RAILROAD.

A hearing was given the petitioners for the Plymouth County Railroad, on Thursday, March 16th, before the Legislative Committee, at the State House. According to the Traveller there was a very large attendance, and much interest was manifested in the proposed road by those living in the several localities through which the road would pass. B. W. Harris, of Boston, Perez Simmons, of (Assinippi) South Scituate, and H. Farnum Smith of Quincy Point, appeared as counsel for the petitioners. No opponents publicly appeared.

The proposed road starts at Hill Village, South Scituate, near the Unitarian Church, and there follows the old Plymouth mail stage route to Queen Anne Corner, thence parallel and adjacent to Main street crossing the South Shore road at grade near the West Hingham station, thence by a direct line across Weymouth Back River, near Beal's Cove, passing in an accommodating manner through the thriving manufacturing village of North Weymouth, crossing Weymouth Fore River, near Town River Bay, thence running northwesterly and connecting with the Old Colony road at some point near the Wollaston station.

The length of the road is 16 3/4 miles, and the estimated expense about $462,000.

The road would pass through well settled and business localities, now very poorly provided with railroad facilities. The following are some of the statistics presented. South Scituate village is about 3 1/4 miles from the Duxbury and Cohasset Railroad (now under construction), 4 miles from Hanover Branch Railroad and 10 miles from the South Shore Railroad at North Hingham (which latter depot is now mostly used). The people of South Scituate would use the Plymouth County Railroad as being the nearest.

Here are 18 shoe manufacturing firms doing an average business each of $60,000 per annum, employing 40 hands each, and paying for freight on an average $500. There are also 3 steam trunk and box factories (one temporarily suspended) using each a million feet of lumber, employing 20 hands each. All this freight would go by the new road. There are 8 stores here, each paying an average of $600 for freight. The grain and flour business of each averages $5000 yearly. Nine water mills and two other steam works are also here.

The above figures exclude the part of South Scituate nearest Hanover Branch Railroad, and includes the portion of Marshfield and Hanover nearest the new road. The valuation of South Scituate is $1,300,000; population, 1700.

The South Hingham yearly business is as follows: 26,000 bushels of grain, 300 tons coal, 1500 merchandise, 15,000 passengers. Wooden ware and hatchet manufactories are situated here.

At Centre Hingham the yearly business is 7000 bushels of grain, 920 tons of coal, 3500 merchandise, 1800 passengers. Here are cordage, jute and baggage factories.

At No. Weymouth 15,000 bushels of grain, 1200 tons coal, 2800 of merchandise, and 19,000 passengers are transported for this village yearly. The shoe business here is extensive.

At Quincy Point 16,000 passengers are conveyed yearly.

Witnesses from the several villages on the route gave strong, favorable testimony to the need of the road. Among the witnesses were David Whiton, C. E. Fogg, engineer, E. S. Beal, James M. Jacobs, and N. C. Nash, A. C. Cushing, and Edward Stowell on the part of the Selectmen of South Scituate.—Hingham Journal.

CHOICE FRUITS, PLANTS, ETC. We would call the attention of our readers to the card of Mr. Issiah White in our columns. Those in want of choice fruit will find all kinds, and the best the market affords, at his store on Tremont street, Boston, under the Horticultural Hall. His stock of flowers and plants are always very attractive and equal to any that can be found in the city. He also has a good assortment of rustic and wire work, and of fancy pots for plants. His delicacies for the sick are much prized by all who have tried them. Let those of our readers in want of any of these articles give him a call, and they will be much pleased with our advice.

The Massasoit steamboat company are building a new wharf on the opposite bank of the river from where they have landed at the point in former years,—or in other words on the Weymouth side, close to the bridge. They have also commenced erecting quite a commodious hotel for the accommodation of the traveling public. On Fast Day they erected a handsome staff some seventy-five to one hundred feet in height, and flung the Star Spangled Banner to the breeze.—The Massasoit will commence running the first of June as usual.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank, held at the Banking Room, on Tuesday, April 4th, 1871, the Treasurer submitted the following report which was accepted, and the dividend therein proposed was declared.

REPORT.
In accordance with the By-Laws of the Quincy Savings Bank, the Treasurer herewith submits to the Board of Trustees the fifty-second semi-annual Report:—
GEORGE L. GILL, Treasurer of Quincy Savings Bank in account with said Bank.
Dn.

NATIONAL SAILORS' HOME. The Trustees of the National Sailors' Home, at Wollaston, being desirous of having it in the charge of a man who should unite the qualifications of a good superintendent and good physician, have selected from the several applicants, our former townsman Dr. W. L. Faxon, of Chicago.

Dr. Faxon's experience has admirably adapted him for the situation, having been a Surgeon in the army, and Surgeon in charge of the Fifth Army Corps Hospital, City Point, Virginia, where besides skill as a Surgeon, the detail and care and general oversight of a practical superintendent were needed. From all we can learn Dr. F. was the man for the place. His new position will bring into demand the same qualifications which we have no doubt will be as well displayed as then, and we congratulate the Doctor and the Institution upon their association.

A tape-worm 80 feet long was removed from a girl only ten years old, at West Stafford, Ct., the other day.

It is estimated that there are 3,000,000 cows in the country, the dairy product of which annually is 3,000,000,000 pounds of cheese, and 575,000,000 pounds of butter.

The mumps are very prevalent in Boston, at the present time.

The public debt was reduced $11,011,260.55 during the month of March.

Thirty-six flocks of wild geese passed over Sandwich, in one day recently.

Marblehead has determined to fence in and preserve, as a relic of the kind in New England, an old fort built in 1670, to afford protection from Indian attacks.

PASTURAGE.
PERSONS having horses or cows that they wish to get pastured, will be accommodated by applying to HENRY H. FAXON, Quincy, April 8.

Administrator's Notice.
NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been duly appointed Administrator of the estate of MARTHA T. GLOVER, late of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, deceased, and has taken upon himself that trust, by giving bonds, as the law directs.

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased, are required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to the undersigned, on or before the 1st day of May, 1871.
ROBERT N. GLOVER, Administrator.

ACCIDENTS. Mrs. Charles H. Packard, more familiarly known as "Aunt Hitty" met with quite a bad accident on Sunday last. She was nursing at Mr. William Chubbuck's, at the Point, and when her foot slipped, and in putting out her hand to save herself, broke her arm badly near the wrist.

A daughter of Mr. John Hayes, who resides near Scotch Pond, stumbled over a stone one day last week and broke her leg just below the knee.

A little son of Mr. Daniel Sullivan had his hand jammed in the machinery at Mitchell's ledge a few days since, fracturing two of his fingers quite badly.

Dr. Gilbert attended known as these patients and we are pleased to say they are as comfortable as their cases will admit.

Mrs. John Packard, met with a terrible scald some days since. She accidentally upset a kettle of boiling water, burning one of her feet, in a shocking manner.

ELECTRIC SOAP. We have used in our family for quite a number of weeks Delapierre's Electric Soap, and we are happy to say it has given the best of satisfaction. We can say with pleasure that it is the best white soap we ever used for washing white cloths and flannels, and is much preferable to yellow soap. The same amount will wash more clothes, and make them look much whiter and cleaner, than anything we ever tried. We would invite ladies who wish to have their clothes look white to try it. See advertisement on the first page.

The weather yesterday was unusually warm—so much so that our composers were pleased to open the windows and doors.

AUCTION. Our readers should not forget the sale of horses, carriages, harnesses, etc., this afternoon, in front of the Town House. See notice.

DRESSES. We would call the attention of the ladies to the card of Mrs. Dole, in our columns. They should not fail to examine her new system for cutting ladies' and children's dresses, as it is the most perfect method ever introduced.

Summary Intelligence.

An Irish fox hunter manages to get along with a trifle over seven hundred pounds, which he maintains at a cost of $3000 per annum.

The great bell on Notre Dame, Montreal, is the largest but one in the world. It weighs over 10,500 pounds, and can be heard forty miles.

Postage stamps of the denomination of seven cents have been issued by the Government, designed to pre-pay letters to Germany.

A tape-worm 80 feet long was removed from a girl only ten years old, at West Stafford, Ct., the other day.

It is estimated that there are 3,000,000 cows in the country, the dairy product of which annually is 3,000,000,000 pounds of cheese, and 575,000,000 pounds of butter.

LIGHT WANTED.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

A correspondent of yours has taken it upon himself to enlighten us as to the meaning of the Jewish and Christian Scriptures, a subject in which I have myself been interested for more than half a century past. When younger than I am now, I had read the New Testament through upon my knees, having read it in that position with the hope of receiving more divine illumination in that way. I studied the Bible, for a few years in Andover, Mass., not far from the minister factory in that place. I have read the Scriptures, for myself, in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and somewhat in a few other languages, and together with such commentators thereon as Scott, Dr. A. Clarke, Benson, Wesley, Dr. Coke, and Barnes, having omitted no opportunity or means within my power, for obtaining a correct understanding of the "Holy Scriptures."

And now, as I am still in want of "more light," I beg leave to request your correspondent to give me the "Chapter and Verse," of the Bible, where I can find the words, "law ground," of which he has made use in his article. I suppose I may understand, perhaps, what Mr. Jones means, by this phrase. And hence the difficulty, he is "wise above what is written." He means, that before Christ, and under the Jewish Dispensation, men were "under the law," or such as are not justified by faith in Jesus. Now, the Jews were not so justified; and yet, the Jews are declared to have "seen God face to face." Moses, Aaron, Nadab, Abih, and seventy of the elders of Israel all at one time "saw God face to face." These men, were mediums, between God and Humanity. Moses says of himself, "I stood between the Lord and you."

All the writers of the Bible were mediums, between God and the "rest of mankind." Jesus was such a medium; and he declares of himself, that he had seen the devil fall like lightning from heaven. Mark, 10: 18. It requires mediumistic eyes to see a sight like that!

Now, it seems to me we should be careful not to attempt to be "wise above what is written," as this is forbidden. The Bible must not be added to, and nothing taken from it. If it declares, as it certainly does, that God cannot be seen and at the same time, he was seen, the difficulty is explained by supposing, that the different writers of the Bible entertained different opinions on that subject, similarly as they do at the present time, a thing which does not seem to me very wonderful.

J. H. HOBART,

New Great Bargain

Clothing House,

536 Washington Street,

Cor. Kneeland St., Boston.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact, that I have taken the elegant and commodious store formerly occupied by RYDER & PRINCE, and am now ready to cater to the wants of all in need of anything to be found in a

First Class Tailoring

AND

Clothing Establishment

The Custom Department is complete in New and Choice Fabrics of almost every hue, style and quality, and is under the charge of superior First-Class Talent and we guarantee perfect satisfaction and promptness.

The Ready-Made Department is given great attention to, and our garments will be found much better made and trimmed, cut with more ease and style, and will be sold at a less price than is usually charged for inferior garments. Our stock in this department consists in part of

Olive, Drab, Brown and Black

Mixed Spring Over Sacks,

Blue and Black Tricots, and Blue,

Black and Dahlia Castors,

Dress Suits,

Mixtures, Diagonal and Stripes

IN BUSINESS SUITS,

and Nobby Pants and Vests.

The Boys and Youth's Department is a specialty with us, and will at all times be full of attractive goods.

Parents will do well to examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

In Furnishing Goods and

Hats and Caps we are determined to have no superiors, and OUR PRICES shall at all times be the LOWEST.

ONE PRICE FOR ALL!

J. H. HOBART,

536 Washington Street,

Poetry.

TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

To-day, man lives in pleasures, wealth, and pride;
To-morrow, poor—of life itself denied.
To-day, lays plans for many years to come;
To-morrow sinks into the silent tomb.
To-day, he's clad in gaudy, rich array;
To-morrow, shrouded for a bed of clay.
To-day his beauteous image we extol;
To-morrow, in ash-heap of the soil.
To-day, he has delusive dreams of heaven;
To-morrow, cries too late to be forgiven.
To-day, he lives in hopes as light as air;
To-morrow, dies in anguish and despair.

Farmers' Department.

NOW AND THEN.

We would like well to know how much better off the farmers of to-day are, than those of thirty years ago. Consider the value of land then, and its price now. Consider the price of labor then, the best of hands at $12 per month, and the miserable help now at more than twice the sum. A hired man at those days worked from six in the morning till seven at night on an average. Consider the rate of taxation then, and that of to-day. Has the price of farm products increased with the price of land and wages? Are farms as productive now as they were then? Is not more labor needed to produce a crop now than was necessary then? Has machinery enabled the farmer to grow better crops than were formerly produced? Do farm products pay a higher rate of interest on their present value, than they did at that time? Are farmers better able to raise and harvest their crops now, with all their machinery, than they were then? Can they do it cheaper? We say no; emphatically no.—Exchange.

THE "BARTLETT" PEAR.

The Boston Traveller, in referring to the announcement that the Bartlett estate, on Dudley and Magazine streets, is to be sold, recalls the history of the Bartlett Pear. Mr. Enoch Bartlett, the former owner of this estate, was vice-president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, for many years, and was quite an eminent horticulturist. Some forty years ago, he brought from this estate to one of the meetings a choice pear, never before seen by the members. Mr. Bartlett and the members of the society supposed it to be a seedling pear, and out of regard to Mr. B. it was named the "Bartlett Pear." But, in point of fact, this was an old English pear, well-known there as "William's Good Christian," and had been imported by Mr. T. Brewer, who built the Bartlett house and laid out the grounds, some time about the year 1815. But the estate being after a few years sold, and passing into other hands, the history of this tree was not known until Mr. Bartlett's introduction of it to the Massachusetts Horticultural Society made it famous.

HOW TO MANAGE SETTING HENS.

1. Set the hen in a place where she will not be disturbed.
2. Give a large hen twelve or thirteen eggs, medium sized one ten or twelve, and a small one eight or nine.
3. Don't let the hen come out of the sitting-room until she has hatched, but keep her supplied with gravel, food and water.
4. When chicks are hatched, leave them in the nest for eight or ten hours.
5. Don't meddle with the eggs during incubation; turning them once a day, and all such nonsense is apt to prevent the eggs from hatching.—Southern Farmer.

Anecdotes.

A stranger was riding about taking a view of Hartford, Conn., passing over College Hill, on the west side of the park he noticed the fine bronze statue of the late Bishop Brownell and inquired of the driver:
"Who is that?"
"I don't know," was the reply; "one of them brass insurance men, I s'pose."
"Thin Man" "Boy, what's that hungry dog following me for?"
"Boy" "He thinks you're a bone, I reckon."

A foreigner, who heard of the Yankee propensity for bragging, thought that he would beat the natives at their own game, and, seeing some very large water-melons on a market-woman's stand, he exclaimed, "What! don't you raise larger apples than these in America?" The quick-witted woman immediately replied, "Apples! anybody might know you are a foreigner; them's gooseberries!"

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., APRIL 8th, 1871.

The glorious uncertainties of the law are forcibly exemplified in a case between two farmers in Bloomfield, Ct., who brought before the courts a troubled about the ownership of a load of manure, valued at one dollar and fifty cents, in 1869, which has led to suits and cross-suits until settled at the last session of the Court of Common Pleas, the total cost of the amusement being not less than $500 to plaintiff and defendant.

A case occurred at Providence, R. I., recently in which a will was proved fraudulent by a simple circumstance which has been used before for a similar purpose. The rightful heirs were satisfied that the will was a forgery, but could not prove it until their attorney thought of examining the paper on which it was written, and it bore the mark "A. P. Co.—superfine," which none but the Agawan Paper Company's paper bears. It happened that their first paper with that designation was made and sold in 1860, but the will was dated in 1855, five years before such paper was made, and proved itself a fraud without further testimony.

A San Francisco undertaker claims to have a new method of preserving the dead human body. By this process he petrifies it. He exhibits a body that he petrified in July, 1868, and it shows no signs of decay. When struck it gives out a "ringing metallic sound." The color of the flesh is not changed.

Experiments on Mount Washington the past winter show that periods of intense cold are felt there from twelve to twenty-four hours sooner than in the country below.

There has not been a death in the village of North Truro, Cape Cod, for two years.

C. M. FAIRBANKS, House Painter, Grainer, AND PAPER HANGER.

Is prepared to do any amount of work required in the best manner. Special attention paid to hanging wall paper, whitewashing, whitening ceilings, &c. I shall employ none but first-class workmen.

NOTE. To those who intend to have their house painted and papered inside, I would say, the earlier they send me their orders the better, as warm, pleasant weather in the spring always brings an immense amount of outside painting, while inside work can be done in stormy March as well as any other time.

C. M. FAIRBANKS, 51 Hancock St. Quincy, Feb. 18.

Franklin Coal.

To the Inhabitants of Quincy.

The undersigned is the sole Wholesale Agent of the Genuine Franklin Coal of Lyken's Valley.

OWEN ADAMS of your town, is the only dealer to whom it has been supplied. All other parties advertising Franklin Coal are borrowing its reputation with which to aim off an inferior article.

Boston, C. S. W. B. FOWLE.

BRILLIANTS. One of the finest qualities in a human being is that nice sense of delicacy which makes it impossible for him ever to be an intruder or bore.

A Western editor, speaking of a rogue who lives in his vicinity, says:—"The rascal has broken every bank and jail and Sabbath we had in the country for the last five years."

An economic fellow says when his stockings wear out, he sews up the tops straight across, and puts them on his foot the other way, thus making a good fit for square-toed boots.

"Well, Mrs. Smith," said Mrs. Jones, "if I'm anything, I'm a Unitarian; what religion are you?" "I ain't quite certain what they call it, but my old man says he's a vegetarian."

"I forget a great many things which have happened in a year," said a little girl, the tears running down her cheeks; "but I can never forget the angry words I spoke to my dear dead mother."

QUINCY MARBLE WORKS.

THE Proprietor would respectfully announce that he has enlarged his premises, by the addition of a Ware-room, where

EVERY VARIETY OF Monumental Work

from the simplest grave stone, to the Most Elegant and Costly Tablet, may be seen finished and ready for lettering.

All persons needing such, are invited to call and judge for themselves,—they are sure to find in so large a Collection what will suit their taste and requirements.

The character of the place for good work and honest dealings is so well known that it is not necessary to refer to it.

All prices from ten dollars upwards.

JOSHUA H. SPEAR.

Quincy, Nov. 6.

An old farmer named Jenison living in Wapello county, Iowa, recently came into possession of a legacy of $10,000,000, left him by a relative in England, which it was necessary for him to go after. When he received the news he was hammering on a barn which he was building. He paused, scratched his head, and finally said: "I don't see how I can go now; I've got this barn to finish!"

Selectmen's Meetings.

NOTICE!

To Whom it may Concern.

WE, the Selectmen of the Town of Quincy, in consequence of the alarming spread of a disease known as the Hoof and Mouth Disease among Cattle in this State, do, by the authority vested in us, by Chapters 210 and 220 of Acts of 1869, hereby forbid all persons or corporations from driving or taking neat cattle from, to, or through this Town, either by public or private conveyance without permit in writing from the Selectmen.

And we require that any person who knows or has reason to suspect the existence of any such disease among the cattle in his possession, under his care, or in his vicinity, shall forthwith give notice to the Selectmen of this Town under penalty of the Statutes, as follows: "By fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year."

Welcome the Washing Day!

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW!

Washing reduced to a Science

by using the

CHAMPION

Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN. Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.

2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.

3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.

4th. It washes the whole garments at once.

5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.

6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.

7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.

8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

Quincy, Sept. 10.

THE "KEYSTONE" NEW FAMILY

Silent Feed Sewing Machine.

UNDOUBTEDLY the Strongest and Lightest! The Best and most Perfectly Finished! Its Movements as Speedy and as Light as any other Machine.

It uses a straight needle, making a tight lock-stitch perfectly fair on both sides.

It has the new patent needle-holder. No springing or bending of the needle in changing from coarse to fine, thereby avoiding all dropped or missed stitches.

It uses the Celebrated Patented Shuttle-Carrier, no race or groove employed. No soiling or oiling of thread. No friction or wearing of the shuttle.

It also uses an improved and patented "silent feed" and positive take-up.

This New Family Sewing Machine is

THE GREAT DESIDERATUM

so long and anxiously looked for, in which all the essentials of

A Perfect Machine

ARE COMBINED.

SEWING MACHINES.

KEATING & SPEAR Agents for the Original

Howe Sewing Machine Improved.

Its points of excellence are simplicity of construction; symmetry of form; beauty of finish; rapidity and stillness in operation, ease with which it can be managed; non-liability to miss stitches, having a moveable head, which can be readily adjusted close to the shuttle, when using either the finest or coarsest needle; a shorter and smaller needle, in proportion to the size of the thread, than used with any other machine; the Lock Stitch, alike on both sides of the fabric; economy of thread; strength and firmness with which the seams are drawn together; roundness; fullness; regularity and beauty of stitch; adaptability to the widest range of work, sewing the finest and coarsest fabrics, and using equally well the finest and coarsest grades of Silk, Cotton and Linen Thread.

Parties about purchasing a Machine are invited to call at their store and see them in operation.

Each Machine is furnished with a Hemmer, Feller, Braider, Quilter and Gauge, 12 Needles, assorted, 6 Bobbins, 2 Needle Plates, 1 Screw Driver, 1 Oil Can, and printed directions for using the Machine.

Machines sold on Monthly installments.

A THIRD PARTY. Dr. Emmons, the able New England divine, met a pantheistic physician at the house of a sick parishoner. It was no place for a dispute. It was no place for any unbecoming familiarity with the minister. It was no place to inquire into the age of the minister, especially with the intent of entangling him in a debate; and above all, where the querist was too illogical for any logical discussion. But the abrupt question of the pantheist was—
"Mr. Emmons, how old are you?"
"Sixty, sir; and how old are you?"
"As old as creation," was the triumphant response.
"Then you are of the same age with Adam and Eve?"
"Certainly, I was in the garden when they were."
"I have always heard that there was a third party in the garden with them, but I never knew before that it was you."

The six oldest Congregational clergymen in the State are the Rev. Joseph Richardson of Hingham settled in 1806; the Rev. Dr. Storrs of Braintree, 1811; the Rev. Dr. Nelson of Leicester, 1812; the Rev. Dr. Ide of West Medway, 1814; the Rev. Dr. Joseph Allen of Northfield, 1816; the Rev. Leonard Withington of Newbury, 1816. Two of these venerable men are Unitarians and four are Trinitarians.

A cautious look around he stole, his bags of clink he chunk—and many a wicked smile he smole, and many a wink he wunk.

MAXIM FOR BUSINESS MEN. A short advertisement four times is better than a very long one once. Brag is a good dog, but Holdfast is better.

Don't fear to have a small advertisement by the side of a large one. The big one can't eat it up.

Several small advertisements, with your name repeated every time, will avail more than the same collected with your name only once.

Don't take down your sign in dull times. People read newspapers all times of the year.

There is no instance on record of a well sustained system of judicious advertising failing of success.

When people see a man advertise, they know he is a business man, and his advertising proclaims that he is not above business, but anxious to do it.

DAUGHTERS TO SELL.

Daughters to sell! Daughters to sell!
They cost more money than Least tell;
Their education has been sacrificed—
What wealthy young nobleman wants a mate?
They sing like nightingales, play as well—
Daughters to sell! Daughters to sell!

Here's fine daughters, my daughters, oh!
German, Italian and French they know;
Dance like Sylphides for grace and ease;
Choose out your partner, whichever you please,
Here's a new wife for a rich young swell—
Daughters to sell! Daughters to sell!

Beautiful daughters, dark and fair,
Each a treasure to suit a millionaire;
Or to pair with any duke's heir
At St. George's Church by Hanover Square.
Hoy! you that in lonely mansions dwell,
Daughters to sell! Daughters to sell!

Buy my dear daughters! Who wants a bride,
That can give her a carriage and horses to ride,
Stand an opera box for his name's sake,
And no end of acres of crinoline?
Ever new furniture, jewels and plate,
All sorts of servants upon her to wait;
Visits to Paris, Vienna, and Rome;
Is short all that has been brought up to a home.
If you are girls for your money, I out you can sell!
My daughters to sell! My daughters to sell!

Report of Committee

ON THE Adams Academy and Public Library.

The undersigned, a Committee of the town to whom were referred those articles in the warrant for the annual town meeting in reference to the Adams Academy and Adams Library as well as to the establishment of a Public Town Library, having carefully considered those subjects, respectfully present the results of their deliberations to the town in the form of a series of resolutions or votes, which together with, in their judgment, if adopted, constitute a complete and efficient organization for the operation of these institutions.

The series of votes which the Committee recommend the town to sanction is appended to this report.

The Committee have adopted this mode of reducing their conclusions to a definite shape in order that the voters of the town may conveniently examine the details of their plan, and easily present any desired modification by a simple motion to amend. They also thought that no other form would so readily adapt itself to the practical requirements of a town meeting.

The Committee also think it proper to submit along with the results which they have reached, a brief statement of the reasons which have influenced their decisions.

The Committee were charged to advise the town as to the best way of further executing the trust assumed by it, when it accepted the lands granted to the inhabitants of Quincy, by Ex-President John Adams. Mr. Adams evidently intended to found, and the town agreed to maintain a classical school with the funds to be derived from those lands; and now that the Supervisors of those estates declare their powers in regard to the school to be exhausted with the completion of the building, the responsibility for further action must rest with the people of the town. It is for them to say, subject of course, to the obligations imposed in the deeds, what kind and grade of school shall be kept in that building, and in whose hands its oversight and management shall be placed.

With regard to the library which accompanied the lands, the Committee wished to see if it might not be possible to make it more easily accessible and more generally useful than it has heretofore been. The Committee were still further directed to take immediate steps to establish a public town library with the proceeds of the licenses upon dogs, which the town has appropriated to this purpose.

The Committee first visited and examined the building recently finished, standing upon the Hancock lot, and designed by the Supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund to meet the requirements of their trust. They found it to be a substantial and well finished edifice, adapted to accommodate a school of moderate size and equal to the reception of a library of about twenty thousand volumes.
The furniture and fixtures, such as gas fittings, book cases, tables, chairs and desks necessary for actual occupation for such purposes, were of course wanting,
but in all other respects both as to lighting, warming and ventilation, the apartments were fitted with approved modern apparatus and stood ready awaiting their tenants. The North room is already occupied in part by the Adams library according to the specific direction of the deeds of gift. But the number of this interesting collection is quite disproportion-ed to the capacity of the room, and it might if necessary be perfectly well disposed in a small part of it. The Committee were at once impressed with the advantages offered by this fine, vacant room for the accommodation of the public library. Why should not the town place its public library here by the side of the Adams library? The room is large, airy, well situated and almost empty. It belonged to the town. The assent of the Supervisors, if necessary, can be readily obtained. Then why not do it? In no way so surely and so easily can we render the old library accessible and useful, and bring to light the valuable stores of learning which are now hidden from the very eyes for whose enlightenment they were presented to the town. It is desirable that those books should be spread before the student, not locked away in inaccessible security. For as it is true that none of these books can be removed from the room for that very reason, it behooves us to facilitate their consultation in the room. This would be accomplished by the mere presence of the public library. Why then, divide them? The Committee are aware of no sufficient reason. The only one which has been suggested is a fear lest the public library might sacrifice something of independence by such a step. The Committee are entirely unable to discover in what manner such a loss could occur.

The two libraries will be as perfectly distinct as if the breadth of the township divided them. The Supervisors will put their books in one place, and retain their charge over them. The town will occupy the rest of the room, with its books and have its own agents to dispose of them.
Need any conflict take place? If it does the town can easily remove to more peaceful quarters.

The Committee would recommend nothing which could impair in the least the liberty of the public library. They were aware that the Adams books are accompanied with a restriction which prevents their removal from the room and they know that a great part of the value of a public library is derived from the power to borrow and take the books home for use. They agree that it would be unwise to attach any public library to this library on that account. Then the character of the collections would be entirely different, and the town would be reluctant to resign the custody of a free town library for universal popular use, to a board in whose appointment it had no voice. The recommendation of the Committee therefore looks merely to a joint tenancy without any mingling or interference in any manner one with the other.

This plan also proposes that in return for this excellent public library room, rent free, the town shall light, heat and take care of the whole Academy building.
This may all be done for a sum but little greater than each library by itself would have to pay for those purposes separate.
And in this way we concentrate all the public literary facilities of the town in the best position for effective use. Then, too, by concentrating a reading room with the books which may be done by an easy adaptation of the means at hand, the utmost public benefit may be attained at the least possible expense.

The Committee believe also that it may be obtained almost immediately. This room is ready or nearly so. All necessary accessories might be added in a few days. Energetic trustees would procure a selection of standard works sufficient for a beginning, with but little delay. Should the town regard the plan favorably not ing but the want of money would retard the speedy opening of the library. A considerable part of the one thousand dollars, which has been voted for this purpose must be expended in the purchase of shelves and essential furniture for the room. The remainder will hardly be sufficient by itself to start a public library this year. To secure a favorable outlet it is necessary to offer some variety for selection and some stimulus to curiosity. Make it more attractive than saloons.
Tempt every man, woman and child to read your good books. The Committee have therefore determined in order to enable the Trustees to go forward at once and put in successful operation a really useful library, to ask the town for an appropriation of twenty-five hundred dollars in addition to the dog taxes already voted.
But in order that the public interest may be enlisted directly in aid of this work, it is not proposed that this sum shall be paid over to the Trustees until a like sum has been raised for this purpose by private subscription. This amount the Committee believe can be obtained without difficulty, but if they are mistaken, and the people feel so little interest in the matter, it may be as well to wait a year longer, before the enterprise is attempted.

Moreover with this direct advantage to the public library we propose to combine an accessory assistance to the school also. The building is provided with a steam warming apparatus, and the labor and fuel necessary to heat the boiler for one room, will equally well warm all the rooms while the custody of the whole house can hardly cost much more than the necessary care of one-half. Certainly this outlay will be no more for both these uses here, than it must be for the public library alone elsewhere, if the rent of a large room is to be added, and yet, but for some such incidental aid it is manifest that the town must either make an appropriation for the Academy or leave it standing, empty and deserted for years to come. This saving of four or five hundred dollars to its slender fund-may be to it the alternative between prolonged apathy or immediate activity. A glance at the report of the Supervisors to the town will verify the accuracy of this statement. They tell us that they can rely with certainty upon no more than one thousand dollars of present income yearly, for the support of this school.
Now, this sum alone is quite inadequate to maintain such an institute as President Adams clearly contemplated, and such as would satisfy this town. Still it will probably be far better for this school to win its own way by its own efforts, and through a friendly poverty to usefulness and distinction, if it can, than to launch it rich and lazy upon a languid career of respectable obscurity. The evil genius which delights in thwarting the benevolent designs of philanthropic founders, is sluggishness. The history of schools such as this has a sad and warning sameness for us. Pampered and petted, for the most part, they feel no spur to exertion and quickly lapse into the sleek soporific of a dull routine, or the fat content of prosperous mediocrity.

To avert this danger we propose to add the incentive of personal interest to the school, to see if we can render it at once worth having, and partially self-sustaining. The Committee think that a moderate fee should be charged for tuition, sufficient if the school be filled, to supply any deficiency in the guaranteed salary which the Supervisors can afford to offer. Let the master who may undertake the task of building up a school here feel that his pay will depend in part upon the prosperity of his charge, and that his recompense will swell as its reputation spreads, and your Committee have taken the most solvent bond they know for a skilful, an energetic and a progressive management. In deference however to the apparent interest of the donor of the fund, the Committee decided to except all persons who might claim exemption as citizens of Quincy from any payment whatever, and the managers may remit the fee to any person to whom its payment might be oppressive.

For these reasons the Committee do not propose to ask the town for any direct appropriation for this Adams school. It will not harm it to remain poor, and active, and struggling, and ambitious for a time. But for all that, we do think that the town should grant the assistance which has been indicated as sufficient to set it in motion, and enable it to help itself and the town too, if it can.

But what shall the town aid it to become? Upon the right decision of this question depends the fate of the President's bequest. Will the action of his townsmen vindicate the wisdom of his confidence?

Ultimately of course the character of any institution assumes the type of its guiding spirit. If we would have an instrument answering readily to the requirements of an industrious and advancing civilization, we must see to it that it is kept open to the influences of the age.
We propose therefore to found our Academy upon the same broad stone which bears up our entire political system the average good common sense of common men. The Managers shall be chosen by the people, and one-third of their number shall be annually renewed in the same way that we now elect our School

Committee. The Managers are to serve without pay, and must not be members of the School Committee. As this latter exception may appear needless, and in excess if unexplained, we offer for it several reasons which seemed to us convincing. It is needless we hope to disclaim any distrust of the fitness of the members of that board for the exercise of this function. They are on the contrary eminently qualified for it in every respect, except leisure, and one other essential which happens to be the most material thing in this case. We think it peculiarly important to the people upon the policy, and system in vogue at this institution from time to time. It is entirely distinct, and widely different from our other schools in its method of maintenance, in its studies, and in its design; and it requires an independent inspection. But the habit which would gradually spring from convenience of choosing the School Committee to be the Managers, as matter of course would as surely remove this school from any particular public supervision, as it would certainly merge the Managers in the Committee. And this we think would be a misfortune, for another reason. The common course of public school education is a good and wholesome thing by itself.
It fulfills well and faithfully its allotted duty. It does not deserve to be disturbed, and it ought not to be lightly tampered with. It is a system complete, and harmonious as it stands, adapted to a well understood purpose, and acting by clearly defined methods. But this school can never be perfectly assimilated with that body. It is designed to meet another exigency, and relieve a different want.

There is always in such a community as ours, an increasing demand for an education differing in kind from that of the common schools. There is always a certain number of intellects which crave the peculiar exercise afforded by the thorough mastery of the more advanced studies, and especially need for their outlet in life, rather the power of disciplined application, than any considerable fullness of acquisition. The whole class of minds that aspire to pursue the difficult path, which lead to intellectual pre-eminence, whether in art, in literature, in science, or in professional pursuits, require a special preparation, and a specific training. It is just that which we propose to supply.

But even if these objections were less potent to making a High School of the Academy, an insuperable obstacle would still remain. The inhabitants of Quincy accepted the grant of these lands from Mr.
John Adams, on the eighth day of July, A.
D. 1822, upon certain plain conditions, by the observance of which alone they can continue to hold them. One of those conditions was in these words: "provided that all the future rents, profits and emoluments, arising from said land, be applied to the support of a school for the teaching of the Greek and Latin languages, and any other languages, arts and sciences, which a majority of the ministers, magistrates, lawyers and physicians, inhabiting in the said town may advise."

But by the statutes of this Commonwealth all High Schools must teach twenty-two different branches of learning, and be ready if any pupil demands it, to instruct him in "the Greek and French languages, astronomy, geology, rhetoric, logic, intellectual and moral science, and political economy."

It will be seen for instance that Greek is merely elective in a High School, but it is clearly obligatory in your Academy.
Indeed it was the prominent consideration in the mind of Mr. Adams, if we regard the order of its mention or the persistency with which he adheres to in every one of his three separate deeds. In the second deed he even goes so far as to recommend a method of acquiring the rudiments of that tongue which he regarded as peculiarly efficacious.

But even if the law did not thus peremptorily intervene, we could not advise the town to resign the control over a common school to any irresponsible convention of private citizens, even were they ten times as respectable as the eminently intelligent, and judicious body which Mr. Adams has invested with advisory jurisdiction over the studies of his school.

The law then will not permit us, if we would, to substitute the Academy for the High School, and our common sense refuses to erect it into a rival to that school.
There is nothing for it then, but to go up higher. Above there is an abundance of room, and by a fortunate coincidence there happens to be just at this time an unusual demand for precisely this thing, which we have already sketched in this report.

The concurrent testimony of the best authorities, who were consulted by your Committee, agrees with their own observation, that a preparatory school of a high grade, devoted exclusively to that definite object, was greatly needed at this time, and would perform a valuable part in the general plan of public education. The Academies at Exeter and Andover, and the Latin School in Boston, are believed to be substantially all the free foundations devoted to this special department of labor. Thus while the requirements for admission to the colleges, both in respect to age and acquirement, have been steadily and considerably increased, and the numbers seeking to enter have greatly multiplied, the facilities for preparation have remained stationary.—
The crowd of pupils, as well as the extended period of study preparatory to presentation for examination, urgently demand an extended accommodation.

Every consideration therefore would seem to dictate the adoption of the course which your Committee advise. Let the town dedicate this gift to the task of completing the labors of the common schools, and to the final preparation of youth for the arduous essay of the more advanced processes of intellectual development. It is the plan which President John Adams evidently himself designed, it is the one which is called for by existing circumstances, and it is that of the highest and most general usefulness.

For we ought not to think that such a school is one whit less equal and democratic than the primary school. Whoever complains that such schools are exclusive or aristocratic, must maintain that ignorance is essential to democracy, and knowledge incompatible with equality.—
Such men fail to realize that an average is affected as much by the value of its highest as by the worth of its lowest terms. Such a school is so far from being either exclusive or aristocratic that it is really the most universal and the most democratic of all schools. It stands there to hold out the hand to every aspiring mind, to strengthen the fibre of every ambitious brain, and to cheer the fiery spirit that will not be kept down, upon its way to the stars.

Now brains are things which wealth can never buy; nor can money furnish any man with intellect. Lawyers can not entail ability, genius knows nothing of estates, and the shining quality of moral supremacy never descends in families. The rich do not aspire, they are content. They are the sons of poor men who desperately fight their way to distinction. The names which men will never weary of keeping bright were mostly born in poverty and achieved their lustre through adversity.

But this is not all. It is certain that the excellence of the humblest school is in close relation with the perfectness of the highest culture. In all good learning there is nothing limited and can be nothing local. Education is universal and pervasive and every reformation in the utmost limits of its wide domain is quickly felt in every part of its sensitive frame. And to-day it is needful rather to strain the quality than to augment the quantity of education. We want a training which may strengthen the faculties rather than a process to stuff the memory;
a discipline to teach men how to think rather than re-ite, and above all a preparation which shall call out and array all the powers which God has given us to meet the stress, and the struggle of life.

Such a place of preparatory discipline
we would have this school, lacking nothing in the completeness of its methods, the faithfulness and exactness of its instruction, or the lofty standard of its excellence, which the conscientious and loving oversight of an intelligent people can devise. Such a school would be a perpetual source of pride and honor to the town, as well as the most grateful monument which its townsmen could dedicate to the memory of its illustrious founder.

VOTES RECOMMENDED.

That the Town of Quincy hereby institutes and establishes a library for the free use of all the inhabitants of the town, to be known as the Quincy Public Library.

That the town will elect a Board of Trustees of said library at the same time, in the same manner, and for the same terms, as those provided for the election of the managers of the Adams

School, and the town will each year elect two Trustees to fill the vacancies annually occurring by the expiration of terms, in the manner prescribed for the annual election of managers.

The Trustees may fill by election any vacancy occurring in the interval between the annual meetings, but such vacant term if unexpired, shall at the next annual meeting be filled by an election by the people.

The Trustees shall have authority to select and purchase with any funds appropriated by the town, or given by individuals for that purpose, such books, newspapers, pamphlets, or publications for the use of the people of Quincy, in their library, as they may deem most appropriate, useful and necessary, for such an institution; and to receive and preserve, for the same use all books which may be presented to such institution; and it shall be their duty to care for and guard the said library, and to make and enforce all useful rules and regulations as to the removal or consultation of the books, and the use of the library room or reading room.

The public library shall be arranged in the northern room of the building belonging to the town, and known as the Adams Academy, but it shall be kept entirely separate and distinct from the Adams books, which shall be preserved in an alcove by themselves.

The Trustees may fit up said room with such book cases and other furniture or fixtures as may be proper for the preservation and convenient use or consultation of the books contained in the public library and Adams library, and they shall provide all needful facilities for the free use of said libraries, by all the inhabitants of the town, under such proper and equal rules as they may deem necessary; and for that purpose they may engage and hire a librarian at a salary not to exceed five hundred dollars per annum, and make all needful provisions for the warming, lighting, custody, and care of said room and building.

The Trustees shall not interfere with any duties imposed upon the supervisors together with the settled ministers of the First Congregational and the Episcopal church of the town, by the terms of the deeds of gift of President John Adams, to the town, nor claim any supervision of the Adams library, nor shall the Supervisors meddle with the management of the public library in any way, but said Supervisors and Trustees jointly shall have charge of said room and neither shall molest the other in the free use and enjoyment of same.

That the town appropriate the sum of one thousand dollars, for the care, warming, lighting and salary of librarian of the public library and of the Adams Academy.

That the town appropriate the proceeds annually arising from Dog Licenses to the support of the public library.

That the town appropriate two thousand and five hundred dollars to the fitting up of the library room and purchase of books for the public library, provided that a like sum is raised for the same purpose by private subscription; and the Selectmen shall when they are satisfied that such sum has been actually so paid by private subscription to the Trustees of the public library, pay to said Trustees said sum of twenty-five hundred dollars.

That the building erected over the old cellar of the house of Rev. Mr. John Hancock, from the proceeds of lands given by President John Adams to the town of Quincy, shall be known as the Adams Academy, and is forever dedicated by the town to the use of a school of the first class, for the preparation of those wishing a complete liberal and collegiate education and the training of such as may design to devote themselves to the pursuit of science.

That the town will proceed forthwith to elect by ballot, six persons, to be managers of the Adams Academy,—two of them for the term of three years; two for two years; and two for one year, from the date of the annual town meeting next ensuing.

That the town will on the annual meeting next ensuing elect by ballot two persons to be managers of the Adams Academy,—two of them for the term of three years; two for two years; and two for one year, from the date of the annual town meeting next ensuing.

That the managers of the Academy shall not at any time during their term of service be members of the School Committee of the town, and the two officers shall never be held by the same person, and the managers shall serve without pay and shall report their doings annually in writing to the inhabitants of the town.

That the managers may themselves elect any person not a member of the School Committee to fill any vacancy which may occur in their number, who shall serve until the next annual meeting of the town when the inhabitants shall elect a person to serve the unexpired period of the vacant term.

The managers shall prepare and present such a plan of education to be pursued in the Academy as they may deem expedient, and in accordance with the intentions of Pres. John Adams. They may prepare a suitable code of rules and regulations for the conduct and management of the school, and enforce all needful discipline and governance therein.

That the managers may determine the qualifications, terms and conditions upon which persons may be admitted to enjoy the privileges of the school, excepting that the citizens of the town shall never be charged any fee for admission or tuition in said Academy.

The managers shall select and with the concurrence of the Supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund engage and employ a teacher learned in the Latin and Greek languages to take charge of said school and they shall have full power to direct all matters appertaining to the ordinary management of the school; but nothing in these votes shall be construed to impair any powers conferred on the Supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund, as to the management and care of the funds or property belonging to said trust.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

OMITTED. Owing to the very lengthy but excellent report of the Committee, chosen at the last town meeting to take action in regard to a public library and also the Adams Academy, we are obliged to omit Mr. Jones' reply to "L. R. S.," and much other matter of interest. We take pleasure however in presenting our readers with this report, which we hope they will read carefully, and be ready to act understandingly at a meeting soon to be called.

FIRE. The residence of Mr. Robert Codman, better known perhaps as the estate of Augustus Richards, at Quincy Neck, was discovered to be on fire about nine o'clock on Thursday evening. No alarm was given in the centre of the town, although the light from the fire was noticed by quite a number there.—The Vulture Engine Company at the Point, always prompt to duty, was quickly on the spot, and by their heroic labors the main house was saved. The ell, where the fire is supposed to have been set was nearly destroyed. The labors of the Vulture Company speak for themselves, and shows what a good company with a fine engine can do. Mr. Codman resides in Boston during the winter and spring months, and had not this season took possession; the fire therefore is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

SALES. Joseph W. Lombard, Esq., sells this afternoon at two and a half o'clock, near the Quincy station, about twenty-five cords of pine wood in lots to suit purchasers. This offers a good chance to those in want of summer fuel.

The same gentleman also sells on Monday next, the estate of the late Jonathan Baxter, on Southern Hill. The house is quite ancient, but the land is excellent for building purposes. For full particulars see notice in another column.

We would call the attention of those desiring horses or carriages to the large sale on Tuesday next, at Newton Centre, by E. C. Dudley, Esq., as will be seen by a notice in to-day's issue.

HOMEWARD BOUND. Rev. John D. Wells, the highly beloved and respected pastor of the Unitarian Society in this place, we are happy to say, is on his way home much improved in health. He is expected here the first of next week.

FANCY BREEDS. We learn that one of our citizens purchased one day the present week two hens for thirty dollars, and four more for forty dollars. We cannot learn whether he bought on the same day a lock and key, or not, but we presume he will, for such hens must certainly lay golden eggs.

LECTURE ON JOHN BROWN. A large and appreciative audience gathered in the chapel of the Orthodox Church last Monday evening, to hear Dr. Manning lecture on John Brown, and was well paid.

The subject seemed old and worn out, the character a transient one in which people had ceased to be interested. But those who heard Dr. Manning felt, before he sat down, that he had chosen for his theme no ephemeral fulgent character, but one of the most substantial, grand, and remarkable men the world has ever seen. It was a noble subject nobly handled. Polished and scholarly, enthusiastic, loving, and reverent for the old reformer and warrior saint, it was still discriminating and critical. Praise was given where praise was deserved, censure where censure was due, though there was such a mark of real ability in the man, and such a marshalling of moral beauty and grandeur, and ingenious honor in his protegee as to overshadow and conquer every defect, vindicate every mistake, and make "even his failings turn to virtues."

All went away impressed that John Brown was not a dreamer or a mushroom, but one whose character like the Puritans would ever be fresh, and ever inspiring. All wanted to know more of him, and those who had never read his life resolved to read it, and those who had, to read it again. Rev. Mr. Manning lectures next Monday evening.

Prof. Wm. Denton speaks to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon, at 2 1/2 o'clock, in Music Hall, Boston. Subject, "Prayer in the light of Science and Common Sense."

APRIL 21, 1871.

QUINCY FIRE INSURANCE CO. At the annual meeting of this Company, on the 5th inst., the following gentlemen were chosen as a Board of Directors for the ensuing year. William S. Morton, Israel W. Munroe, Whitcomb Porter, William B. Duggan, Thomas Curtis, Charles A. Howland, Henry H. Faxon, and John Hardwick, of Quincy, Charles Breck, of Milton, Ebenezer Gay, R. B. Leachars and H. W. Blanchard, Boston, Alfred Loring, Hingham, George Marston, Barnstable, Sumner A. Hayward, North Bridgewater, Royal W. Turner, Randolph, Solomon J. Beal, Cohasset, and J. Alba Davis, of West Roxbury.

William S. Morton, has been chosen President, Israel W. Munroe, Treasurer, Charles A. Howland, Secretary and W. O. Howland, Assistant Secretary.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS. The members of St. Paul's Lodge celebrated the first anniversary of their organization, at the Hancock House, on Thursday evening. After a few social congratulations, the members, together with their wives, daughters and sweethearts, at an early hour partook of one of Mr. Allen's excellent hot suppers. Nothing did "mine host" leave undone to make it inviting and attractive. About one hundred and fifty sat down to enjoy it, and after doing ample justice to the tempting dishes placed before them, they had the pleasure of listening to a few remarks from Brothers Fairbanks, Leavitt, French, Fellows, and others. The party then retired to the hall and spent a few hours very pleasantly keeping time to music furnished by Mr. Elliott. The whole affair proved a perfect success, and was very creditable to so young an organization.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS. We are informed with pleasure that J. W. Thayer, Esq., at Wollaston Heights has been appointed Postmaster, and that he opened an office at this new village on Wednesday last. The inhabitants at this place are bound to have all the conveniences and improvements of the day,—good railroad accommodations, churches, schools, stores, post office, telegraph office, &c. People located on such lovely and prominent heights, must certainly think themselves only a few doors from the "Garden of Eden" when they secure all these common conveniences, so essential to a thriving village.

A MISHAP. One of our energetic ladies who resides on School street, who enjoys occasionally a ride with her own horse and carriage, met with a singular mishap on Monday last. She drove her fine horse into a brook, in the edge of Milton, nearly opposite the Hydrant Engine house, to allow her favorite animal a chance to drink. But lo! behold! what should the beast do but lay down in the water, much to the chagrin and mortification of the driver; breaking a shaft and doing some other slight injury. But she maintained some courage, and by the aid of help succeeded in reaching home without any serious damages.

Rev. Mr. Washburn of Milton, will preach at the Unitarian Church to-morrow.

CHRIST CHURCH. At the meeting of this Society, on Easter Monday, the officers of last year were re-elected. Senior Warden—Jeffrey R. Brackett. Junior Warden—Wm. Greenough, Jr. Vestrymen—Peter Butler, Robert Codman, Peter Wainwright, Samuel G. Wyman, Charles F. Shimmis, Peter Wainwright, Jr., Elisha Packard.

Clerk and Treasurer—William L. Wainwright. Auditors—F. A. Lovering, C. C. Johnson, and Charles P. Greenough.

The work on the new Church still progresses slowly. The fresco work is completed, and the staging and other supports have been removed the present week. Workmen now are engaged in laying the second floor, and the pews can soon be put in.

TREES. It gives us pleasure to call the attention of our readers to the large and fine assortment of fruit and ornamental trees offered for sale by our townsmen, Mr. Jas. W. Rideout. There is no good reason why all owners of real estate should not have trees and shrubs, when they can be purchased so reasonable.

Hon. M. M. Fisher of Midway has been elected Chairman of the County Commissioners in place of Hon. J. M. Churchill of Milton, lately appointed a judge of the municipal court in Boston.

The annual meeting of the Norfolk County Agricultural Society was held at Hyde Park on the 29th ult. The officers of last year were re-elected.

Strawberries from Charleston are selling in New York at the low figure of two dollars and a half per quart, with stems on.

APRIL 21, 1871.

PEACE CELEBRATION. Lieut. Dittmar, with some of his friends, held a Peace Celebration at Mowseton, North Quincy, on Monday last,—the German flags floated above the beautiful green trees.—Those heavy reports at sunset that echoed up the valleys of the Neponset, and made the houses in the adjacent villages tremble, were occasioned by cartridges of Daulin, manufactured by Mr. Dittmar and exploded on the surface of the ground by electricity.

The attention of those in want of a fine pleasure yacht is called to our advertising columns.

MILITARY. Among the commissions and discharges issued from the Adjutant General's office last week, we notice the following:

Commissioned—Co. H. Captain William Boyd of Quincy, March 30, 1871, re-elected; 1st Lieut. Louis Frederick of Quincy, March 30, 1871, vice Henry Talbot, discharged; 2d Lieut. Timothy Murphy of Quincy, March 30, 1871, vice Frederick, promoted.

Messrs. Cushman & Brooks, Nos 37 and 39 Temple place, are now opening one of the finest stocks of goods ever offered in Boston at retail. Their stock of spring and summer undershirts and drawers, gloves, parasols, sunshades, French flowers, ribbons, laces, &c., comprises every variety, best quality and the latest styles. Their ladies' furnishing goods, it should be remembered, are manufactured at their own establishment for their retail trade and are of the very best workmanship.

They have just received one of the largest assortments of Roman ties, of the finest quality, which formerly sold for $1 to $1.25, but which they now offer at the extremely low price of 50 cents.—They have also received a choice lot of 300 dozen of fine linen table napkins, which they are selling at $1.25 per dozen—usual price $3. Messrs. Cushman & Brooks are the sole importers of the Josephine seamless kid gloves, and will open, Tuesday next, a splendid lot of these well-known gloves.—Traveller.

RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.

Poetry.

WORD AND DEED.

The world is rife with nobler thought
Than trembles on the tongue;
The world is full of melody,
Unwritten and unsung.
The music of a march is sweet—
But action is sublime;
And each may live a nobler verse
Than was told in rhyme.

Sleep from my sight these foolish looks
That vex my weary brain,
And I will sit at Nature's feet—
Her open page the plain—
And read a pleasant riddle
In every blade that grows;
A lyric in the lily's leaf,
An epic in the rose!

Let tinklings of the tongue or pen
To loveliness be long—
The music of a well-spoken life
Is sweeter far than song.
It likes me not, this waste of words—
Our world were not so dead,
If words and men would cease to write,
And live their verse instead!

Farmers' Department.

GARDENING AS WOMAN'S WORK.

This has long seemed to me an employment in which women would not only gain health and strength, but in which the most modest and retiring might find a congenial occupation, and the products of which are never depreciated because raised by a woman. A peck of peas has a certain market value, not depending upon the hands which raised them. A woman who works at making points receives fifty cents a day, not on account of the amount or quality of her work, but because she is a woman. A man engaged upon the same garments receives $2 a day, not because of the amount or quality of his work, but because he is a man. It is doubtless true that, in very many cases, the man does his work better than the woman; but it is not less true that, in a majority of cases, the difference in price grows out of the difference in sex. So of the school. A male teacher receives $1,000 a year, not because his moral influence is better, but because he is a man. A woman teacher a similar school, and receives $400, not because of the inferiority of her moral influence in the school, not because the pupils learn less, but because she is a woman. Now, happily, all this is avoided in gardening. A man who would sell a beet is not obliged to put on a label, "raised by a man, ten cents," and upon another, "raised by a woman, four cents," but the article brings its market value. This is a great advantage, and one affording a special gratification to women of spirit. Besides, gardening is an occupation requiring very little capital, and, except in the fancy departments, comparatively little training. Near any of the cities a woman can earn more upon a half acre of land, with four months' work, than she can earn by sewing twelve months, saying nothing of the healthfulness of gardening and the unhealthfulness of sewing.

MAKE YOUR TREES BRANCH LOW.
Train your pear trees for garden or field use, so that they will branch at a distance of one or two feet from the ground. The advantages are easily enumerated:
1st—It is easy to trim.
2d—It is easy to gather the fruit.
3d—Falling fruit is little injured.
4th—All branches being sturdy, will not be strained by over-bearing or over-weight of fruit.
5th—Soil will be kept shaded and moist.
6th—Trunk will be protected from the scorching sun.
7th—Tree will grow more and more beautiful.—Horticulturalist.

Incidents.

A deacon lost his wife, and immediately went to work making love to his housemaid, whose name was Patience. The minister came to console with the deacon upon the loss of his better half, and in doing so said, "You must have patience to support you in your troubles and tribulations."
"Ah!" sighed the downcast deacon, "I have been trying her ever since, but she seems to shy clear of me."

A sailor, who had not been to church for many years, inquired of his landlord how he should behave in case he went to church. He was told to take the first vacant seat he could find in the building, and not to speak. Jack took his seat up near the pulpit, beside one of the high deacons. The latter, when the first part of the service was over, cried out "Amen!"
"Hush, hush, shipmate," whispered the old salt, "or they will turn us both out."

"Who built the first house?" asked an ambitious school marm of a bright little girl, on "exhibition day."
"I don't know, ma'am, but I guess Noah did."
"Why do you think so, my dear?"
"Because he is the first ark-itect we read of."

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?
They are a Great Preparation as well as a Tonic, containing the purest and most valuable medicinal ingredients of the Liver, and all the Vital Elements.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Pure Ram, Whisky, Proof Spirit,
and these Livers are distilled, ripened and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonic." "Appetizer," "Restorer," etc., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California. Free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Restorer and invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisons matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain ill, provided the bowels are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bile, Biliousness, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Dropsy, Scald Head, Ringworm, Eruptions, Itch, Scars, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Taints of the Blood, of whatever name or nature, are literally rid of, and cured out of the system in about ten days by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cure the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obscured and thickened in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when it cures the blood, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TALE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, see the circulars and the circulars around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish. J. W. WALKER, Proprietor, 111 McCOSKID & CO., Druggists and General Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 and 34 Commerce Street, New York.

Welcome the Washing Day!

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW!

Washing reduced to a Science by using the CHAMPION Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN, Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.

2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.

3d. It produces a better and more thorough action than any other device yet invented for washing.

4th. It washes the whole currents at once.

5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.

6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.

7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.

8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better satisfied with your Washing is better done.

Poetry.

THE EDITOR.

Who, in this age of fire and steam!

Of two and forty common team,

Of double track and lightning speed,

Has ever stopped to think or heed

The power and motion daily seen

Expended by that strange machine,

The Editor.

The labor of his hand and brain,

Whose speed outstrips the lightning train,

To see, and think, and talk, and write,

Promiscuously, from dawn till night,

And all the while give patient ear,

To news and gossip, far and near,

Gleaned for the Editor.

Or when the news more laggard flies,

Or seems too dull for mortal eyes,

Will in a twinkling write some—

Or local, petty, curs, and ready lies,

Or when dark sins the public patience tries,

Who can more soundly sermonize,

Than the Editor.

And when the busy day is o'er,

Perchance will lay him on the floor,

And roughly, snore, an hour or so;

And write fresh homilies—verse or prose,

And set his copy, more or less

Then rush his papers to the press,

Worked by the Editor.

And still his face must wear the grin,

No matter how his "devil" sin,

Or what a "pi" his "matters" in,

Or how his patrons stare and swear,

At faults perchance not his but theirs,

And blow the Editor.

No wonder that our fathers thought

This man of wisdom—wit and wit,

Was by some evil spirit taught

This trade infernal,

For sure if a mortal be

Tormented here, if not eternal,

It is the Editor.

THE DARK HOUR.

"I can't stand it any longer, Jane. I'll go out, and perhaps something will turn up for us."

"It's a cold night, Robert."

"Cold, yes! It would have been much better for you if you had married

John Tremain," he said, bitterly.

"Don't say that, Robert; I have never regretted my choice."

"Not even now, when there is not a loaf of bread in the house for you and the children?"

"Not even now, Robert. Don't be discouraged. God has not forsaken us.

Perhaps this Christmas eve the tide will turn; better days may dawn upon us tomorrow."

Robert Brice shook his head despondingly.

"You are more hopeful than I, Jane.

Day after day I have been in search of employment. I have called at fifty places, only to receive the same answer everywhere."

Just then little Jimmy, who had been asleep, woke up.

"Mother," he pleaded, "won't you give me a piece of bread? I am so hungry."

"There is no bread, Jimmy, darling,"

said the mother with aching heart.

"When will there be some?" asked the child, piteously.

Tears came to the mother's eyes. She knew not what to say.

"Jimmy, I'll bring you some bread,"

said the father, hoarsely; and he seized his hat and went to the door.

His wife, alarmed, laid her hand upon his sleeve. She saw the look in his eyes, and she feared to what step desperation might lead him.

"Remember, Robert," she said solemnly, "it is hard to starve, but there are things that are worse."

He shook off her hand, but not roughly, and without a word, passed out.

lived in a country village where his expenses were moderate, and he found no difficulty in meeting them. But in an evil hour he grew tired of his village

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

FIRES. Between ten and eleven o'clock on Wednesday evening last, our citizens were aroused from their slumbers by the cry of fire and the ringing of bells. It was raining some at the time, but nothing daunted by the shower, many of them started for the scene of conflagration. And what were their surprise and horror to find the beautiful residence of Mr. Robert Codman, at Quincy Neck, once more in a sheet of flame. Scarcely a week previous the same premises were discovered on fire, but through the noble exertions of the Vulture Company, it was soon subdued; but on this occasion we are sorry to say it was different. It was somewhat later in the evening, and the fire had gained considerable headway before any engine arrived on the spot. So hot, also, were the flames that the engine was unable to draft water from the well as they had on the previous occasion,—thus cutting off all chance to save the building, as there was no other supply within several hundred feet.—The loss is about five thousand dollars, which is partly covered by insurance—$2,700 at the Quincy Mutual, and $1,000 in an office in Boston. The furniture was mostly saved in a damaged condition. The loss on the same is covered by insurance in Boston.

The Companies had not arrived at their engine houses before another alarm was given; which was caused by the burning of several lumber wharves, a factory and other buildings at South Boston. Loss estimated from seventy-five to one hundred thousand dollars. The fire burned with intense vigor, illuminating the whole city and the country around for many miles; and it is thought it would have been hard to subdue, if it had not been for the heavy shower about that time. An alarm was given at one time to call out the entire fire department of Boston, the scene presented such a terrific appearance.

SUDDEN DEATH. Mr. Timothy Gay, for many years an industrious and highly respected citizen of this place, died suddenly at his residence, about seven o'clock, on Sunday afternoon last, of heart disease. He had been troubled for some time with this illness, and for the last few months previous to his death was unable to travel any great distance at any one time. On Sunday he appeared in his usual good spirits and conversed nearly to the minute of his death as freely as ever. All at once, the person he was talking with, noticed he made no replies to her remarks, and on going to where he was sitting, found that life had fled. How solemn, yet how beautiful. One moment here and the next, without a struggle, in the presence of the Deity. Just one week previous to his burial we visited his household, and found him pleasantly reading a newspaper,—one week later and all that was earthly was placed beneath the sod. How solemn a warning this is to us all; and how forcibly the sentence is called to mind—"How fleeting is life."

TRIAL OF MADDEN AND MCGUIRE. The Criminal Session of the April Term of the Superior Court, held at Dedham, closed its labors on Wednesday last. Among the cases of interest to our readers were those connected with the robbery of calfskin from Mr. Page's, currying shop. Mr. Patrick McGuire, father of the young McGuire who is apparently the principal rascal in this whole affair was tried first.

From the statement of witnesses which show clearly that part of the stolen property was found in his cellar, together with other facts laid before the jury, they found him guilty, and brought in a verdict accordingly. The Judge not wishing to decide what punishment he deserved until other parties connected with the robbery was tried, has omitted to sentence him, and he will therefore be obliged to lay in jail until the next term of Court which will be held in September.

In the case of Joseph W. Madden, the jury failed to agree being eight for conviction and four for acquittal. He was accordingly remanded to jail to wait the next term of Court, in September.

PERSONAL. Rev. John D. Wells arrived home on Monday last, after a very quick passage of ten days from Liverpool. It is expected he will occupy his pulpit to-morrow.

AUCTION. Jos. W. Lombard sold on Monday last, the estate of the late Jonathan Baxter, on South Hill, to Mr. Henry Souther of South Boston, for $1500. It consisted of one acre of excellent land with an old house.

JURORS. Messrs. Joseph E. Putnam and Stephen B. Colby have been drawn to serve as Jurors at the Civil session of the Superior Court, for Norfolk County, April Term.

MAY DAY.

A return of this glad day, so full of joy for the young, is always welcomed with delight by those who take any interest in the sports of childhood. For several years past, Mr. H. B. Brown, Master of the Coddington Grammar School has made provision for the spending of the day (by the children of the Public Schools) in a most joyous manner, and one in which there could be no danger to health on account of unfavorable weather. This year he proposes to do the same thing, but on a more extended scale. The Town Hall will be open during the day and ample opportunities for marches, dances, games, &c. will be given. Ice Creams and other refreshments will be on sale in the Hall.

In the evening a grand musical and literary soiree will be given at which among others the Misses Clark and Brother, those universal favorites whose excellent rendering of the different styles of musical composition, have justly placed them in the front rank of performers, will render their choicest morceaux.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Brown will also contribute their share to the general enjoyment of the evening. Further particulars will be given next week.

BRAINTREE ITEMS.

The Braintree Savings Bank commenced operations on the 1st inst. The officers of the Bank are as follows:—
President.—E. O. Hollingsworth.
Vice President.—Joel E. Holbrook.
David H. Bates and Morton Pratt.
Secretary and Treasurer.—C. Harrison Hobart.

Trustees.—David H. Bates, F. A. Hobart, N. H. Hunt, S. S. French, J. E. Holbrook, A. A. French, B. F. Dyer, N. Rosenfield, and Joseph Dyer, Jr.

Investment Committee.—A. A. French, D. H. Bates, and N. H. Hunt.
The first deposit was 180 five cent pieces $9.00—enclosed in a bag, and transported to the bank in an express wagon, drawn by one horse. Of course, the back of the wagon was let down, and said bag unloaded in due form.

Ground was broken on the site for the new school house, at South Braintree, on the 10th inst., this house is to replace the one destroyed by fire some months since. Probably before long, ground will be broken for the new Library building.

MURRAY'S LECTURE.

On account of Mr. Murray's delaying till the last hour, to fix definitely upon an evening for the delivering of his lecture, there was very little time to advertise it, and consequently a rather small audience to hear it. His lecture which was, as he told us, the fruit of the leisure hours and by-play-thinking of four years' time, was fresh and vigorous in style, though not new in conception.—He gave us old thoughts in a new and attractive form. His refutation of the common objection that suffrage would unsex woman was well high unanswerable. It had been vaguely whispered, here and there, that this lecture did him little credit; and it is possible that he had reached his ears, for he seemed exceedingly reluctant to give it.

And if there is no measure of credit except the new and startling and sensational, then this lecture does him little honor. But if a square, strong, straightforward, and manly discussion of one of the most grave and comprehensive questions of our day—arranged in a most logical and convincing form and embellished with a style which Dickens declared was one of the most beautiful that had ever been formed in the English language, be a ground of reputation and praise, then this lecture does him honor and he need never shame to deliver it. The trouble is there is such a superficial and vulgar demand for catch-penny tricks and sensationalism in our popular audiences, that even so brave a man as Mr. Murray dreads to stand up and defy it with calm and earnest thought.

We cannot refrain from saying that we do think the stage, and the table, and the whole wretched contrivance of inconsequence, and monstrosity in the Town Hall is an unmitigated impudence to every speaker and an inexcusable disgrace to the whole town.

MILITARY ACADEMY. Candidates from the Second (Ames') Congressional District, for admission to the Military Academy, at West Point, will appear before a Board of Examiners, for Examination, in Room No. 10, Court House, Court Square, Boston, on Wednesday May 10th, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

GOOD. Virginia strawberries will be plenty this year.

For the Patriot.
THE TOWN LIBRARY.

As the town of Quincy, in the last election for the General Court, signified a liking for the Jeffersonian theory of government, it may be well to consider what function that theory would assign to a town library, if indeed it could be stretched to cover such an institution. By doing so we may avoid a blunder into which other towns have fallen, and which is to-day acknowledged and regretted by their most intelligent citizens. Upon what ground can the disciple of Thomas Jefferson justify a library at the expense of the town? He must of course assume the necessity of public schools without reference to the teachings of his master, and then argue that he may vote to tax his neighbors for a library in so far as it directly supplements the elementary instruction that the town provides. And this justification is sufficient. If our schools know how to awaken a taste for knowledge and give a correct method in English reading, the town library becomes the university brought to every man's door. It is not too much to say that by its aid any intelligent graduate of our schools may become an educated man or woman in the best sense of the word.

Now it is well known that a large portion of the funds voted to supply town libraries has been devoted to the purchase of ephemeral works of mere amusements. Of course the excuse is that these writings are chiefly demanded.—But what view can the citizens with Jeffersonian leaning take of it? He must hold that it is as monstrous for the town to tax him to supply boys and girls with the novels of Charles Read and Miss Bradton, as it would be for the purpose of providing them with free tickets to witness the Twelve Temptations and the Black Crook. Both the dramas and romances are evanescent productions created to meet the market demand for the intense and spasmodic. Their claims to patronage from the public purse are precisely similar.

So far the citizen has a right to protest as a taxpayer, without questioning the moral influence of the deluge of romantic trash that is poured upon us. But from one who is interested in the welfare of his neighbors, the protest, as I conceive, should be far deeper. For the weak point of our schools system lies just here: We take great credit for giving our boys and girls the ability to read, and then trouble ourselves very little about what they read. But this accomplishment of reading is a doubtful good if it goes no further than to give a boy the satisfaction of perusing the Poly Gazette or introducing a girl to the baggies of Mr. Griffith Gaunt and the performances of a hundred other heroes of characters even more questionable. By teaching our children to read and then setting them adrift in a sea of feverish literature which vitiates the taste, weakens the understanding, and enervates the character, we show an indifference about as sensible as that of the old lady who thought it could not matter whether her son had gone to the bosom of Abraham or Beelzebub, seeing that they were both Scripture names.

Of course in a town library of limited means the great majority of volumes should be of a popular character. They should furnish intelligible and interesting reading for the average graduate of the schools. And there is no lack of such work. The outlines of physical, physiological, and social science have been written by men of genius in simple and attractive style. History and biography, in the hands of their masters, give a healthy stimulus to the imagination and tend to strengthen the character. It is possible the Quincy library may have the advantage of a librarian, in the teacher of the Academy, who will be competent to give advice and direction to those of our young people who desire to read with an object. And if Maggie and Mollie cannot get the Pirate's Penance and the Bride's Bigamy for their Sunday reading, those fair votaries of the future may be induced to substitute some sketch of the principles of Political Economy or of the wonderful studies in Human Physiology, of which their knowledge would bless an unborn generation.

Shall our library be—what many of our town libraries have become—a rival agency to Loring's and the weekly papers for the distribution of the novels of the day? Or shall its function be to provide reading, not accessible at every corner, that shall supplement our school instruction and tend to make us wiser and better men and women? Let us have some expression of opinion on this matter that we may subscribe and vote intelligently.

STRAWBERRIES are selling in Charleston, South Carolina, at thirty and forty cents a quart, and fresh shad at twenty-five and thirty cents apiece. Green peas retail at the low figure of ten cents per quart. Other vegetables are plenty, and almost equally cheap.

Summary Intelligence.

The Rev. D. W. Waldron has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church and society at East Weymouth.

Lancaster is one of the 25 towns in this State which are out of debt. It has, moreover, $7000 in the treasury. The tax this year, it is understood, will not exceed one per cent. of the valuation.

In Butler county, Ky., recently a glass bottle was found imbedded in the heart of a large and sound poplar tree.

Newport has sent a telegram to San Francisco and got an answer in less than three hours.

Brigham Young has lost twenty-five mothers-in-law since 1865. If he were an additional weed on his list every time he lost a wife or mother-in-law, it is estimated that he would have to have a hat twenty-seven feet high.

A fashionable breach of promise of marriage case at Galway, Ireland, in which the Deputy Lieutenant of the county was the defendant, has recently terminated in favor of the plaintiff for $5000.

It has become fashionable in Illinois for the ladies, and not the gentlemen, to apply for marriage licenses.

The liquor law of Michigan authorizes any wife, child, husband or guardian to sue for a relative with intoxicating liquors, and renders jointly liable the owner of the premises on which the liquor was sold.

Brigham Young has been doing his family shopping in Chicago, his purchases comprising twenty-six dresses and mantillas for the Mesdames Young, and thirty-six swallow-tailed coats to his own measure.

A man has just paid $30 to a New York steamship company for the passage of a dog across the ocean.

They are talking in California of building a $2,000,000 ship canal by the aid of a lottery.

Foxboro' aspires to the title of "Queen Village of Massachusetts."

CHRISTIAN WEDDING. Two very pleasant parties of ladies and gentlemen met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Elliott, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings the present week, to celebrate in a quiet and agreeable manner the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, seemed to be in the enjoyment of excellent health and spirits. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents. Among the most useful and appropriate, a handsome looking-glass, in which they can steal occasionally a glance to discover the first gray hair that may intrude, or the first wrinkle on their smooth brows. After a generous collation which was partaken of by all with evident appreciation, they separated at a seasonable hour, taking with them pleasant memories to cherish, and leaving their best wishes for the continued prosperity and happiness of the happy couple.

We learn from the Folio, that Mr. Frank Millet, one of the young artists in Boston, is about departing for Europe to pursue his studies. His position as art critic of the Saturday Evening Gazette now devolves upon Earl Marble, Esq., of this town, whose contributions to the Folio, Transcript and other journals have attracted so much attention. We congratulate the Gazette upon such an acquisition to its staff as "E. M."

Prof. Wm. Denton speaks to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 2 1/2 o'clock, in Music Hall, Boston, Subject, "Tongues in trees, sermons in stones, books in the running brooks, and good in everything."

HANDEL AND HAYDN SOCIETY. The next regular Triennial Festival of the Society will be held next month, commencing on the 9th and closing on the 14th.

The chorus of the society now numbers more than seven hundred voices.

A grand orchestra of one hundred or more musicians will be engaged. MADAME ERMINIO RUBENSCHOFF and Mr. Wm. H. Cummings, two of the most eminent of London Oratorio singers are engaged, together with some of our own celebrated vocalists, among whom are Miss ADELIAE, PHILLIPS and Mr. MYRON W. WHITNEY, forming the best quartette of singers that has ever appeared in Oratorio in this country.—Negotiations are pending for the engagement of others of eminence; the names of whom will be duly announced.

The programme presented is by far superior to any heretofore attempted, and the list of assisting artists is alike worthy of attention. Due notice will be given of the time for the sale of tickets.

TEMPERANCE. On the first Tuesday of May the people of this State have the right to say whether malt liquors shall be sold in their midst, and it is suggested to us that the fact should be known, as Sealed men are not obliged to call meetings unless petitioned so to do. According to the law, ten voters must sign this document, and it must be handed in to the Board seven days at least before the time above mentioned.

In the recent investigations before the Legislature on the matter of the State Constabulary, it seems to have been proved that not only parties engaged in the liquor traffic, but those who are engaged in breaking other laws in the State, have, by the payment of money, been allowed to do about as they pleased, and owing to this fact gentlemen of well known temperance antecedents in our midst refuse longer to countenance the force, unless a careful weeding out or an entire reconstruction takes place.

PERSONAL. Capt. Nathan G. Glover, who has been absent a little over a year, travelling over the mighty deep, arrived home yesterday morning in excellent health, to receive a happy greeting from his affectionate wife and many friends in this his native place.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

This beautiful and picturesque locality where nature's charms have so long been cherished, has at last been taken possession of by busy enterprise.

Some forty-five tasteful dwellings are now completed, or nearly so, where one year ago but a single house was to be seen. Besides, some five miles of streets have in the same time been built and bordered with young shade trees.

Such tasteful thrift is well worthy the spot and its Indian renown. A spacious hotel, a strictly temperance house, just chartered by the legislature, is soon to crown one of the summits overlooking Wollaston and the Harbor. The ride is about fifteen minutes from the city, and the Old Colony and Newport Railroad gives a three years' free pass to each actual builder of a first-class dwelling. The company controlling these heights have wisely, in their deeds given, barred out all chances for liquor nuisances, while a thriving religious society with a sabbath school of about fifty, have, without a single interruption, held stated services with preaching, since September last.

It is rumored on the street, that the old Church, corner of Hancock and Canal streets, is to be fitted up, so as to accommodate ten or twelve families.

DISCHARGED. The examination at Foxborough of Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Mary Clark alias Pettie, for stealing United States bonds from the son-in-law of the latter, James W. Harris, will be remembered. The case was subsequently brought before the grand jury at Dedham, who found no bill against them and they were discharged.

CARS DESTROYED. Sparks from an engine of the Cincinnati express train ignited a kerosene oil train on the Erie road, one mile west of New York, on Tuesday afternoon, and the whole train was destroyed, inflicting a heavy loss of cars. An extra engine which was sent to save as many cars as possible, ran forty miles in fifty minutes; the first twenty miles in twenty-one minutes. Almost a mile a minute.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 16th inst., Mr. Timothy Gay, aged 65 years, and 6 months.

PROGRESS OF THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The energy with which the building of this great thoroughfare is being pushed forward is an added guaranty of its early completion and its wise management. We learn from the financial agents of the road, Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co., that, at the present date, the grading is nearly finished for 266 miles, from Lake Superior, through Central Minnesota, to the eastern border of Dakota; trains are running over 130 miles of completed track. By September next, trains will run to the Red river, and the grading will probably be far advanced toward the Great Bend of the Missouri river in Central Dakota.

In the meantime work has been commenced the present season on the Pacific coast; and before the close of the present season the length of finished track will be at least 560 miles. The new highway to the Pacific is being constructed at the lowest cost compatible with first-class work.

THE FLETCHER GENEALOGY. This work, which contains a full history of the descendants of Robert Fletcher, who came from England and settled in Concord, Mass. in 1830, is now ready for the press. More than twenty years has been spent in preparing the work, which will contain upward of 250 handsome octavo pages, with more than two thousand names. All interested in its publication, can obtain full particulars, by addressing Edward H. Fletcher, 124 West 54th St., New York.

APRIL SHOWERS.

April showers bring forth May flowers. We submit them when in bloom. So happy were we in childhood's hours, While inhaling their rich perfume. How fragrant the air, how blue the sky, So gorgeous the rising sun, It seemed to us that heaven was nigh, That our work on earth was done. That stormy blasts must come we know, Good clothing we must wear, For coats or pants or vests we go, To twenty-five Dock Street.

OF THE

Northern Pacific Railroad.

RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.

The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begin July 1st), is being pushed forward with great energy from both ends of the line. Several thousand men are employed in Minnesota and on the Pacific coast. The grade is nearly completed 266 miles westward from Lake Superior, and 130 miles eastward from the St. Paul and Pacific Road. The Northern Pacific Company is now at the head of all the grading work on the entire line of 3600 miles of completed road, and by September next will have 560 miles of finished track.

A GOOD INVESTMENT. Jay Cooke & Co. are now offering for sale, as a first mortgage, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. They have 30 years to run, bear 5 per cent. interest, and are secured by first and only mortgage on the entire road and its equipments, and also, as well as the Road is completed up to 1000 miles.

LANDS FOR BONDS. Northern Pacific R.R.'s are at all times receivable at ten per cent. above par, in exchange for the Company's Lands, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically interest bearing land warrants.

SINKING FUND. The proceeds of all sales of Lands are required to be devoted to the purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company. The Land Grant of the Road exceeds Fifty Million Acres. This immense Sinking Fund will undoubtedly cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls due. With their ample security and high rate of interest there is no investment, accessible to the people, which is so profitable or safe.

EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TWENTIES. The success of the New Government 5 per cent. Loan will outstrip the early success of United States 6 per cent. Bonds. Many holders of Five-Twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Twenties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their yearly income.

OTHER SECURITIES. All available Stocks and Bonds will be received at their highest current price to exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-Twenties. Excess charges on Money or Bonds received, and on Seven-Twenties sent in return, will be paid by the Financial Agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned. See data 31

Poetry.

I WISH HE WOULD DECIDE.

I wish he would decide, mamma,
I wish he would decide;
I've been a bridesmaid twenty times—
When shall I be a bride?
My cousin Annie, my sister Fan,
The angel knot have tied;
Yet come what will, I'm single still—
I wish he would decide.

He takes me to the play, mamma,
He brings me pretty books;
He woos me with his eyes, mamma,
Such speechless things he looks!
Where'er I roam—abroad, at home—
His fingers by my side;
Yet come what will, I'm single still—
I wish he would decide.

I throw out many hints, mamma,
I speak of other beaux,
I talk about domestic life,
And sing, "They don't propose!"
But ah! how vain each pious strain,
The wavering heart to guide;
Do what I will, I'm single still—
I wish he would decide!

Farmers' Department.

THE RHUBARB PLANT.

It has always been a matter of surprise to us that so few farmers cultivate the rhubarb or pie-plant. We regard it as quite indispensable for the table all through May, June and July; there is nothing like its refreshing acid, for making pies, tarts, sauce, etc., as healthful as they are palatable to the taste.

The plant is a hardy perennial, and it comes into use the latter part of April, and continues to sell well till green currants, gooseberries and apples come along to take its place. For the market, of course, much of the profit depends on the earliness, which is due to the soil and locality and the amount of manuring.

Now every farmer ought to raise enough for his family use. A dozen roots set out in deep rich soil will give an abundant supply for a single family. It should have a heavy dressing of manure every spring, well forked in. It is a great point to have the stalks tender and to secure this they ought to be grown rapidly under stimulating manures or a warm rich soil.

Cabon's Seedling is a late variety of a large stock, but is apt to be a little stringy when it gets to be of full size. It is very juicy. The Victoria is also a rather late variety, but grows so long and large that it is rather a favorite with the gardeners. Myatt's Linnaea is an early variety extensively cultivated for an early crop and said to be one of the best flavored of all the kinds.

But the main point is to set out a few plants this spring and take good care of them. If you have not already done so, get some; set them out and take good care to make them grow.—Ploughman.

ORCHARD AND NURSERY.

Trees for spring planting ought to be handled carefully and not allowed to become dry and shriveled; the nurseryman is often blamed for sending out poor trees, when the fault is with the planter who does not take care to preserve them properly until ready for setting. Never set out trees until the land is dry enough to work without leaving it in a lumpy condition, as the lumps will never pack close, and the air has a chance to circulate around the roots, often causing the death of the newly planted tree.

Scraping can be done at anytime, and the trees will be benefited by a thorough washing with whale-oil soap, or very strong soapuds; this destroys many eggs which are found upon the bark.

Inednotes.

"My dear Horatio, I had a very mysterious dream about you."
"What was it, dear?"
"I dreamed I saw you carried up to heaven in a golden chariot, surrounded by angels clothed in white and purple.—What is that a sign of, dear?"
"It is a sign of a foul stomach, my dear."

"Be there any letters for my marm?" inquired a ragged little urchin at the post-office window.
"What's the name of your marm?" asked the clerk.
"Tiddy Muzzy," squeaked the young one.
"Not any," replied the clerk.
"Will there be one to-morrow?"
"Can't say—call to-morrow and you shall know."

"I want to go to Albany and back, to see my grandson," said a respectable-looking, simple-hearted lady, to the ticket-seller of the Hudson River Railroad.
"We don't sell return-tickets, madam," replied the clerk, with deferential politeness.
"Don't sell return-tickets?" exclaimed the lady, with surprise. "Then I shan't go, for I wouldn't like to go away from home forever!"

"Big Sister," "Oh, papa, I must go to hear Nilsson! You know I am so fond of music."
"Juvenile brother Triumphant!" "Then why don't you play on my drum?"

NOTICE!

To Whom it may Concern.

WE, the Selectmen of the Town of Quincy, in consequence of the alarming spread of a disease known as the Hoof and Mouth Disease among Cattle in this State, do, by the authority vested in us by Chapter 410 and 420 of Acts of 1869, hereby forbid all persons or corporations from driving or taking meat cattle from, to, or conveyance without permit in writing from the Selectmen.

And we require that any person who knows or has reason to suspect the existence of any such disease among the cattle in his possession, under his care, or in his vicinity, shall forthwith give notice to the Selectmen of this Town under penalty of the Statutes, as follows: By fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year.

7-30 GOLD LOAN

OF THE Northern Pacific Railroad.

RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.

The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begun July 1st, 1870), being pushed forward with great energy from both extremities of the line. Several thousand men are employed in Minnesota and the Pacific coast. The grade is nearly completed 200 miles westward from Lake Superior; trains are running over 130 miles of finished road, and track laying is rapidly progressing toward the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the Pacific and Northern Roads, the Northern Pacific Company now has 413 miles of completed road, and by September next will be increased to at least 500.
A GOOD INVESTMENT. Jay Cooke & Co. are now selling and unobtainably recommended, as a Professionally Safe Investment, the First Mortgage Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. These Bonds are sold at 100 cents, and will pay 7 per cent.
and Three-Tenths per cent. gold interest, (more than 8 per cent. currency) and are secured by first and only mortgage on the entire road and its equipments, and also, as fast as the Road is completed.

23,000 ACRES OF LAND in every mile of road, 100,000 Acres of the Northern Pacific Railroad, are granted from U. S. Tax; (Principal and Interest are payable in Gold); Denominations: Coupons, $100 to $1,000;
Registered, $100 to $10,000.

LANDS FOR BONDS. Northern Pacific 7 3/8 and all times receivable at ten per cent. above par, in exchange for the Company's Bonds, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically interest bearing land warrants.

SINKING FUND. The proceeds of all sales of Land are required to be devoted to the re-purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company.
This ensures Sinking Fund will undoubtedly cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls
due. With their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment, accessible to the people, which is more profitable or safe.

EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TWENTIES
The success of the New Government 5 per cent. Loan will compel the early surrender of United States 5 per cent. Many holders of Five-Twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their yearly income.

OTHER SECURITIES. All available Stocks and Bonds will be received at their highest current price in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties. Excesses charged on Money or Bonds received, and on Seven-Thirties taken in return, will be paid by the Financial Agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned. For Sale by

THERE'S BLUE SKY JUST BEYOND.

BY WILLIE F. GILCHRIST.

There's a darkness hanging round me,
Heaven's light by clouds hid;
Waiting goes the tempest by me,
At the storm-kings' beck and bid.
Yet the clouds are swiftly falling,
Fast receding, passing on,
And I know the sun's returning,
For there's blue sky just beyond.

So in life, when care and sorrow
Round the heart's deepest shade,
When all things seem dark and lonely,
Do not, mortal, be dismayed;
For though dark the night and lonely,
Ever hoping, true and fond,
You will over master trouble,
And there'll be blue sky beyond.

When thy form is living lowly,
And angel death is near,
Earth and friends are passing from thee,
Let there be no doubt or fear;
For though dark the night and lonely,
With the Christian there's a host
With his Saviour, which shall bear him,
To the blue sky just beyond.

LEMON PUDDING. Quarter of a pound of suet, the same quantity of bread-crumbs, quarter of a pound of sugar, two ounces of flour, one lemon, two eggs. Finely mince the suet and mix it with the breadcrumbs and sugar; add the flour gradually.
Squeeze the juice and grate the peel of the lemon and add to the mixture; well beat the eggs and add; place in a well-buttered tin, and bake one hour and a half in a slow oven.

RHUBARB PRESERVED. Pare half a dozen oranges, remove the seeds and white rind, slice the pulp into a stew-pan with the peel cut very small. Then add a quart of rhubarb cut fine, and a pound and a half of loaf sugar; boil the whole down as for other preserves. This is almost equal to Scotch marmalade.

During a revival meeting, a good Methodist lady made a fervent exhortation, prefacing it with the remark that she once enjoyed herself by going to theatres.
An inattentive but enthusiastic brother shouted:—"So did I—bless the Lord!"

A down East paper says that persuasive and humbugging agents are about in that neighborhood selling lightning-rods. One old lady told an agent she had no fear of lightning, but she had always been afraid of thunder.

"Just so," he replied; "we can meet your case exactly. The square rods are lightning rods, and the round ones thunder rods."

Of the many chewers of tobacco in these days, there must be many who wish to relinquish the habit. We are informed that a little coarsely cut gentian root, well minced (the saliva being swallowed), taken after every meal, will soon take away all desire for the chewing of tobacco.

An anatomical observer asserted,
a few days since, that there was four hundred and eighty-nine thousand eight hundred and ninety-one feathers on the wings of a butterfly. "I don't believe it," said one of his hearers. "Then count them yourself," was the reply.

A sick man in Boston, who noticed his little daughter looking eagerly at some fruit at his bedside, said to her: "You would not take them away from your sick papa, would you?" She replied, hesitatingly, "No, I wouldn't," and then colored up and ingeniously added, "but papa, I tell a story when I say so." He gave her the fruit.

At a spiritual circle the other evening a gentleman requested the medium to ask what amusement was the most popular in the spiritual world. The reply was,
"Reading our own obituary notices."

A debating club in Worcester lately discussed the question: "Whether a rooster's knowledge of daybreak is the result of observation or instinct?"

The point a lady aims at—the point of admiration.

"May it please your honor," said,
a lawyer, addressing one of the judges,
"I brought the prisoner from jail on a habes corpus." "Well," said a farmer in an undertone, who stood at the back of the court, "these lawyers will say anything. I saw the man get out of a cab at the court door."

People of nervous temperament, or what is usually called fine sensibility,
in their joys and sorrows are ever in extremes. In adversity their depression is too deep, because they have not fortitudine to sustain it with constancy and impassion; in prosperity their elation rises too high, because they have not moderation to temper it with reflection and forethought.

There is a moral taught by the following conversation which needs to be learned by many fathers. Said a little four-year old Mother, father won't be in heaven with us, will he? "Why not, my child?"
"Because he can't leave the store."

THE LAST LOOK.

The vessel was far out from land and the hills slowly fading in the distance.—
In groups around were gathered those who had bidden farewell to home—parted forever from their native shores. All had sad faces, for memory was busy with their hearts. The year before had been one of famine and suffering.

Strong manhood, buoyant youth, pratt-ling infancy and even decrepit age were gathered on the decks of the good ship
"Ocean Bride." Some were weeping, some offering up prayers of safety that God "who holds the sea in the hollow of his hand"—some taking the last fond look at the fast sinking shores.

But there was no one that felt more deeply than the young bride of Patrick Sullivan.

More conspicuous than any they stood amidships—he with his tall iron frame rising above the others—with his open, manly face turned shoreward, with one hand around the shrinking form of his young wife, who was weeping upon his breast, and the other holding his hat extended—pointed to the island home he might never see again except in dreams.

"Cheer up, Kathleen," he said, striving in vain to keep his voice steady.
"cheer up, my dear, I know it is hard to part, but think of the country we are going to. Have you forgotten the sweet song I have so often heard you sing:—

"They say there's bread and work for all,
And the sun shines every day."

But in vain were his words. They failed to comfort her. She did not realize, as he did, the stern necessity that was driving them away, had not felt the pangs of hunger, knew nothing of vacant places by the little pent fire as many had done.

"Come, Kathleen take one last look," he said, striving to raise her head from his breast and dry her burning tears.

"I cannot, cannot," she replied as well as she was able for her sobs.

"What! not the last? A moment more and you cannot see it, the last look at your native land."

"I shall never see it again—nor any other," she answered clinging still more closely to him, "nor any other. My grave will be in the ocean. I can feel the cold waves rolling over me now."

The aged ones murmured one to the other as she was carried below. They whispered that she was not on the land and could not feel that somebody was walking over her grave; but she could feel the chilling waters and their unceasing swash—hear, perchance with spirit ears their never ending monotonies.

For days, even weeks their ghostlike croakings met with no return—there was no fair corpse for their skinny fingers to make ready for burial. The good ship held her way, though blown about by contrary winds, often baffled but never driven back, and the poor emigrants began to count the days when they should see the blessed shores of America—the land destined by God to be the refuge of the oppressed of all nations and tongues and people for all time.

"In five days, bless God," said Patrick Sullivan, "we shall be on shore Kathleen, amid the green trees and under the blue skies."

Five days? That very night the black-winged angel of Death hovered over the ship. When the morning came, with laden clouds, there was not an unterrified heart on board.

"Ship fever of the most malignant type!" whispered the surgeon to the Captain and lips whiter than the bell-ing sails took up the fearful words and repeated them.

Many were down—more to follow.—
But the very first that had been taken was Kathleen Sullivan—the first that found a grave in the ocean was her.

To describe the sorrow of her husband would be impossible. But his was not the noisy grief that finds utterance in words. It was of the kind that eats as silently as the rust into the heart of iron.
All the fault of her leaving home he took unto himself; stood in his own eyes a murderer! Is it strange then that America has no charms for him, and though he labors faithfully and sends all of his earnings to those he left behind—that his mental vision is fixed upon another country whose streets are paved with gold? Is not his bride awaiting him there?

THREE HOURS IN BOSTON.

After a good hearty tenderloin, and a cup of coffee at the Parker House, we escaped the labyrinthian streets, alleys and courts, of the so-called modern Athens, and struck a bee-line for old Quincy, where repose the remains of sturdy old John Adams and the great John Quincy, and where the granite rock is the rule, and good land in exception. In company with Mr. Mitchell of the Mitchell Granite Works, we were guided into a hole in the ground, cut and blown out of the rugged granite, big enough to hold a town. Men were at work drilling holes in the stubborn stuff, and vast stones, in size almost equal to those at Balbec and in Egypt, were being moved by powder and glycerine.
Strewn about the edge of the quarry, were rocks of every shape, being fashioned into various designs for monuments, pedestals, and columns for building purposes. The sale of granite for pedestals and bases for works of art, is increasing very fast. The quarries of Quincy yields millions of dollars per annum. It looks like labor to see them men cutting the granite; at every blow of the hammer the fire flies from the tool, and by a quarter of an inch at a time and constant work, they manage to do a considerable amount of superficial inches per day. The Mitchell Works furnish granite for nearly every city in the United States, and when we come to consider the difference between the ordinary Rutland, Vermont, marble and granite in point of durability, the difference is very much in favor of the granite; in fact, the ordinary Vermont Rutland marble in a few years, will crumble, discolor and fall;
granite, on the contrary, will stand until old Time reads finis in the doomsday-book. It is imperishable, and no important work of art should have any other foundation than one of granite.— Nothing harmonizes so well, with bronze.
There are several varieties at Quincy—the blueish, the cold gray, and the pink tints, and when polished they are splendid.

Well, after doing the quarries of Quincy, quickly, we struck "the hub" (of a small wheel) at about two o'clock P. M., and found a good fellow named Leavitt,
on Kilby street—a son of old man Leavitt —and we made up our minds to do the entire town, from that time until dark, and we did. "Accoutered as he was, he plunged boldly in," and bade me follow, which I did. He darted through a dingy court, dodged down a number of passages, which he said was the postoffice, peeped into a hole or two, and then broke out into a street about wide enough for several small children to walk through abreast, then up three pairs of stairs, we ushered ourselves into the apartments of the Artistic Bronze Company, and there saw some specimens of casting that were as sharp as the first chaser's tools could have made them—they were cast in molds at the Company's works; this is a great triumph, and will enable decorators of fine houses to furnish bronze work, such as door knobs, hinges, and other decorations in bronze at prices that will place them within the reach of all

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

TOWN MEETING. Our readers will notice by a warrant in another column, that a meeting is called on Tuesday next, to see if the town will allow the sale of ale, porter, beer, &c. in our midst. Also, to hear and act on the report of the committee of Squantum Causeway and the Adams Academy and Public Library. These are matters which are of vast interest to all of our citizens. The lengthy report of the Committee on the latter subject has been laid before our readers, and need the earnest and judicious action of the town. The Squantum Causeway has touched the pockets of our citizens on several occasions in former time, and it is hoped that at this meeting it will receive a careful consideration, so that it can be placed one side for many years to come.

IMPROVEMENTS. We were pleased to notice one day the present week the improvements being made at the Point, —one of the prettiest parts of the town, and one that Nature has done a good deal for, but man but little. But the time will certainly come, if it has not already, when the Point will commence to improve, —and quite rapidly too. The great improvements made last fall in the Newcomb place by Mr. John Federhen, attracted no little attention and now we notice he is making still greater improvements in the Brimhall estate, nearly opposite the Methodist Church. He intends putting on a fine French roof, bay windows, &c., and heating the house throughout with an apparatus in the cellar; also furnishing all parts of the house with hot and cold water, —at a cost of about ten thousand dollars. A few men of means, with the energy of Mr. Federhen, would soon put a new aspect to the looks of things in this beautiful village.

The steamboat Company are pushing their new hotel, just across the river, ahead quite rapidly, and it will soon be ready to receive passengers that may come on the boat, which will commence running its regular trips in a few weeks. The work on the new wharf the Company are building is progressing very satisfactory.

PEAR TREES. We would call the attention of our readers to the large sale of pear trees this afternoon, at South Quincy. Mr. Rideout, as will be seen by a notice in to-day's paper, offers at his residence, one thousand choice pear trees, —dwarf and standard, —at auction. This is one of the best opportunities offered our citizens for years, and many, no doubt, will take pleasure in being present. They are very handsome trees, and in all probability will be sold at very low prices, as the owner is determined to sell.

GRAND FESTIVAL AND CONCERT. We would call the attention of all our readers to the advertisement in another column of the entertainment commemorative of May Day, to be given in the Town Hall, on Monday next. The efforts of Mr. Brown to provide abundant amusement within doors, thereby removing all danger of colds, fevers, or other diseases incident to sports in the open air so early in the season, deserve approbation, at least, and as the expenses must be quite large and the admission fee quite small, a larger number must pay it or there will be a pecuniary loss to him. Let all, then, who have children and wish them to pass one of the most pleasant days of the season, send them to the Hall on Monday.

Let those who wish to have their noblest emotions called into action, repair to the Hall in the evening, where the unaffected simplicity yet soul-inspiring caroling of the Misses Clark and Brother, the rich fullness and magnificent compass of Mrs. Brown's Soprano, the joyous twittering of the "little birds" in the Interlude, the beautiful rendering of Longfellow's Wreck of the Hesperus, and last but not to some not least, the humorous selections of Mr. Brown will abundantly realize to them their wishes.

A HANDSOME MONUMENT. Messrs. Chas. H. Hardwick & Co. have just completed at their granite quarries in this place, a very fine monument which is to be sent to Detroit, Michigan, there to be erected to the memory of Hon. Lewis Cass. The designs were excellent, and the work, which has been slowly progressing for the last six or eight months, has at last been brought to completion, with the most perfect satisfaction and good taste. It is about eleven feet high, and its cost is several thousand dollars. —The monument is worthy a visit from any of our citizens who admire that which is beautiful; and, as it is open to inspection for a few days, we take pleasure in informing our readers.

FLAG PRESENTATION.

The members of Post 88, Grand Army of the Republic, while holding their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, were surprised by an assemblage of ladies marching into their room. Amidst the confusion arising from such a movement, Miss Lizzie French advanced to the front, holding in her hands a beautiful Silk Flag, and addressed the commander in the following words:—

Sir: Commander, Ladies and Gentlemen, Soldiers and Friends:

Here, to-night, among the many mementoes of the Post, and in the midst of these Soldiers tried and true, we have come to show the loyal soldiers who constitute Post 88, that their past noble services in behalf of their country, are fully appreciated, and to bestow in behalf of the Ladies of Quincy, this testimonial of their regard and friendship.

Many a long weary day and tedious night you have watched, and marched, and slept, under the folds of our Country's flag. For this Star Spangled Banner and the rights it represents, you have suffered and nobly earned the laurels that crown the soldier's brow. Of the brave and loyal hands that rallied and went forth in the troublous times of the past, to defend the honor of the country, and protect from the assaults of the in-urgent bands, many have been left behind, never to return in the ranks. When marching home, many have since died from disease contracted in the field, in the filthy and terrible stables and prisons of the war, and they have dropped into their graves, no less a sacrifice to their country than those who fell in the front of battle.

Last year when you decorated your fallen comrades graves, there were two among you, who have since answered to the Eternal Roll Call, and to-morrow this flag, which we now offer you, mayhap, will float over the grave of one whom you will then carry to his long home, from whence no traveller returns. One who fought for his country, suffered for it, now gives up his life. May this Banner of Red, White and Blue ever, as you symbolize to you, your freedom, your honor, your happiness. We place our trust in safe and honorable hands, —accept it with the good wishes of your many friends.

At the close of the address, Commander Sheen advanced and took the flag, and replied in a neat and appropriate speech, thanking the ladies for the same.

After the flag had been placed in its proper position, the ladies taking seats, the Post was called to order, and the Chaplain, Rev. Mr. Skinner, spoke in response to the call of the Commander, in well chosen words. Col. C. H. Porter responded to a call; also Quarter Master Lunt and Comrade H. B. Brown. At the close of the speech-making, the Commander in a few well chosen remarks, called our worthy Comrade and Brother, J. B. Bass, who although taken by surprise responded quite happily.

After inspecting the flag, the ladies set the tables and a collation was very earnestly attacked by the members of the Post. A pleasant hour at the tables and the company adjourned.

The flag is very handsome and will prove a great ornament, and a much needed addition, to the appearance of the Post. It is made of silk and in the corner where the Stars are, the inscription "Post 88, G. A. R." shows its belonging. The ladies have again earned the devotion and esteem of the soldiers. Such an occasion as this, preserves and keeps alive the companionship and fellow feeling of the Soldiers. Truly yours, SOLDIER.

SAVINGS BANK. Rooms in Adams Block, in former years used as a post office, bookstore, &c., are now being prepared by the carpenters for the Quincy Savings Bank. This bank will soon be moved to this location, and be under the management of its newly appointed Treasurer, Geo. L. Gill, Esq.

WEATHER. The weather is decidedly cold, and has been much colder through out this month than it was in March. —Vegetation is pushing itself forward slowly. Some cherry trees are in blossom and a few peach trees. The grass is looking finely, —the recent showers having given it quite a start. The indications are, unless the cold weather hurts the buds, that this will be a good fruit year yet there are so many things that have an effect upon the crop, it is very uncertain predicting with any certainty.

With the May number of HARPER'S, which is now out, closes the forty-second volume of that highly entertaining monthly. Among the good things in the present number is the Westover Estate, a very readable Southern sketch; an entertaining paper on Mont Blanc, giving some thrilling incidents with illustrations, and thereby showing in no small degree the dangers that our late town-man, John C. Randall and others, who have ascended this "Monarch of Mountains," were liable to encounter; the continuation of The American Baron, some more about Frederick the Great; additional chapters of Anne Furness, and several very acceptable stories, poems, and sketches, together with the ever popular Easy Chair, Literary, Scientific and Historical Record, and Editor's Drawer. For sale at Southern's.

San Domingo City is laid out in blocks like Philadelphia.

ANOTHER SOLDIER GONE.

Among the deaths this week our readers will notice with sadness that of Lieut. Wm. H. Follett. He has been for many months on a slow but gradual decline. He was taken a little over a year ago with a severe cold, or cough, which continued to increase and wear upon him, until a few days of his death. Having strong attachment for life he always put the best foot forward, and did not believe, until a very few days previous to his death, but that he should get well again. So confident was he that he should be better, that he had his garden spaded and gave a workman orders in regard to planting the same, only the week before his life fled. He was of a kind and generous disposition and won a large circle of near and dear friends. He leaves an affectionate wife and little son, of tender years, who knows not what it is to lose a father.

Lieut. Follett entered the service Sept. 5, 1861, in the Third Mass. Battery, Light Artillery, receiving the appointment of Sergeant, served in that capacity with faithfulness, and was promoted for soldierly bearing and bravery Oct. 12th, 1862, to the position of 2d Lieutenant in the same Battery. He served with great credit in this capacity, and in 1863 was appointed on the staff of Capt. A. P. M. City, Chief of Artillery, 5th Army Corps, Army of Potomac. In this position Lieut. Follett served during the battle of Gettysburg, July 1863. In November, 1863, while the army was on the Mine Run expedition, so called, Lieut. Follett was captured on the Orange turnpike, near the "mud road," leading from the Brock Pike. His train of ordnance wagons making a part of what was known as the Flying Train, occupied the position between the rear of the 5th Army Corps and the 1st Army Corps. White's Battalion of Irregular Cavalry, finding no troops near the train charged on it, and blew up several wagons, and took several prisoners among them was Lieut. Follett. He was carried to Libby prison and from there to Charleston, S. C., where he was placed among those under fire at that city. From Charleston he was carried to Columbia, S. C. where he met the late Capt. J. W. Morton, 4th Mass. Cavalry, captured in Florida. When Sherman marched through Georgia, the prisoners were moved to various places, and finally exchanged March 1865. While in prison Lieut. Follett received the promotion to senior 1st Lieutenant of 16th Mass. Battery Light Artillery, but could not muster, because of his imprisonment. He reached home in March, 1865, having served three years and six months. —Eighteen months of which in rebel prisons. His courage was of the best, and his manly and soldierly bearing superb.

The funeral services took place from his late residence, on Wednesday last, under the charge of Post 88, G. A. R., of which he was a member. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Wells, who spoke nobly and paid high tribute to the deceased. His remains were interred in the new part of the Wollaston Cemetery, recently added by the town.

WE would call the attention of our readers to the card of Mrs. Bundy, in another column. She is said to be an excellent teacher on the piano forte, and has had quite large classes in Troy, N. Y., where she has formerly resided. She can be found at her brother's—Mr. Rufus Foster—on Sea street.

HOSEA BALLOU. To-morrow is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Rev. Hosea Balloou, senior, who has been held in high esteem by the Universalist church. Memorial services will be held throughout the denomination on that day. The Pastor of the Universalist Church, of this place, will have a discourse, and services appropriate, on Sunday afternoon. The anniversary being the 35th of the Sunday school to a day will also be suitably recognized by the Sunday school in the morning. Mr. Balloou was the first to organize a movement in the American church on the basis of Unitarianism. All interested are cordially invited.

CURIOUS FACTS. New Orleans Times of the 9th inst. says:—"A great curiosity is to be seen in our city in Carondelet street, near Poydras. No less than a stationary steam engine, running without steam. Mr. Knight, having had occasion last week to bore for water at the depth of forty-seven feet, encountered a flow of natural gas, with such a pressure that on attaching it to the engine with a flexible pipe, it drove it with ease. When we witnessed it in operation, the gauge marked a pressure of twelve pounds to the square inch, and the gas from the discharge pipe was burning brilliantly. An engine, apparently furnishing its own power, and a brilliant light to see it by, comes nearer to the realization of a perpetual motion machine than any yet reached."

How clearly these facts, which comes to us so reliable, prove some of the ideas advanced only a few evenings since in this place, by Prof. Denton. He told us there was heat enough in the bowels of the earth, to run machinery, keep us warm, cook our food, and give us light. It only wanted the ingenuity of man in future ages to apply it. How some of us laughed at his idea then, little thinking it would be so soon applied even to machinery.

For the Patriot.

THE TOWN LIBRARY.

A town library has been so long desired by all our citizens, that I was sorry to see a gentleman borrowing trouble at its very outset, in his last issue.

The Jeffersonian doctrine alluded to by him, means, if I understand it, the largest right of all, consistent with the safety of the public, while the centralization policy of to-day, means that the minority has no right.

I think there need be no trouble in the selection of books in our town, where there are so many gentlemen of literary tastes and classical culture, especially as we have with us one to whom I suppose all eyes would turn as the Chairman of the Trustees, who already fills that place for the library of our neighboring city, and who, by his intimacy with such scholars as Everett, Tucknor and the gentleman now associated with him on that board, seems particularly qualified for the position.

As to week-day reading, the field of literature is so richly strewn, no judicious board of Trustees can gather amiss; while for Sundays, some may prefer the Bible, the venerable Bede, the Saintly Herbert, or the humble Channing, others may choose the Radical, Theodore Parker, Anna Dickinson or Julia Ward Howe, and it is to be hoped each may be gratified.

BRAINTREE ITEMS.

FEW ROGUES LEFT YET. Mr. Henry Abbott of South Braintree, father of Messrs. Henry S. and Hiram P. Abbott of this place, went to Boston on Tuesday last to make some purchases. After buying some groceries, he went in a store to buy a coat, leaving his horse and carriage by the door. He was in the store some few moments and on looking out, noticed that his horse, wagon, and goods, were gone, and at last account nothing had been heard from them.

QUICK WORK. Mr. John Kimball a boot manufacturer of South Braintree, was notified four weeks ago last Monday, that he must vacate the building he was then occupying. Accordingly on the following Thursday, he set carpenters to work erecting a large shop some forty by seventy feet, and it is now all completed and painted, and Mr. Kimball will move in on Monday next.

ACCIDENT. As the 2:30 train from Boston on Wednesday afternoon was leaving Braintree station, an intoxicated man named Edward Morgan, said to belong in Randolph, attempted to get on to a car, and slipped to the track, a wheel passing over and crushing one foot, two toes of which he will probably lose.

Prof. William Denton, delivers the concluding lecture of the Sunday afternoon course, at Music Hall, Boston, to-morrow, at 2-1/2 o'clock. He will reply to some of the objections to Modern Spiritualism.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

It is with pleasure we notice the prosperity which attends this Company from year to year. It has now become one of the principal fire insurance companies in this State, and we might also truly say of New England. The business done by them the past few years is really astonishing. As will be seen by a statement in our columns, the amount insured the past year exceeded ten millions dollars, and the whole amount at risk over thirty-three million. The large surplus fund last year induced the Company to increase its dividends from forty to fifty per cent. on all five-year policies and twenty-five on all others.

The success of this Company is due in a great measure to the excellent board of officers which they have been so fortunate in obtaining. They have one of the best Secretaries that ever graced an insurance office. His gentlemanly and courteous manners, together with his indefatigable labors, and close attention to the business, has in a great measure done much to advance the interest of this prosperous institution. May it continue to grow, and at the same time maintain the credit it has earned in past years, by paying all losses promptly and with as little inconvenience to the losers as possible.

The new Orthodox Church is becoming more and more attractive daily. The workmen have finished laying the floor, and will now commence erecting the pews, which are made and only waiting to be put up. A few more weeks, and those who have so anxiously watched its progress, will be pleased to see it completed.

Poetry.

HOW I CAME TO MARRY.

As I was tripping o'er the lawn
The morning rather early,
I met young Edwin face to face,
Who vowed he loved me dearly.
He prest his hand so soft and kind,
And said in words most thrilling:
By virtue of your word, sweet girl,
To wed I hope you're willing.
Dear me, said I, don't mention that—Although I feel quite willing,
He called me chameleon, and his looks
Were really soft and killing.
At length I said, with fluttering heart,
What if I should repent it?
Then why give hopes dear girl, said he,
Unless you really meant it?
Well, well, said I, don't look so sad,
I have to wish to waver.
There, be contented, and take my hand,
My heart and all forever!
And so we went that blissful hour,
Which taught, save death, can sever;
To show he's all the world to me,
I'll do my best endeavor.

Farmers' Department.

ABOUT MOWING MACHINES.

"A stitch in time saves nine," is the old adage, so a word in time to our farmers who are about to purchase Mowing Machines, may prove of much benefit to them. To begin with, let no farmer buy a machine upon the recommendation of the agent—let him examine every part of the machine minutely and be sure it is well made and of light draft—let him see the machine at work if possible, by the side of other machines and be careful and note the ease with which it is drawn through the grass, and the amount of power required to operate it, not only by the horses but by the driver. In some machines it is actually necessary for the driver to stop his team to pass an obstruction, while in others, he can drive right along by the same, his lever works so easily which rises the cutter bar from the ground. I am very much in favor of having the cutter bar and scythe in front of the drive wheels because then the driver's whole attention can be on his machine and the ground at the same time, whereas were it in the rear of the wheels the driver must sit sideways, (a very uncomfortable position on a mowing machine and quite unsafe) and his attention must be here and there at the same moment. Many of our farmer friends will doubtless differ from me on this point but let any man try it who is a novice in the art, and I feel very sure he will give his preference to the machine with the scythe in front.—Maine Farmer.

TO REMOVE POSTS.

A young farmer writing to the Boston Journal says: "Having to take down a lot of old fence this spring, and pull up the posts, which were set deep into the ground, I made use of an old device for taking out the posts without the tedious labor of digging them out, which seemed so entirely new to my workmen and my neighbors that I will describe it here, hoping it may save hard labor for some of my readers, enough to pay them for their trouble of reading this article: I took a bit of plank about as long as the posts were high, or a little less, and setting it so that the post inclined toward the post, I passed a chain around the post at the ground, then up over the plank to the ox yoke; then start up the train and the chain lifts the post straight up and out of ground. No digging around is needed, and a man and boy with a yoke of oxen, or a good horse, can take them out faster than twenty men could dig them out—a simple way, so very simple that I should not have thought to mention it if it had not seemed to astonish my friends so much."

Anecdotes.

"Jones, do you love me?"
"Yes, Sukey, I do."
"How do you know you love me, Jones?"
"Cause, whenever I see you my heart jumps up and knocks against my stomach so hard that I don't have any appetite for a week afterwards."

THINGS THAT ARE VERY FOOLISH.

For a young man to think he does himself credit by hanging round theatre-doors smoking bad cigars and paying for expensive oyster-suppers, in order to be called "liberal" by a clique of youths as soft in the brain as himself.

For a lady to be annoyed because gentlemen do not always give her the best half of the street and the nicest seat in an omnibus. She should not forget that these conventional courtesies are not her right any farther than they choose to concede them.

For an unfledged clerk to think he must buy extravagant gloves and cravats for every festive occasion, because Jones, whose father is worth thirty thousand dollars, does so. The best way of proving his manhood would be to let such things entirely alone—self-denial is better than a fortune.

For a girl to think she is establishing her character as a young lady of fashion, by allowing her mother to toil through all the drudgery of the house, and then investing her money in gaudy brooches and artificial flowers.

For a man to suppose himself a gentleman because he touches his hat to a party of splendidly dressed ladies, while he scorns to extend a helping hand to the old apple woman struggling across the street.

The United States navy now has seven hundred and eighty-six commissioned officers of various grades, and five hundred and forty-five staff officers, surgeons, paymasters and engineers. One hundred and seventy-six of the commissioned and one hundred of the staff officers are from New England.

FROZEN IN. Fishing schooner Sultana of Gloucester sailed on a codfishing voyage to Newfoundland in November last, and is still absent, having got frozen in there. A few years since a schooner belonging to Captain Charles McDonald was frozen in at the same place, and did not get thawed out until May.

SHEET MUSIC—The cry of children in bed.

Scene in a printing-office which advertised for girls to set type:

Enter young woman—Do you want to employ any one to print, sir? I saw your advertisement.

"Can you set up well, ma'am?"

Young lady blushes; she ha-n't had a beau yet, but expects that she could, if necessary.

"How much did he leave?" inquired a gentleman of a wag on learning the death of a wealthy citizen.

"Every thing," responded the wag; "he didn't take a dollar with him."

A servant girl who had just been admonished by her mistress to be very careful in 'washing up' the best tea things, was overheard shortly afterwards, in the following soliloquy while in the act of wiping the sugar-basin:

If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it. I s'pose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it, and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I should catch it.

SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

SELECT READINGS. J. W. Churchill, Professor of Education at Andover and Amherst, will give the closing entertainment, consisting of Select Readings, advertised as the last in the course of lectures being given in the new Chapel, on Thursday evening, the 11th inst., commencing at 7 3/4 o'clock. Tickets at the door, 25 cents.

Prof. Churchill ranks among the first Elocutionists in the country and those who hear him next Thursday evening will enjoy a rare treat. We understand the delay in fulfilling his appointment was occasioned by his illness.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT. The new year with this department commences with May. Some of the Companies have organized and chose their officers for the year ensuing, others have been unable to. The Selectmen have appointed Engineers but some of them have declined. For these reasons we have decided to wait until next week before giving our readers a list of officers, that it may be more complete.

AN EAST STORM. The weather the past three days has been decidedly cold and wet. Overcoats and gloves when out-doors, and a good warm fire when within, have been things most desired. Handsome strawberries have been quite plenty in Boston the past week but they have had not much demand, owing to the unfavorable weather. Grass is enjoying the rain and is growing finely. The trees also seem to be pushing forward quite fast, and are looking well.

Probate Court meets at the Selectmen's Room, in this place, on Wednesday morning next, at nine o'clock.

RELIGIOUS. Rev. Geo. W. Skinner, pastor of the Universalist Society of this place, has gone West for a few weeks. Rev. Herman Bisbee, a former pastor of the Society, will occupy the pulpit to-morrow.

WINDOW SHADES. We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement and circular in to-day's paper, of Messrs. W. W. Pratt & Co. They have a new and beautiful stock of Window Shades and fixtures, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Those about purchasing are invited to give them a call, at No. 57 Bromfield street, Boston, where they will find goods that will give good satisfaction, and at the same time prices that are certainly an inducement to those desiring to purchase. Mr. Pratt is a native of this place, and well known to the most of our citizens from boyhood. Honesty and integrity are stamped upon his brow, and those who have a chance to trade with him, can place implicit confidence in what he says. Remember the number, and the next time you are in the city for Shades, Screens, etc., just give him a call.

THE INCOME TAX. The enactment passed in July 1870, exempts two thousand instead of one thousand dollars, and reduces the tax from five per cent. to two and a half per cent. Persons are likewise permitted to deduct National, State, County, and Municipal taxes paid during the year; rent of land for cultivation, and of premises for business purposes; rent of the house and rooms occupied as a residence; and the amount paid for ordinary repairs, but not for permanent improvements. The tax is due by the 30th of April. "A penalty of five per cent. upon the amount, and of interest at the rate of one per cent. per month, is to be levied for neglect to make payment at that time, or within ten days after the collector shall have demanded the tax." The revenue officials are forbidden from furnishing returns for publication. There has been some dispute as to whether persons not having any tax to pay are required to make any returns. Commissioner Pleasanton now settles the question in this wise: "Persons whose gross income during the year 1870, estimated in United States currency, did not exceed $2,000, are not required to make income returns, nor need they make any affidavit showing that their gross income did not exceed the sum above named."

TOWN MEETING.

There was very little interest felt in the meeting on Tuesday last. Less than two hundred voters were present. The meeting was called to order by the Clerk, who read the warrant, and the meeting then proceeded to elect a Moderator, which resulted in the choice of John Q. Adams, Esq.

On the 2d article, relating to the sale of ale, porter and beer, Mr. Urbane Cudworth moved that the town prohibit their sale. He hoped all voters would vote upon this question and if a majority wanted these beverages publicly sold he should have no objections, as he was a Democrat, and was willing to abide by the majority. By request of Mr. Henry H. Faxon, the Moderator read the statutes relating to the sale of ale, &c. Mr. Henry Chubbuck hoped if there were any present who were in favor of the sale of these liquors, they would rise and give some good reasons therefor, but no one improved the opportunity.

Persons voting for prohibition were requested to rise and remain standing until counted. The Moderator appointed Henry H. Faxon and Wm. H. II. Rideout as a Committee to count the votes, which resulted as follows:—

51 in favor of prohibition and 64 against.

The next business before the meeting was the Squantum Causeway. Mr. Chas. F. Adams, Jr., made the following lengthy report, which on motion of Mr. Noah A. Glover was accepted. Believing it to be of interest to many of our readers we publish the entire

REPORT:

The Committee appointed at the regular March meeting to report the terms, &c. upon which a contract could be effected with responsible parties for rebuilding the Squantum Causeway have performed that duty and report as follows:—

After a careful examination of the ground and interviews with the neighboring land owners, the Committee concluded that a properly constructed road at this point would have to be raised above the flow of the tide, and would require a filling of two feet above the level of the existing road, being in all as near as might be three feet above the marsh level. To secure this filling from danger of wash it would have to be confined between perpendicular walls of larger stones on either side, fitted in behind with rubble to a thickness of two feet; or else the embankments must be rip-rapped in the method usual with marsh roads.

At once became a question whether the necessary amount of gravel for the filling could be procured in the immediate vicinity. The gravel pit hitherto used by the town was close at hand, but the property in this locality, including this pit, was in process of changing hands, and those having the refusal of it seemed unwilling to dispose of any of it for the purpose of constructing this causeway. It therefore became necessary for the Committee, in submitting the specifications to contractors, to separate the supply of gravel for filling purposes from the rest of the work.

This was accordingly done and proposals were advertised for according to a printed form of specification hereto annexed, which covered the whole of the proposed work, exclusive of a sufficient gravel bed in close proximity to it.

Eight proposals from different parties were received, estimating the work in either of the ways in which it was proposed to be done, whether rip-rapping the embankments or constructing the causeway between perpendicular walls. The various proposals ranged between $2.25 per running foot, or in the neighborhood of $11,100.25 for the entire contract, and $2.45 per running foot, or in the neighborhood of $5,206.25 for the entire contract. The last named sum was the lowest offer made and came from Mr. S. B. Edwards of Quincy;—it was based on the supposition that the embankments of the road were to be regularly rip-rapped in the ordinary way.

On the other proposition to construct the causeway between perpendicular walls, which would obviate any waste of material in filling the ditches on both sides of the road, the offers received varied between $4.25 per lineal foot, or in the neighborhood of $9,750.25 for the entire contract, and $2.55 per lineal foot, or $5,256.10 for the entire contract. The last named sum was the lowest offer made and came from Messrs. George W. Billings and William Mahoney of Quincy.

Mr. Edwards offered to do the work in the method last proposed for the gross sum of $5,410.00. If, therefore, the town should decide to do the work by rip-rapping the embankments Mr. Edwards has made the lowest offer. Should it, however, decide to do it by filling between perpendicular walls, Messrs. Billings & Mahoney have made the lowest offer. The lowest offer for doing the work by the rip-rapping method would seem to be ten cents per lineal foot less, than the lowest offer for closing it between perpendicular walls;—on 125 rods this would amount to the sum of $212.50.

All of these offers were of course exclusive of the cost of the gravel.

The Committee have been called upon in the first place to form and express an opinion as to which of the two methods suggested and proposed for, to construct this road it is advisable for the town to adopt. Under ordinary circumstances the method of filling and rip-rapping is undoubtedly the best and the surest to make secure such a causeway as that to Squantum;—it is that uniformly adopted under similar circumstances by the railroad companies. In the present case, however, as the rip-rapping must extend beyond the present highway and into the ditches on each side of it, the Committee feel some apprehension lest the filling in this case should sink into the marsh, and this portion of the work prove not to be permanent. The old highway it is now confidently believed has settled upon a firm bearing. A causeway erected upon this basis, and not too heavy, the Committee feel reasonably confident will stand. Perpendicular walls two feet above the present road would not be liable to a severe lateral pressure, nor would they be likely to crush down the road bed. For the reasons stated, as being likely to be more permanent, and in the end more economical, the Committee would recommend that the form of construction between two perpendicular walls be adopted.

In regard to the supplying a gravel bed for the contractor the Committee would recommend that the town now take, under the act of 1869 (Chapter 231), between one and two acres of land in the vicinity of the present graded pit at the further end of the proposed causeway. The construction and repairs of roads in the neighborhood of Squantum is likely to be continued for years to come. The town should not, in our opinion, while it can be done at a reasonable cost, delay securing the necessary material for the work.

The Committee have therefore the honor to submit the following forms of votes.

Voted.—That the Selectmen be directed to select and lay out under the provisions of chapter 237 of the acts of 1869, two acres of land in the immediate vicinity of the present gravel pit at Squantum for the public use as provided in said law.

Voted.—That the Surveyor of Highways be authorized to contract with George W. Billings and William Mahoney for the construction of the Squantum Causeway, in manner and form as set forth in the printed specification and written proposals of said Billings & Mahoney, annexed to the report of the Committee of May 1st, 1871, in regard to said Causeway.

Resolved.—That all said work to be done under the direction and subject to the approval of the Surveyor of Highways, and all payments for construction to be made only as said work shall progress and on the approval in writing of said Surveyor, and to the amount only of eighty per cent. of the value of work actually done; the final payment of twenty per cent. to be made only upon the written certificate of said Surveyor, or that the said Causeway is completely finished according to contract in a thorough and workmanlike manner.

Voted.—That the Committee on the Squantum Causeway be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

SQUANTUM CAUSEWAY.

Specification for rebuilding and grading the Causeway at Squantum in Quincy.

Said road is about one hundred and twenty-five rods (125 rds.) in length on the location of the present Causeway. The roadway to be graded twenty-four feet (24 ft.) in width, on the top of the Embankment to be crowned nine inches (9 in.).

GRADE. The height of the bottom of the crown of the Embankment is to be three feet (3 ft.) above mean Marsh level. Grade stakes will be set by an Engineer. The side slopes to be on an inclination of one and a half feet (1 1/2 ft.) horizontal to one foot (1 ft.) perpendicular.

The grading to be done with material which will be furnished to the Contractor by the town, from a borrowing pit in the vicinity which will be pointed out to the Contractor.

The Road to be graded and crowned, in a workmanlike manner, and left perfectly even and true and free from stones, in a good condition for public travel.

The best and most suitable of the material provided, is to be used for the surfacing of the Roadway.

Contractor to provide materials and protect both sides of the Embankment for its entire length and height by a good slope course of slab stones, one foot (1 ft.) in thickness and bedded so as to be true and even on the outside, as it is practically to lay "Ledge Slabs," and closely fitted.

RAILING. Contractor to provide materials and rail both sides of the Highway (twenty-two feet (22 ft.) in width, in the clear) with a good substantial railing, to consist of good Chestnut or Cedar posts, ten feet (10 ft.) long and seven feet (7 ft.) when in the ground, and not less than six inches (6 in.) in diameter at the top and set not over eight feet (8 ft.) apart on centres.

To have two rails of good pine or spruce. The upper rail 3 x 5 set flat across the post and posts spiked on with spikes seven inches long, two to a post, and the lower rail 2 x 12 inches, set vertically, close down to the top of the Embankment.

The angles of the upper rail to be chamfered, and both rails to be securely spiked to the posts in a secure and workmanlike manner.

Proposals will be received for furnishing all material exclusive of the gravel, and executing and completing the entire work, at such per lineal foot.

To be measured when the work is completed. The work to be done to the satisfaction and acceptance of the Committee appointed by the Town.

QUINCY, APRIL 17th, 1871.
To the Hon. Committee on Squantum Causeway, GENTLEMEN:—We, the undersigned, do agree to fill said Causeway one hundred and twenty-five rods. First, by building a stone wall two foot wide well backed up with small stone, said wall to be filled with gravel and well graded.

Also, set good posts not less than six inches across the top, eight feet apart, five foot in the ground and well, so as to be firm and strong. Also, place a top rail on said post, three by five, flat ways; to be fitted in a workmanlike manner. Also, fit a plank at the bottom of posts one foot wide to meet the wall. The lumber to be of the first quality of spruce. The whole work to be done in a good and faithful manner. The road to be as wide as it is now when completed.

The cost of said work to be $2.55 per foot; or round figures $5,256.10.

Voted. That the Report be accepted, and the Committee discharged.

Voted. That the town take two acres of land situated near the Causeway for the purpose of filling the same.

Voted. That the town appropriate the sum of $5,500 for the purpose of building said Causeway.

Adams Academy and Public Town Library.
The next business brought before the meeting was the Report of Committee on the Adams Academy and Public Library. The Report being very lengthy and having been published in the columns of the PATRIOT, on the 15th ult., the reading of the same was dispensed with. The votes recommended by the Committee in their Report, were read by the Moderator, and all of them unanimously adopted.

The meeting then proceeded to elect the Trustees of the Public Library and Managers of the Adams Academy, with the following result:— Managers of the Adams Academy.
FOR 3 YEARS.—Charles Francis Adams, and L. W. Anderson.
FOR 2 YEARS.—Josiah P. Quincy, and Henry Barker.
FOR 1 YEAR.—Charles H. Porter, and E. H. Dewson.

Trustees of the Public Library.
FOR 3 YEARS.—W. W. Greenough, and L. W. Anderson.
FOR 2 YEARS.—H. A. Keith, and Henry Barker.
FOR 1 YEAR.—Charles Francis Adams, Jr., and Charles A. Foster.
Voted.—That the meeting be dissolved.

FIRES IN QUINCY.

The following list of fires in this town for the year ending May 1st, 1871, has been furnished for our columns by Joseph M. Glover, clerk of the Hook and Ladder Company. The list is very short, and the aggregate amount of property destroyed does not probably exceed eight thousand dollars for the year:—

Aug. 24th, 1870.—Shop on Hancock street, owned by Mr. J. Q. A. Wild, and occupied by Fairbanks Bros. Damage slight. Cause unknown.

Sept. 28th.—Barn at the National Sailors' Home, entirely destroyed. Cause incendiary.

April 13th, 1871.—House of Mr. R. Codman, on private way leading from Quincy avenue, damage slight. Incendiary.

April 19th.—House of Mr. R. Codman, which was partly destroyed the week previous, entirely consumed. Cause incendiary.

TEAS. When you go to Boston, don't forget to call at our friend Johnston's and try his Tea. He sells good Oolong at 60, 70, 80, 90, and $1.00. Very choice $1.10. The choicest, and best imported $1.30 rose flavored. Red, White, and Blue Store, 88 Union St.

CLOTHING. The attention of those persons, who are in the habit of visiting the city for clothing, is called to the store of Messrs. L. D. Boise & Co., 30 Washington street. Their store is not perhaps quite as large as some others in the city, but for good and nice fitting garments, at reasonable prices they defy competition. Their motto is "large sales and small profits," and the one price cash system makes it a very desirable place to trade. See advertisement in another column.

REAL ESTATE. The attention of persons desirous of buying or selling real estate is called to the card of E. F. E. Thayer, Esq., in our columns. He has had considerable experience in these matters, and we are pleased to say, gives the best of satisfaction. Mr. Thayer is a gentleman eminently qualified for the business, and one in whom our readers can place implicit confidence. He has in his hands at the present time numerous estates for sale, and among them is one of the costliest and finest built houses in this place.

DOGS. We presume that most, if not all, owners of dogs, in this town, have had them registered in the Town Clerk's Office, previous to this date. But, if there are any who have neglected this duty, we would remind them that it is for their interest to do so at once.

WE would call the attention of those who may have occasion for an architect, engineer or surveyor, to the card of Messrs. Whitman & Breck, in our columns. These gentlemen give particular attention to surveying and laying out private grounds. They are also prepared to furnish plans and drawings of public and private buildings at short notice, and on the most satisfactory terms.

Many of our readers, we think, missed it by not attending the sale of pear trees last Saturday. Many a handsome tree was sold at a mere song. Seldom is such a good chance offered our readers.

On the docket of the Supreme Court now in session in Worcester is a suit of the Boston and Albany railroad corporation against Walter Shanly and others, contractors of the Hoosac tunnel, the Oriental powder company and the Dittmar Brothers, to recover the amount paid for damages caused by the dualin explosion in that city a year ago.

Interesting Selections.

A gentleman in Albany, has raised from two acres, nearly all under glass, lettuce enough to clear $3000 this season.

The national debt was reduced $204,754,413 during the first two years of President Grant's administration, and the annual interest diminished by $11,537,461. The monthly interest on the public debt is now $9,459,950—$1,072,503 less than March 1, 1869.

Some of the solid men of Boston are combining, in concert with others of New York, to test the constitutionality of the income tax and work for its abolishment.

There are 61,000 clergymen in the United States who divide $12,000,000 among them annually. Some of them take $10,000 a year, and others what they can get.

Strawberries in Boston are comparatively plenty, but by no means cheap.

CHARACTER VINDICATED.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

You are probably aware that I am about returning to my own country (England). I shall therefore not trouble you with any more of my writings, though, I trust, what I have written for your paper, has not kept any important matter out of its pages. You will therefore oblige me by inserting the following. As a public writer I am open to criticism like other men, and from fair criticisms, I never flinch because my writings and preaching will always bear the test of the Bible. Men may call me what they like as regards the views I hold, but I cannot allow my private character to be impeached without vindicating it. I read the letter of La Roy Sunderland's in the Patriot of last week, with delight, because I could see he was foaming and gnashing his teeth under the lash of God's truth. Such men cannot stand it, and when I got to the end of it, I found he was tainted with the same disease as his poor old father.—JOHN S. M.

When they cannot overthrow the sacred truths we advance, they attack our private character. Now, Mr. S. charges me with writing of him things that are not facts. I repeat my assertion. I am not deaf, if he is. He distinctly said that he opened the Bible and read one thing and opened it again in another place and found it contradicted. I have read it, and read it, and find it full of contradictions, so I lay it aside, and don't believe it; and they tell me that Jesus was crucified, I don't believe it. If such assertions are not plain English, then I will give up. I thank God (though I am a stranger in Quincy and cannot persuade people with the knowledge they have of me, to believe me, yet) there are too many that know Mr. S. and the views he holds to swallow his falsehood when he says he never asserted that he did not believe in the Bible. I now challenge him to make a solemn declaration publicly, if he dares, that he does believe the Bible from Genesis to Revelations. I don't mean the Bible abstractedly, for the devil believes it in that way, and in a more solemn way than Mr. S., for he trembles at its author. Now, Mr. S., if you can solemnly declare that you believe in the Holy Scriptures from beginning to end, rejoice in its truths, and publicly proclaim its doctrines, I will then willingly admit that I must have been deaf when I heard you lecture on your experience of Methodism. I have no doubt, I have trodden on a very tender spot, but I am not going to serve you as we do the children, kiss the place and make it well.

Yours, respectfully,
G. JONES, Quincy.

PUBLIC DEBT. The public debt statement of May 1st shows a reduction during April of $6,124,155. The coin balance, now in the Treasury is $105,463,979; currency balance, $12,796,860; coin certificates, $20,483,500.

THE STATE POLICE INVESTIGATION.

The Boston Journal, speaking upon this subject, says:—

"We are approaching the end of the investigation of the alleged abuses of the State Police. Those who have read the report of the proceedings have no doubt arrived at the conclusion that, for hard swearing, there have been bad men on the State Police, who have been guilty of crimes, there have been good men who have been tampered with by liquor dealers, and there has no doubt been corruption in the system, for which the dealers in liquor are just as much responsible as the members of the force who accepted the bribes which were offered."

"Major Jones has no cause to regret the evidence which has been brought out in the course of the hearing affecting him personally. Not a charge against him has been sustained affecting his integrity in the slightest degree, and the hard rubbing has only caused him to appear as he really is, an honest man engaged in the performance of duties which are of a most disagreeable nature. That he has been wise, and has done the best he could, there is not a shadow of a doubt."

STRANGE. One of the most wonderful freaks of nature in the person of man has been on exhibition in Lynn for several days past.

A few years ago, an enlargement began on the lower part of his face and chin and has been growing ever since, and now a mass of ten pounds, or perhaps more, lies loosely on his breast. It is much larger than the man's face—gives him no pain, but still continues to grow.

SINGULAR AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—In Hingham, on Thursday last, a little girl named Ryan, residing at a place called "Over the River," opened a window, and while looking out the sash came down upon her neck. When discovered she was sensible, but could not be resuscitated, and died shortly afterwards.

PERSONAL. Prof. Munroe, the eminent educationist is preparing a series of new Reading Books which will present in a condensed form the choicest selections for use, with pictorial and illustrative matter which will add to their popularity and value.

Dr. Dio Lewis is shortly to issue for the million, a deeply interesting volume for the young, on "Clasity and Health," than which no more important theme could be named.

Rev. E. P. Thwing, is having a house built near Lincoln Park, a central part of Portland, to be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. He will repeat his Seminary lectures the coming season, before the Boston Normal Institute, in charge of Dr. Lewis and Prof. Welsh of Yale College.

ROOT & CARY. The leading music publishers of the West send us The Girls of our Town, by C. T. Lockwood, a song and chorus, words by Falmestock, also a pleasant quartette by J. P. Webster, the Swell Belles of Memory. The touching words are by M. B. Stewart. The Song Messenger is a noble monthly but a dollar a year, with instructive musical papers and piano music, sheet size. "The Charm" is the last S. S. Book out and pronounced indeed a most charming compilation.

DOGS.
OWNERS of Dogs in this town are reminded that said dogs must be registered in the Town Clerk's Office during the present month. Dogs which were numbered and registered in 1870 can retain the same numbers the present year, if their owners make application therefor before the 1st of May next.
GEORGE L. GILL, Town Clerk.
Quincy, April 22, 1871.

(Extract from the Statutes of 1867—Chapter 130.)
Sec. 1. Every owner or keeper of a dog shall annually, on or before the first day of April, cause it to be registered, numbered, described and licensed for one year from the first day of ensuing May. In the office of the clerk in the city or town where the dog is kept, and shall cause it to wear around its neck a collar, marked with its owner's name and its registered number and shall pay for each license for a male dog two dollars and for a female dog five dollars.

N. B. WIERHAUSE under a recent law, all money unexpended for dog licenses, is returned by the County Treasurer to Towns, to be appropriated for "Schools or Public Libraries." All persons having demands, and also those indebted, to said firm are requested to settle the same with Mr. McLAY.

Poetry.

KEEP MOVING.

Keep not standing fixed and rooted,
Briskly venture, briskly roam!
Head and hands, where'er thou foot it,
And stout heart are still at home.
In each land the sun does visit,
We are gay where'er he tides;
To give space for wandering, is it
That the world was made so wide.

Farmers' Department.

PROPER DEPTH FOR PLANTING.

In presenting to the public any thing on horticultural affairs, we should always prefer that which is founded upon natural science, reason and practice, to that which is purely theoretical. As a veteran gardener therefore—one who for many years has given to horticulture his entire attention, I propose pointing out briefly one of the most common, and at the same time hurtful errors which prevails in tree planting. I therefore lay down as an axiom, that all trees, shrubs, plants, vegetables and herbs, should not be transplanted deeper, nor earthed up higher than they naturally grow, unless they have peculiar facilities for throwing out adventitious roots. A want of observance of this simple rule has caused the loss of millions of trees and dollars. How many fruit, shade and ornamental trees, which the proprietors hoped would become a source of pleasure or profit to them, are annually destroyed—consigning to a certain and premature death?

The same law which governs the giants of the forest, will apply with equal force to the dwarfs, to plant, shrubs, &c.—Indian corn, cabbage, beans, peas, and even potatoes, (which throw out some adventitious roots,) are all more or less injured by deep planting. It would be useless to attempt to point out in a brief article like the present the extent of this evil. Every farmer and every fruit grower may satisfy himself in a single season by practically testing its merits.

It is evident to every one who knows any thing about plants, that the stem and leaves of a tree have a particular office to perform—they inhale and exhale, perspire and evaporate. The roots have their functions also.

The point of division is the collar, whence the roots emanate. If, therefore, you plant deeper or shallower than this collar, you disorganize the whole chemical machinery of the plant—weaken its vitality and cause premature death.

Another well known fact to all who have repaired an old post fence is, that the timber exhibits a greater amount of decay just at the earth's surface, than at any other part. Every wood-chopper can tell you that the hardest and most flinty part of a tree is at the collar. From this point it grows softer and softer the higher you advance, and the same condition prevails if you go downwards to the extremities of the roots.

The Almighty who ordained all things right, ordained that the wood of the tree should be harder and more durable at that particular point (the collar) than any other, in order that it might more effectively resist the excessive tendency to decay, which it experiences there. If, therefore, you plant shallower or deeper than nature does, you violate her laws, and you pay the penalty in diseased and prematurely dying trees.—The American Fruit Culturist.

Fowls to which a portion of chalk is given with their food, lay eggs the shells of which are remarkable for their whiteness. By substituting for chalk a calcareous earth rich in oxide of iron, the shells become a light cinnamon color.

Anecdotes.

Freddy is a little one of seven years' growth, the son of a clergyman, who, with his wife, had just arrived at a new field of labor. Hearing his mother say to his father that she had been deceived by his saying the parsonage was a three-story house, when, in fact, it was only two, he said:

"Ma,"
"Well, Freddy?"
"Pa is right."
"How is that, Freddy?"
"The kitchen is one."
"Yes."
"This floor is two, and the story papa told is three."

"Ma," said a little girl to her mother, "do men want to get married as much as women?"
"Why, ma, the women who come here are always talking about getting married—the men don't do so."

A reverend gentleman was addressing a school concert recently, and was trying to enforce the doctrine that the heart of the little ones were sinful, and needed regulating. Taking out his watch and holding it up, he said:

"Now here is my watch; suppose it don't keep good time; now goes too fast, and now to slow what shall I do with it?"
"Sell it!" shouted a flaxen-headed youngster.

QUINCY, MASS., MAY 6th, 1871.

SUCCESS IN LIFE.

The great secret of success in life consists in bending all your efforts to whatever you happen to engage in. Don't let your fickleness lead you to slight your present occupation, and think lightly of it, hoping something better will turn up by-and-by. The way to get along in the world is to make every step one that is ahead, and each to follow its predecessor. For full fifty per cent. of the effort of the world is absolutely wasted in indirect, diffuse, indefinite labors. Young men start on in life without purpose or point, casting a thought neither on their fitness nor unfitness for a particular calling; now doing this thing, then that, and after that nothing; one day going on, another on the right (which is wrong) or left, the next backward, and then not going on at all, which is perhaps as bad as the whole combined. The right line in life is the one which leads straight ahead. This almost always secures success. If you are creeping, do it energetically until you can get on your feet to walk; but never try to do both at once. And when once on your feet never get on your hands and knees again; but strain all your efforts to your new life.

EXCURSION OF PHYSICIANS. The physicians of Boston started on an excursion to San Francisco, on the second of this month, for the purpose of attending the American Medical Association, which convenes in that city. The price of tickets for the round trip was one hundred and eighty dollars, and will be good for one month.

Welcome the Washing Day!
SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW!
Washing reduced to a Science
by using the CHAMPION
Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERNANCE, Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

- 1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.
- 2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.
- 3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.
- 4th. It washes the whole garments at once.
- 5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.
- 6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.
- 7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.
- 8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing's better done.

PAPER-COLLAR TRADE. The Union Paper-collar Company have since the year 1867 been seeking to obtain complete control of the paper-collar business. They have expended over $175,000 at law, and to get ready for a patent suit soon to come on, are said to have retained fifteen different lawyers, at a cash payment so far of $20,000. Of course the other parties to the suit indulge in equally extensive preparations. The sales of paper-collars are calculated at 5,000,000 collars daily, at an average cost to the public of $60,000. This fact gives a clue to how far the people are interested, and is the especial cause of anxiety among the trade. The companies having their headquarters in Boston make from 200,000 to 600,000 boxes of collars per week.

THE "KEYSTONE" NEW FAMILY Silent-Feed Sewing Machine.

UNDOUBTEDLY the Strongest and Lightest! The Best and most Perfectly Finished! Its Movements as Speedy and as Light as any other Machine.

It uses a straight needle, making a tight lock-stitch perfectly fair on both sides.

It has the new patent needle-holder. No springing or bending of the needle in changing from coarse to fine, thereby avoiding all dropped or missed stitches.

It uses the Celebrated Patented Shuttle-Carrier, no race or groove employed.

No soiling or oiling of thread. No friction or wearing of the shuttle.

It also uses an improved and patented "silent feed" and positive take-up.

This New Family Sewing Machine is THE GREAT DESIDERATUM so long and anxiously looked for, in which all the essentials of

SEWING MACHINES.

KEATING & SPEAR Agents for the Original

Howe Sewing Machine Improved.

Its points of excellence are simplicity of construction; symmetry of form; beauty of finish; rapidity and stillness in operation, ease with which it can be managed; non-liability to miss stitches, having a moveable head, which can be readily adjusted close to the shuttle, when using either the finest or coarsest needle; a shorter and smaller needle, in proportion to the size of the thread, than used with any other machine; the Lock Stitch, alike on both sides of the fabric; economy of thread; strength and firmness with which the seams are drawn together; roundness; fullness; regularity and beauty of stitch; adaptability to the widest range of work, sewing the finest and coarsest fabrics, and using equally well the finest and coarsest, and all intermediate grades of Silk, Cotton and Linen Thread.

Parties about purchasing a Machine are invited to call at their store and see them in operation.

Each Machine is furnished with a Hemmer, Feller, Braider, Quilter and Gauge, 12 Needles, assorted, 6 Bobbins, 2 Needle Plates, 1 Screw Driver, 1 Oil Can, and printed directions for using the Machine.

Machines sold on Monthly installments.

Amateur Cultivator's Guide TO THE FLOWER & KITCHEN GARDEN.

25th Edition. This work is now too well known to need full description; it contains 120 pages, beautifully illustrated, with over two hundred Engravings of Flowers and Vegetables. Also, TWO SPLENDID COLORED LITHOGRAPHS, which have been prepared at great expense. Over 2,000 varieties of Flowers and Vegetables, embracing novelties both Foreign and American fully described, to which is added a descriptive list of new and rare Gladioli, Lilies, etc. This work has been published regardless of expense, and as Mr. Bartlett, the well-known Agriculturist of New Hampshire expresses, "is far ahead of anything of the kind ever before issued from the American press." Our custom has been to charge for this work to all but our customers, but we will find that nearly all receiving it become so, and we have concluded to.

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So incurable complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon recovers in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1846, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

7-30 GOLD LOAN
OF THE
Northern Pacific Railroad.
RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.
The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begun July last), is being pushed forward with great energy from both ends of the line. Several thousand men are employed in Minnesota and on the Pacific coast.
The grade is being rapidly progressing to the westward the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the St. Paul and Pacific Road the Northern Pacific Company now has 43 miles of completed road, and by September next will be increased to at least 560.
A GOOD INVESTMENT. The First Mortgage Land Grant Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, which have 30 years to run, bear seven and Three-fourths per cent. gold interest, (more than 9 per cent. currency) and are secured by first and only mortgage on the entire line and its equipments, and also, as fast as the road is completed on 25,000 ACRES OF LAND to every mile of track, or 500 Acres of each $100,000 bond. They are exempt from U. S. Tax; Principal and interest are payable in gold; Denominations: Coupons, $100 to $1,000;
Registered, $100 to $10,000.

LANDS FOR BONDS. Northern Pacific 7 3/8's are at all times receivable at ten per cent. above par, in exchange for the Company's Bonds, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically interest bearing land warrants.
SINKING FUND. The proceeds of all sales of lands are required to be devoted to the re-purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company.
This income sinking fund will undoubtedly cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls
due. With their ample security and high rate of interest
there is no investment accessible to the people, which is more profitable or safe.
EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TENTHS.
The success of the New Government's 5 per cent. Loan will compel the early surrender of United States 6 per cent. Bonds. Many holders of Five Tenths are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their ready income.
OTHER SECURITIES. All marketable Stocks and Bonds are bought and sold at the highest current price
in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven Thirties. Express charges on Money or Bonds received, and on Seven Thirties sent in return, will be paid by the Financial Agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can

Poetry.

GRAY HAIRS.
Like the first flake of snow
On some cloud-reaching hill
While the valley below
Is blossoming still,
Though the silver shen
Mid the raven locks play,
Still the heart may be green
While the temples are gray.
Like the leaves that we first
In their faded dress see,
With the green interspersed
Of the still frail tree.
Though we gray hairs among
The dark tresses behold,
Yet the heart may be young
When the head has grown old.
Like the first starry gleams
On the brow of the night,
While the western sky burns
As the long frozen night
Though the ringlets may show
Here and there a white thread,
Yet the heart may still glow
Underneath a gray head.
Though the frost of long years
The life currents enfold,
Till the form appears
As impossible and cold
As the long frozen night
At the pole, still the head
Never yet was so white
That the heart was quite dead.

Summary Intelligence.

OLD RIBBONS RENEWED. Wash in cold suds made of fine soap, and iron when damp. Cover the ribbons with a clean cloth, and pass the iron over that.
If you wish to stiffen the ribbon, dip it, while drying, into gum arabic water.
HOW TO CLEAN OIL-CLOTHS. If you wish to have them look new and nice, wash them with soft flannel and lukewarm water, and wipe perfectly dry.
If you want them to look extra nice,
after they are wiped drop a few spoonfuls of milk over them, and rub them with a dry cloth.
A young man fresh from college serving on a lady, and being asked by the servant what name she would give her mistress, replied, "Amicus," (the Latin for a friend.) The girl hesitated and then asked, "What kind of a fuss, sir?" The young collegian then gave his name and resolved to stick to English thereafter.
A man in Iowa City, in drawing his check to pay his railroad-bond tax, made it payable to "highway robbers or bearer."
A Huntington (Ct.) man being unexpectedly called upon to address a Sunday school, rose to his feet, and after several desperate but vain efforts to say something appropriate, hoarsely murmured, "Dear children, never fool with powder."
A provincial paper concludes a long obituary with the following strange notification: "Several deaths are unavoidably deferred."
A milkman accounted for the weakness of his milk by saying that the cows got caught in the rain.
"You are from the country, are you not, sir?" said a dandy young bookseller to a homely dressed Quaker who had given him some trouble. "Yes."
"Well here's an Essay on the Rearing of Calves." "That," said Amos, as he was turned to leave the shop, "had better present to thy mother."

Miscellany.

DRIVEN TO THE WALL.
"And don't you know when you will pass through this part of the country again, Mr. Verley?"
"No, I don't," said the old bachelor, decidedly.
He was something of a bear to answer so crustily when Barbara Smith stood in the doorway, with the shadowy lashes drooping over the soft brown eyes, and roses, melting into deep carmine on her rosy cheeks, until her muslin dress was plain in comparison. Such a pretty, big-eyed, loving little Barbara as she was, in all the blonde freshness of her eighteen summers, and the soft sigh that fluttered from her lips as the one-horse carriage drove away, was checked instantly.
Barbara had no idea of becoming a victim of unrequited love, though she had fancied Mr. Verley during his brief sojourn at her father's house.
Mr. Verley drove away through the rustling green draperies of the summer lanes, whistling sadly as he drove.
"I shall be in very good time for the 12.30 train," he meditated to himself.—
"Punctuality is the soul of business, and I never was one of the behind-hand tribe, thank Providence. Besides, I think it was becoming dangerous to remain in that place any longer. I am thirty-nine to-morrow, and that is just twenty years too old for me to go making a fool of myself. Fancy me getting married! No you don't, Joseph Verley, my friend."
As he settled himself comfortably in the crowded railway car, and opened the letter, the subject again occurred to his mind with curious persistence.
"The letter of my poor brother's executor came just in time, or I should certainly have fooled away more time than would have been sensible or profitable. Poor dear Harold! I don't see what on earth possessed him to fall sick and die on his way home from Venice and leave his daughter on my hands, too.
Why could he not have left a son instead of a daughter? I never did understand a woman's ways, and what's more I don't want to. I am to meet her at Speed-ville, and take her home with me—"
"O!" groaned Mr. Verley, referring despairingly to his letter. "And what I'm going to do with her when I get there I like to know! I suppose she's a great creature, with ringlets and ribbons, and just as likely as not an Italian lover talking sentiment to her—a creature that reads Byron, keeps an album, and eats slate-pencils and chalk. I'll send her to a boarding school, that's what I'll do with my niece—and perhaps when she is graduated there the schoolmaster can suggest some means of getting rid of her. Of course she'll have a dozen large trunks, and a bonnet-box and a parrot's cage—that's the way women generally travel, I believe. I am glad I am out of the way of Barbara's fascination now."
Mr. Verley looked out of the car window, in a sort of calm desperation at the prospect before him.
"I suppose she'll want a piano, and maybe a poodle dog, and there's no knowing what else. I don't see why Harold wanted to die and leave his daughter to my care just now. Speedville station—twenty-seven miles farther. I wish it was twenty-seven hundred miles—that's what I wish.
And with this vindictive sentiment in his mind, our hero tied a red silk handkerchief over his head, and tried to lose himself in a series of brief, troubled dreams wherein the vision of a tall nice young lady figured conspicuously.
"Are we here already?" he stammered, standing to his feet as the conductor bawled out, "Speedville Station, and seizing umbrella, valise and traveling shawl, with the bustling bewilderment peculiar to people just aroused from sleep, he alighted.
Speedville was rather a large-sized village, situated at the junction of several railways, with an imposing American Gothic structure for a depot. Into the building Mr. Verley walked, looking right and left for the young lady whose guardianship he was to assume.
"Of course," he responded mentally,
"she'll be on the lookout; women are proverbially curious."
But Harold Verley's daughter was not on the lookout for her uncle. When the crowd incident to the evening train had subsided and the people had gone their different ways, the only remaining occupants of the depot were Mr. Verley, a lame old man who sold peanuts and apples, and a decent looking colored woman, with a bright Madras turban on her head, who took care of the building.

Neither of these could be his niece, so Mr. Verley, after a little perplexed hesitation, addressed himself to the colored woman, who was busily polishing the window with a piece of crumpled news-paper.
"Ahem! I was to meet my niece here to-day, and I don't see her."
"Your niece, sir? what is her name?"
"Verley."
"Oh! yes, sir; she has been here these two hours, bless her dear heart;
she is asleep now."
"Asleep!" gasped Mr. Verley; but the stewardess only answered him by bustling into the inner department and bringing out what appeared to be a compact bundle, with a pink face at the end of it, and a mass of long trailing embroidery at the other.
Joseph Verley recoiled as far as the angle of the door would permit him.
"Why—it's a baby!"
"To be sure it is, sir," said the woman, and as fine a little girl as ever I saw; bless her sweet blue eyes."
"But isn't there a nurse or some such person here, who would take charge of her?"
"There was a nurse brought her on,
sir, a queer, foreign-looking thing, with a yellow skin and hair as black as night, and gold hoops in her ears; but she talked and talked, something about the next steamer—I couldn't understand her lingo, sir—and went right back to New York on the two o'clock train."
Joseph Verley stood aghast, staring at the rosy baby as it lay crowing in the woman's arms, and wondering which of his lucky stars he should call on to aid him in this unlooked-for emergency. A full-grown young lady niece would have been bad enough—but a baby!
"So this is my niece," he muttered.
"And what am I going to do with her?"
He turned suddenly to the woman.
"What time does the next train for Winfield leave?"
"In an hour, sir."
"Would you be kind enough to take care of the child till then? I suppose I must take it home with me; for I can't very well drown it, or throw it under the car wheels."
But Mr. Verley turned on his heels and strode out of the depot, scarcely able at first to comprehend the disaster that had befallen him.
The train was at the depot when he returned and the woman awaited him with the sleeping infant in her arms.
"Asleep, eh?" commented Mr. Verley. "Well that's lucky."
"Where's the nurse, sir?" inquired the woman.
"The nurse!" "What nurse?"
"Why, I supposed you went to get a nurse!"
"Never once thought of it!" ejaculated
Joseph madly smiting his forehead.
"Here—give the thing to me quick, the train is moving."
He had hardly time to spring on board as the locomotive gave an unearthly shriek, while the baby followed suit eagerly.
He staggered to his seat, holding the umbrella and the child in one hand, while in the other his valise swung backward and forward.
"There! there, bless its little heart!"
he exclaimed, imitating the colored woman.
"We won't cry—so we won't."
But the baby evidently had an opinion of her own on the subject, and would cry in spite of various blandishments practiced by the bewildered uncle—such as shaking the umbrella handle, swinging his watch, and trotting both knees.
People began to look around reproachfully; young men shrugged their shoulders and young ladies giggled.
"Hush! hush! there's a darling!"
whispered Mr. Verley.
But still the baby wept and wailed, and gnashed its gums, for teeth it had but two. Mr. Verley began to look around in the car in search of some matronly dame of whom he could seek counsel, but in vain. There were only three ladies in the car, and they were young, with round hats and dimpled cheeks.

"They don't know anything about it," groaned Mr. Verley in anguish of spirit.
"Oh! why didn't I have common sense enough to go and get a nurse? I suppose there is no danger of a baby bursting its lungs? But I should think if there was such a contingency, this baby was in a fair way of meeting it. Well, roar away, my young friend; I can stand it as long as you can."
Vain boast, as futile as vain, as Mr.
Verley soon discovered. The baby not only cried but it screamed, it kicked, it doubled itself over in more ways than a contortionist's wildest dreams could imagine, and became apparently frantic with passion. The perspiration broke out in huge beads on Joseph's brow; his face flushed and still the ears thundered on.
"What's to become of me?" he pondered, holding desperately on to the struggling infant by the ash that encircled its little waist, and watching its purple face with a species of detestation. "I don't wonder Harold died. I shall die in a week if this thing goes on. And it seems so easy for Barbara Smith to take care of her little brothers and sisters. If Barbara Smith was here."
And Verley pulled the baby up into a sitting posture with a sudden jerk.
"I'll do it," quoth Mr. Verley. "I'll take the back express at four in the morning and go straight there. Ah, you may stop crying, you little hypocrite, but won't do any good; I'm not to be caught twice in the same trap."
Barbara Smith was watering her tuberoses in the bright sunshine, when he arrived with his valise and baby.
"Dear Mr. Mr. Verley," she ejaculat-ed, blushing "celestial rosy red." "Why, what a sweet baby!"
"Yes, very sweet," he responded dryly. "It is my niece that I was to meet at Speedville."
"Why I thought that she was a young lady."
"So did I, but it seems she's not. Barbara, what do you suppose brought me back?" he added, speaking very fast for fear the baby would cry.
"I don't know," faltered Barbara, crimsoning still more. Perhaps you forgot something."
"Yes, I did."
"What was it?" said Barbara, a little disappointed.
"I forgot to ask you if you would marry me!"
"Dear me, was that all?" said the young lady, demurely.
"Isn't that enough? Say, Barbara will you?"
"I'll think of it," answered Barbara,
evasively.
"No, but tell me now. Quick—the baby's waking up."
"Well, then—yes."
"Barbara had taken the little thing in her arms, and disappeared before it had time to utter its waking yell.
A week afterwards Mr. Joseph Verley took the 12.30 return train with his wife and niece, the happiest of reclaimed old bachelors, and it was all the unconscious baby's work.
CRANBERRIES.
The acid of the cranberry is so decidedly beneficial in all bilious affections, by its stimulating effects upon the liver, that attention to its culture should be encouraged. One acre of land, suitably prepared, will yield two hundred and fifty dollars worth of cranberries. The cranberry is a beautiful evergreen and grows thrifty. It can be kept all winter, and may be so trained to grow from flower pots as to be beautifully ornamental to the parlor and dining-room through all seasons of the year. They will grow in any ordinary room, without special attention, and the berry will remain on the stem until the flowering for another crop.
It flourishes further North than any other berry, ripening on Bushman Island, on the western slope of Greenland, in latitude seventy-six.
AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS.
The number of newspapers published in English-speaking America is about 5,319. It is difficult to state with exact-ness, for they spring up and die by hundreds during every year. Delaware has only 13, and New York 806. New England has the most newspapers in proportion to its population, and the country journals have the largest average circulation, being about 1,000 copies weekly.
In New York and Pennsylvania they will average about 700; in the valley of the Mississippi proper, about 350; and in the South, about 250. There are about 550 dailies, varying in circulation from the neighborhood of 200 daily, to 1,000,000.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

DEFERRED. We are obliged to defer the resolutions that were discussed and adopted at Rogers' Chapel, on Sunday last, although it is in type, owing to a press of matter.

SALES OF REAL ESTATE. A pleasant summer residence at Germantown, left to the town by the late Doctor Woodward, was sold at public auction on Tuesday last, by Joseph W. Lombard. The estate contained about an acre of land, which is considered very desirable for sea-shore residences, and a good two-story house, which was sold for $1700, to Capt. Freeman, its present occupant. Some of our active real estate gentlemen think this property was sold cheap, and that Mr. Freeman has made quite a good bargain.

The large and attractive estate on School street, owned and occupied for many years by the late Nathaniel White, and more recently by Mr. Chase Parker, has been purchased at private sale for $12,000, by Mr. Patrick McDonnell, one of our most worthy adapted citizens, who has by his economy, energy and perseverance, accumulated a good share of this world's riches, and now intends to enjoy in some measure the fruit of his industry. The estate is one of the finest in this village. The house was built some years since, when carpenters did their work upon honor, and was made in the most thorough manner. The fine grounds about the residence, with some of the most choice fruit trees to be found in our midst, which in days past, commanded no little attention, and was the pride of its former owner.

RAILROAD ACCOMMODATIONS. Citizens in the western part of the town, and at the Railway Village, will soon be accommodated with good railroad facilities to Boston. The work on a new branch of the Old Colony and Newport, from near the Atlantic Station in the north part of the town to the West District, has progressed quite rapidly. The rails are now laid from the connection with the main road to Robertson street, some two miles; and the carpenters have commenced the present week to erect a depot near Mr. Babcock's store.

The ground occupied by this new branch is mainly the same as that used for nearly half a century by the Granite Railway, which was the first railroad ever built in this country. It was chartered March 4, 1826, and was built the following year. The first principal business done by its road was the transportation of granite for building Bunker Hill Monument. From that time to this it has been used to good advantage and profit in conveying stone from the ledges to Neponset river.

HORACE B. SPEAR, Esq., Cashier of the National Mount Wollaston Bank, of this town, has been appointed and qualified, as a Justice of the Peace for Norfolk County.

HORSE LOTS AT AUCTION. There is to be on Thursday next, quite a large sale of horse lots, belonging to the estate of the late George Baxter. These lots are admirably adapted for building purposes, and must, from present indications, in a very short time command handsome prices. Any person desirous of purchasing a fine building lot, or men of capital who wish to find good investment, will do well to attend the sale. There is also furniture and other property to be sold at the same time. Those interested will please read the advertisement.

JURORS. Messrs. Charles F. Ewell and George Veazie, 2d, have been drawn to serve as jurors at the next term of the Supreme Judicial Court, for Norfolk County.

ACCIDENT. Mr. Joseph M. Glover, who occasionally reports some items of interest for our readers, met with a slight accident, some days since, when, while assisting his father in laying a wall. He went to step from a rock and by some slight mismanagement, sprained his ankle badly, causing it to swell considerably and at times to be quite painful; keeping him confined to his house.

Rev. Mr. Davis, of Weymouth Landing, will preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow afternoon, at 2 1-2 o'clock.

Among the donations recently distributed by the administrator of the will of Miss Nabby Jay, is $5000 to the Sailors' Snug Harbor, in this town.

QUINCY FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Selectmen appointed on the 22d ult., the following gentlemen as Engineers of the Fire Department for the year ensuing:—

Washington M. French, Geo. B. Pray, John W. Hall, William Gragg, Amos Litchfield and Samuel Ames. The latter gentleman we learn has declined, which leaves but five upon the Board, which is sufficient, unless there are more fires than we have had the last two years.

At a meeting of the Engineers, Mr. John W. Hall was elected Chief, and Mr. Geo. B. Pray, as Clerk. The Board has had printed, rules and regulations for the government of the Department for the ensuing year. One or more copies are required to be posted in the several houses of the various organizations belonging to the same, and the companies will be obliged to abide by them.

As there has been considerable fault finding, within the past year or two, by many of our citizens, about the engine houses being open at all hours, both day and night, without good and sufficient reasons, the following paragraph copied from the new By-Laws may be read with interest:—

"Neither the members nor the officers of any of the companies shall assemble in any house belonging to the Department, except for the purpose of attending meetings, or taking out the engine or other apparatus and returning the same to the houses, and taking the necessary care thereof after its return, unless by permission of the Engineer in charge of the house."

HOSE COMPANY. At the annual meeting of Hose Company, No. 1, held on Saturday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Foreman, Horace Felts.
Assistant Foreman, James E. Maxim
F. H. French.
Clerk, E. W. Underwood.
Assessors, H. G. Pratt, Jr. and J. Nightingale.
Steward, M. M. C. Chubbuck.

HOOK AND LADDER. At the regular meeting of the Hook and Ladder Company, held on the 1st inst., the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:—

Captain, E. S. Fellows.
Assistant Captain, G. Veazie, 2d.
Clerk and Treasurer, Jos. M. Glover.
Foreman of Hook, C. S. French.
Assistant of Hook, John H. Veazie.
Foreman of Ladder, T. H. Plumer.
Assistant of Ladder, Perez Clubbuck.
Assessors, C. P. Smith, and Charles Arnold.
Standing Committee, John T. Veazie, G. W. Prescott, and John Jacobs.
Steward, E. S. Fellows.

NIAGARA. At the annual meeting of the Niagara Engine Company, No. 1, held on the 1st inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Foreman, James Sullivan.
1st Assistant, James Dolan.
2d Assistant, Michael Coyle.
Clerk, John J. Dasha.
Steward, John Conniff.

TIGER. At the annual meeting of the Tiger Engine Company, No. 2, held at their Engine house, on the 1st inst., the following officers were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year:—

Foreman, William W. Peniman.
1st Assistant, Joseph W. Hayden.
2d Assistant, Warren Dunbar.
Clerk and Treasurer, George H. Hobar.

Suction Hosemen.—George W. Wentworth, Samuel Cummings, William H. Griffin, and John S. Hanson.
Leading Hosemen.—Louis Frederick, L. McDonald, Henry S. Abbott, Wm. A. Hayden, Charles Cummings, and Warren W. Brown.

Standing Committee.—John H. Dee, John S. Hanson and Albert A. Hayden.
Steward, J. S. Paine.

VULTURE. At the meeting of the Vulture Engine Company, held on the 1st inst., the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

Foreman, Joseph A. Lapham.
1st Assistant, Josiah V. Packard.
2d Assistant, Isaac P. Bent.
Clerk, John S. Cleverly.

Leading Hosemen.—Robert Woodmore, Charles Summers and Orlander Hayden.
Suction Hosemen.—David Moser, Edwin Newcomb, Charles Hayden and Albert Randlett.
Steward, James T. Cleverly.

AUCTION. The attention of our readers is called to the sale of furniture, near the Stone Temple, on Wednesday next. It is the largest sale of the kind, that has taken place in our midst this season. Most of the furniture is very good, and is worthy, the attention of buyers. It belongs to several persons who are desirous of disposing of it, and will therefore be sold to the highest bidders.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT. About 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, Mr. Charles B. Hall, confectioner, left his wagon with his two boys, aged 16 and 5 years respectively, standing in the street at Neponset, when, from some cause, the horse became frightened, and dashing off, upset the vehicle. The eldest boy had one of his legs broken, and the youngest had one of his wrists badly sprained.

THE FUNCTION OF TOWN LIBRARIES.

A short time ago, I advanced an opinion concerning the legitimate function of libraries supported by the taxation of towns and small municipalities, that I was well aware would be far from popular. In the next issue of this journal a correspondent fancied that I am fighting shadows, and refers me to the general culture of the town, and the probability that good men would be placed upon the Board of Trustees. What was then a possibility, has become a certainty. Our Trustees are not only the most suitable men that our town can furnish, but I think no town in New England can show better ones. And this has nothing whatever to do with the question that was raised. For no objection was made to any probable Board of Trustees, but only to the prevailing opinion that the citizen may with propriety be taxed to furnish his neighbors with their novel reading. It is perfectly evident that the views of electors must and, to a certain extent, ought to influence the action of all town officers. It is equally clear that if any elective board undertakes to oppose the wishes of its constituents, it will be speedily turned out of office. As a matter of fact I will inform "Franklin" that citizens of towns, where the general culture is quite as high as in Quincy, have deplored this abuse (as they considered it), and regretted that the subject had not been freely discussed before their libraries were formed, and precedents established. As he may like special instances, I select the neighboring municipalities of Taunton and New Bedford, as being in our part of the State, and communities similar to that which Quincy is soon destined to be. The managers of the public libraries in these places are presumably equal in taste and intelligence to the gentlemen just chosen in this town. In the last catalogue of the Taunton library we find the largest department to be that of novels; while during the year 1867, the only one when a classified table of the books circulated was published, we find, in round numbers, twenty-seven thousand novels against nineteen hundred volumes of biography, and seventeen hundred of history. The Trustees of the New Bedford library give no figures in their last report, but inform us incidentally that two-thirds of the working force of their library is spent in the circulation of "novels and juveniles." To show that the majority of these "juveniles" are in fact novels, and more or less questionable in their influences, I cite the language of a distinguished American Scientist that will be copied in the next issue of this journal. As testimony to the fact that the perversion complained of is of high universal, I quote the eminent bibliographer, Mr. Spofford, who probably knows more about libraries than any other man in the country. In his recent essay before the Social Science Association he mentions as a noteworthy fact that the Philadelphia library, founded by the illustrious man whose name my circle borrows, "has been kept singularly free from the masses of novels and other ephemeral publications which overload most of our popular libraries." As a specimen of a numerous class of novels which our publishers of the first reputation do not think it a disgrace to issue, I refer to the account of a work just published by Osgood & Co., which may be found in the Boston Advertiser of the third instant. I presume this book is circulated at the expense of tax-payers, as others, quite as bad, have been.

It can scarcely be disputed that in the opinion of those most qualified to judge an increased facility for obtaining works of fiction is by no means the pressing need of the day. Dr. Isaac Ray, perhaps our highest authority on morbid mental phenomena, concludes his interesting study on the effects of the prevalent romantic literature in these words: "The specific doctrine I would inculcate is, that the excessive indulgence in novel-reading which is a characteristic of our times, is chargeable with many of the mental irregularities that prevail among us in a degree unknown at any former period." Dr. Forbes Winslow, a physician of similar note in England, uses still stronger language in describing how "fearful and fatally suggestive to the minds of the young are those artistically-developed records of sin" which form the staple of the popular novel. Senator Yemman in his recent work upon Government says: "The volumes of trash poured forth daily, weekly, and monthly are appalling. Many minds which it confined to a few solid volumes would become valuable thinkers are lost in the wilderness of brilliant and fragrant weeds." Columbus might be filled with evidence to support the statement of Mr. Spofford that "masses of novels and other ephemeral publications overload most of our public libraries," as well as the language of Dr. Ray which characterizes the influences they exert.

I intend then that a town library may be altogether improving and interesting, and yet, in the best sense of the word, popular. Information, not excitement, should be imparted from its atmosphere. The prevailing infirmity of our time that substitutes sensibility for morality should there find no encouragement. It should be looked upon as a supplement to the town schools, gratifying the taste for knowledge that they have imparted, and serving as an instrument for the self-education to which there is no limit. But we shall never know what a town-library may do for a community, so long as the temptation of free-novels is thrust in the faces of all who enter. For it is not to be expected that our youth fresh from school, moving among the countless aspirations of American life, will resist reading which may require some mental exertion when mental excitement is freely offered them.

There cannot be the slightest doubt that the Trustees just chosen will furnish Quincy with as good a library as public opinion will permit. It is by way of doing what one individual may to influence that opinion, that I have intruded upon these columns. J. R. Q.

THE LAST OF THE COURSE.

Mr. Churchill's reading Thursday evening was good. In some respects it was the best we have ever heard in the place. Some of the characters were humorous, laughable, ridiculous. The change in the reader's face as the different characters appeared in it, was laughable in the extreme; you could see them coming in the changing muscles, and could accurately anticipate the voice before it began to speak. The mincing, puckering, prudery of the prying, pragmatical, little Mrs. Clapping, played down so like electricity from the speaker's eyes and hair, smoothing out and softening down and womanizing the beastly grimaces of Justice Stareleigh, that the very ribs of Scrooge himself would have loosened with laughter at the transformation.

Christmas Carol was well read, and the varying characters were finely sustained, though Scrooge was evidently the favorite with the reader, and had received his principal study and attention.

The Priest's Subscription List for the Repair of his Chapel, was fairly given, though the voice tripped at times and the brogue was carelessly sustained. We have heard this rendered quite as well before.

But the last selection—the trial of Pickwick, was the masterpiece and could scarcely be excelled. The different characters maintained their identity throughout, and were distinctly and sharply defined. The Plaintiff's Lawyer, was himself from first to last, and his plea a fair sample of the swelling bombast which we frequently hear in our civil Courts. The witnesses were never mixed up, the lawyers were unmistakable in their manners, as well as their tones, and the Judge—oh, who can ever forget that Judge!—was that perfect incarnation of juridical consequence and beastly stupidity, which we have all seen, or imagined a hundred times before. Oh, those leaden, fishy, senseless eyes—let Dr. Hubbard never tell us again, that the eyes are expressed in the arrested and sickening mouth, those swelled and glutinous cheeks, that dull but dignity assuming poise of the whole features—altogether this made up a picture to haunt a man as long as he lives. The Speaker said they was his joy and pride, and he never wearied in rendering it. Altogether we had a very enjoyable time. Mr. Churchill is yet a young man and comparatively unknown—but to facial expression we have never seen him equalled, and we predict for him a brilliant future. D.

Rev. James B. Dunn, of Boston, will repeat his sermon, "The Drunkard and how to save him," in the Orthodox Chapel, to-morrow afternoon, at 2 1-2 o'clock. His reputation as a preacher will undoubtedly draw a full house. All are cordially invited.

$200 REWARD.

THE Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company will pay Two Hundred Dollars Reward, for the detection and recovery of the incendiary, or incendiaries, who burnt the House of Robert Codman, in this town, which was partially insured by the said Company.

Per order of Directors,
CHARLES A. HOWLAND, Secretary.

THE EDITORIAL EXCURSION. The committee appointed to arrange for an excursion of the editors, have so far completed their arrangements as to be able to say, that they will leave Boston, on Monday, July 10th and proceed to Waterbury, Vt., where they will be met by Mr. Bingham, the proprietor of Mount Mansfield, who will take them to Stowe, where they will remain over night. On Tuesday they will go on to the mountain and spend the day, returning to Stowe Tuesday night. Wednesday, go to St. Albans and dine; and in the afternoon go to Montreal. Here they will remain until Thursday p.m., when they will take the cars again for Newport, Vt., where the party will break up with "appropriate ceremonies" Thursday evening. Arrangements will be made so that those members of the associations and their ladies who wish can go through the White Mountains at reduced rates of fare. The excursion will undoubtedly be a delightful one.

The ladies will be interested in reading in what manner Messrs. Ide, Carter & Co., of Boston, are prepared to administer to their wants.

DISEASES OF THE EYE AND EAR. Dr. Bragg will be in Quincy next week Monday and Tuesday, at the Hancock House. Dr. Bragg has won a high reputation in his new treatment of the human system. Those who may desire his skillful services should not forget his appointments, next week Monday and Tuesday.

MODERN MATRIMONIAL WISDOM.

I'd offer thee this hand of mine,
If thou hadst the time;
But I'm short and thin as a line,
And I'm not for thee hard times.
I leave thee in thy wretchedness,
As one too poor to care;
For love, you know, can only bless,
When based on real estate.

Farmers' Department.
THE CURRANT.

Nearly all of the varieties of red and white currants in cultivation were derived from one species—namely, Ribes rubrum. Their manner of growth is very similar, forming dense, low bushes or stools, with several stems starting from the roots. Although this is their most natural form, still it is an easy task to train them to suit the taste of the cultivator. Amateurs often train their currant-bushes in the form of small trees, with a single stem, because larger specimens of the fruit can be obtained than if many stems are allowed to grow; but the tree-form is objectionable for large plantations. The currant is not naturally a tree, and when a stem becomes four or five years old it is very likely to die, or produce very little if any fruit.

To successfully grow currants in the bush-form, it is necessary to be continually thinning out the stems, or they will soon become so thick that the centre ones will fail to produce fruit. We usually cut out all canes that have borne two crops, and allow young ones to fill their place.

CULTIVATION.

This part of the subject may be summed up in a very few words. Make the soil deep, and very rich, and if the soil is light, keep it constantly covered with mulch.

VARIETIES.

There are many really good varieties in cultivation, but we have not as yet decided which are really the best.

The Cherry-currant is the most popular, because the largest.

The Versatile is one of the doubtful varieties, as ninety per cent. of those who plant that name are identical with the Cherry.

La Hative, La Fertile de Angers, Large Red Angers, Imperial Rouge, and a number of other sorts, are large and excellent, but not superior to the Cherry in size. They also resemble the Cherry-currant in their foliage and form of growth.

Among the white currants, there are also many excellent varieties, and we name a few in the order that we value them: White Imperial, White Grape, White Provence, Dana's White, White Gondouin, and White Dutch.—Hearth and Home.

How to make Farm Life Attractive.

1. By less hard work. Farmers often undertake more than they can do well, and consequently work too early and too late.
2. By more system. Farmers should have a time to begin and stop labor. They should put more mind and machinery into their work. They should theorize as well as practice, and let both go together. Farming is healthy, moral, and respectable; and in the long run, may be made profitable. The farmers should keep good stock, and out of debt.
3. By taking care of health. Farmers have a healthy variety of exercise, but too often neglect cleanliness, eat irregularly and hurriedly, sleep in ill ventilated apartments, and expose themselves needlessly to cold.
4. By adorning the home. Books, papers, music and reading, should all be brought to bear upon the in-door family entertainment; and neatness and comfort, order, shrubbery, flowers, and fruits, should harmonize all without. There would be fewer descriptions of old homesteads if pains were taken to make them agreeable. Ease, order, health and beauty, are compatible with farm life, and were ordained to go with it.

Anecdotes.

LOGICAL. A thief was once collared by a gentleman, who found him in the back drawing-room; and Buttons went at once for a policeman.
"You ought to be grateful to me," said the sprig, "instead of angling on to me like this ere. I only came in to tell you the front-door was open, and I was afraid you'd get robbed!"
"Excellent reasoning, indeed, my friend," said the householder, "but on wrong premises, I fancy."

A Massachusetts paper tells of a colored woman who had been lately converted, but was so unfortunate as to fly into a passion over the misdoings of her neighbor's youngsters. Her mistress remarked upon the impropriety of such conduct in the case of one about to join the church, and received this frank response:
"I have 'sperienced religion, and I've prined to join the church; but, Miss B., I'll scold dat nigger fast."

SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Fire. Many of our citizens were alarmed from their slumbers about midnight on Tuesday, by the ringing of bell and the cry of fire. But after taking a view from all points and noticing no unusual light many retired as the bell stopped ringing. About one o'clock the bells were again started, and this time with much more energy, which succeeded in calling many of our citizens to the scene of conflagration; which proved to be at the National Sailors' Home. The fire had caught between the partitions in close proximity to the flue or heating apparatus leading to the Chapel on the north end. It soon spread to both sides of the building between the partitions, and had made considerable headway before the fire department arrived owing to the imperfect alarm, given in the dead of the night. All the companies however were present, except the Granite, and did well under the difficulties which they labored, the fire was very hard to be got at, being between the walls and spreading all the time without scarcely being noticed.

As soon as it broke out, Dr. Faxon, the Superintendent sent word immediately to our village and to Neponset, and by cool and calm words set his men diligently to work staying the flames, until the arrival of aid from the engines; and through his energetic and orderly labors, no doubt in a great measure the building was saved. Although a large part of the real labor of putting out the fire was due to a steamer from Neponset; which by the aid of hose from the Quincy companies was able to play two streams upon the fire for a long time, "without getting short of breath."

The fire burned upwards of four hours, after it was first discovered, and it is supposed to have been burning all the day previous, as early in the morning it seemed evident that something was on fire, and the Home was thoroughly searched during the day.

The damage is variously estimated, it being impossible to tell with much certainty, until the carpenters commence repairing,—probably somewhere from two to three thousand dollars, which is fully covered by insurance in several offices;—Weymouth, Neponset, and other places; but none in the Quincy Mutual. It is thought to be a case of spontaneous combustion, caused by carelessness in placing woodwork in close proximity to the heating apparatus.

PURCHASED. We learn that Mr. J. Q. A. Wild has purchased the old planing mill, tannery, &c., on Hancock street, adjoining the premises of Mr. George J. Jones, for about five thousand dollars. It is a good piece of property, and if Mr. Wild erects a fine house, as he talks of doing, it will be a great improvement to the place. It has long been used for a dirty, disagreeable business, one that should not have been allowed on the most public thoroughfare in the place, and one which the inhabitants in that vicinity have often thought of indicting as a nuisance. Improvement is the watch-word of the day, and may its influence continue to be felt in this vicinity.

PUBLIC LIBRARY. The Trustees of the Free Public Town Library met at the Selectmen's Room on Thursday, May 11th, and organized by electing W. W. Greenough, President, and C. A. Foster, Secretary. After appointing committees on various subjects, they adjourned to May 17th. At this meeting a movement was inaugurated to at once raise, by popular subscription, the sum of $2500, so that they may secure a like sum appropriated by the town.

RUNAWAY. On Wednesday morning last, as Mr. Eaton's team was busy engaged in supplying families in this place with ice, the horses took it into their heads that they could deliver the load much quicker than their excellent driver; therefore, while left in front of Mr. Lowe's on Gay street, they started, but had not gone far, before they came in contact with a fence belonging to Mr. Benjamin Curtis, which they left suitable for firewood; but not quite satisfied they continued their course from Gay to School St. but did not go far before one of the wheels struck an elm in front of Mr. John Whitcher's breaking the pole, whiplash, &c., and turning the load over. This certainly was a decidedly cool act for a warm day, and one not much admired.

Rev. Mr. Skinner, pastor of the Universalist society in this place, is expected home from his western tour to-day, and will occupy his pulpit to-morrow. We learn that he has had a very pleasant trip, and is no little surprised at the rapid growth and fine prospects of Kansas.

For the Patriot.

BRAINTREE. On Tuesday evening last, Mr. J. B. Wood and lady were unexpectedly visited by a goodly number of their friends who took possession of the house, and after arranging matters to suit themselves, wished the parties joy on the return of their wedding anniversary (it being the 34th,) and presented them with a beautiful extension table and other acceptable gifts. The table must have been of the strongest and best manufacture, for it was literally loaded with the good things of this life, in the way of refreshments, furnished by the visitors. After enjoying a pleasant evening the company separated wishing each other a merry good night.

Gen. Thayer who has been sick for some time is slowly recovering.

The work on the new School House is now progressing finely.

A union prayer meeting of the religious societies, of this place, was held on Thursday evening. There was a very full attendance.

PUBLIC TOWN LIBRARY.

FRIEND PATRIOT:—

I would like through your columns to correct one error which I find prevails in the public mind in relation to the "Public Town Library."

Some good people seem to think that it will be for the use of some one favored class. On the contrary it is to be free to all,—high and low, rich and poor,—with only such restriction as may be necessary for the proper preservation of the books.

C. A. F.

Quincy, May 16th, 1871.

WONDERS NEVER CEASE. The great Stone & Murray Circus, which is to be in Quincy on Friday next, is thus spoken of by one of our exchanges:—

Change appears to be the order of the day, and these changes are marked by such visible signs of progress, that we stand amazed, and are prone to worship the genius that inspire them. The world of amusements, no less than other spheres, has shared in the significant progression of events, and 1871 will excel in the matter of popular features and brilliant displays all its predecessors. These ideas forced themselves upon our mind for the first time yesterday as we beheld the gorgeous street pageant of STONE & MURRAY's mammoth circus pass our office. But when we were seated beneath the snowy pavilion, watching the wonders of the ring, they grew stronger. To delight the eye is something; but to stir the heart with thrilling sensation; to send the blood bounding through all the being in a fever of excitement; to override imagination with realistic triumphs, are wonders which were reserved for Messrs. Stone & Murray to unfold the present season. And how nobly they have executed their commission, let those testify who witnessed the arena performances last night. In this brief mention of the circus it would be impossible to give any adequate idea of the merits of the many artists who made up the mammoth corte. Excellence abounded everywhere, and from first to last, nothing but supreme delight and increasing wonder stirred the hearts of the numerous spectators.

A novel feature of this royal show is the balloon ascension every afternoon of Prof. J. W. Hayden, whose flight beyond the clouds is truly thrilling. To see the equestrian performances we sorely know what to say. The name of John Henry Cooke, has become familiarized with us, and is a synonym for all that is graceful, daring and wonderful in horsemanship. This year we are introduced for the first time, to his brother, Harry Welby Cooke, the champion horseman of England, and truly his astonishing feats last evening established his claim to that high title. Among the ladies we have Mlle Rosina, from the principal English Amphitheatre. She appeared for the first time, and her intrepid actions and graceful bearing won the loudest encomiums. Mlle Henrietta charmed us with her beauty, and astonished us by her dashing equestrian. That happy old favorite Dan Stone, Prince of Jesters, tickled our senses incessantly, which, added to the local humor of the Hibernian Clown, Tom Barry, his first appearance in this country, sent us home aching from the effects of our cautions. We would not forget to mention the Snow Brothers, with their inimitable troupe of performing dogs, which delighted and pleased everybody. Other, and no less powerful attractions were presented, and as we left our comfortable seat and emerged from the amphitheatre into the open air, we experienced sensations of delight and sorrow. Delight at what we had witnessed, and sorrow to think we could not attend just such a circus every night.—Success to Stone & Murray, say we, for they deserve it.—Newark Advertiser.

BURGLARY IN NEPONSET. A man about 35 years old, who gave the name of George Lovell, was arrested on Monday, for breaking and entering the provision store of Simeon Mitchell in Neponset. The officer caught him as he came out. He had stolen $2.66 in coppers and $1.70 in currency, and in his possession were found a flask of powder and a jimmy.

AN APPEAL.

IN BEHALF OF

THE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

At the annual town meeting, the present year, it was voted that the funds arising from the tax on dogs should be appropriated to establish a "Free Public Town Library," and the manner of establishing the same was referred to a Committee. Said Committee made a report to the town meeting held on the 2d day of May. That report with its recommendations was adopted, and a Board of Trustees was elected. One of the votes adopted by the town was as follows:—

"That the town appropriate two thousand and five hundred dollars to the fitting up of the library room and purchase of books for the public library provided that a like sum is raised for the same purpose by private subscription; and the Selectmen shall when they are satisfied that such sum has been actually so paid by private subscription to the Trustees of the public library, pay to said Trustees said sum of twenty-five hundred dollars."

Now to avail ourselves of the appropriation, it is necessary that the sum of $2500 be given by the people of the town individually. The Trustees accordingly appeal to each and all of the citizens to promptly meet the requirement and contribute the desired amount. It is thought desirable that every person in town, male and female, adult and child shall have the privilege of contributing to this sum. We all have an equal interest and should have a direct property in an institution of this kind. Comparatively few of us have the means to furnish ourselves and children with the books we need and desire, either for healthful amusement or instruction; but by each one contributing a share of the general expense a large, valuable and permanent Free Library becomes the property of the town in its corporate capacity, and of each inhabitant thereof individually. Free alike to the poor and the rich, the laborer, mechanic and professional man;—to the men, women and children of the town. It is believed that by appealing to all, those who give even to the smallest amount will feel a greater interest in the success of the library, and will value and use it the more.

It seems too late a day to argue the benefit of a Free Public Library; but a few words may not be out of place. Benjamin Franklin in this case, speaks of the libraries then in existence as follows: "They improved the general conversation of the Americans, made the common tradesmen and farmers as intelligent as most gentlemen in other countries; and, perhaps, contributed in some degree to the stand so generally made throughout the colonies in defence of their privileges." And may we not say that the reading habits of our people more fully enabled them to meet that greatest of all shocks to which nations are subjected—domestic insurrection—and to successfully withstand it. Franklin had learned by his own experience while toiling for support, the inestimable value of good books.

We send our children to the public schools, and after they have graduated therefrom with credit to themselves, they go out into the various pursuits and callings of life. Unless they have the means to feed the mind as well as the body, a large part of the education, for which we have spent large sums, is lost, or becomes of no special value for want of the proper intellectual food. The Free Public Library furnishes this mental food which shall make strong men and women of our people. It puts within the reach of each and all the works of thinkers; the practical results accomplished in all the affairs of men, whether relating to the industrial, intellectual, or moral progress of the race. It is what we need to round off and make whole our popular and efficient system of education.

With these views in our minds we appeal to all the citizens of Quincy, old and young, to contribute promptly and liberally according to their means towards this sum; so that this useful and beneficent institution may at once be organized, and throw open its doors for the use of each and all the inhabitants of the town. To this end each family will be called upon by regularly appointed agents, who will be authorized to receive subscriptions; and the name of each contributor, no matter how small the sum given, will be preserved.

W. W. GREENOUGH,
President Board Trustees, of the Public Town Library.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Public Town Library, the following named ladies and gentlemen were selected to canvass the inhabitants of the town, for the purpose of securing the sum of $2500 for the Free Library; and they are most respectfully requested to serve in that capacity.

They will soon be invited to meet the Trustees in the school districts in which they reside, for the purpose of thorough organization.

FLOWERS FOR DECORATION DAY.

It will be seen by the advertisement that it is the intention of the members of Paul Revere Post, to decorate all the graves of our honored dead, on Memorial day, and any contribution of flowers will be thankfully received by them. As this is a work that all should feel a deep interest in, we hope our lady friends, who are possessors of flowers, will send largely of their collection to the Post. Any person wishing to present bouquets, wreaths, crosses for any particular grave will have them sacredly deposited.

EXHIBITION. Black's grand combination of the Hayes & Bradford Polar exhibition with Belcher's illuminated mirror of the Holy Land and Egypt, will exhibit in the Universalist Church, on Tuesday evening next, commencing at eight o'clock. It has received the unqualified approbation of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Prof. Cook, President, Hill Prof. Agassiz and others of note, and is worthy a visit from all who can make it convenient to be present. Admission 25 cents; children 15 cents.

THE NATION'S DEAD

Headquarters Paul Revere Post,
No. 88, G. A. R.

It is the intention of this Post, to decorate all the graves of our honored dead, on Memorial day, and any contribution of flowers will be thankfully received by them. As this is a work that all should feel a deep interest in, we hope our lady friends, who are possessors of flowers, will send largely of their collection to the Post. Any person wishing to present bouquets, wreaths, crosses for any particular grave will have them sacredly deposited.

ON MEMORIAL DAY.

Tuesday, May 30th.

Owing to the increased demand for flowers, intended for special graves, they will be supplied by the Post, for the purpose of procuring the supply requisite to properly decorate the many graves of our honored dead, without appealing for individual donations.

Therefore, we earnestly solicit contributions of flowers, wreaths, crosses, and other designs in flower work, from all interested in this touching and beautiful ceremony.

Wreaths, crosses of Immortelles or Bouquets, intended for special graves, will be sacredly deposited on the same, if properly addressed.

It is requested that such special, and all contributions of flowers, may be sent to these Headquarters, (Revere Hall), on MONDAY, 29th inst., or early on morning of "Memorial Day."

Should the day prove stormy, the decorations will be performed by details from the Post, and the exercises pertaining to the occasion will be held in the Town Hall, commencing at 2 1/2 o'clock, P. M.

Poetry.

THE SUN ALWAYS SHINING.

It is spring time, and the sky is bright;
It is day time, and the day is light;
It is youth's time, and I'm happy quite;
For what should one do but be joyful?

When it's night time, and the shadows fall;
When it's winter, cold snow over all,
When old age comes, and dark death doth call,
Oh! how can one then be joyful?

When it's night time there's another day
Under darkened clouds, but hid away;
After winter another May;
So what should one do but be joyful?

Farmers' Department.

SPECIALITIES IN FARMING.

We as a body of farmers are too diffusive in our labor, that is, we aim at doing too many things, and spread our energies over too much ground, instead of concentrating our thoughts, our skill, and our means upon some special line of effort, some particular crop, or some leading branch of farming.

If we go round through our quiet and beautiful rural districts and study the character and inclinations of the farming population, we shall find that, in a vast number of instances, the man, the farmer, wants to own the next farm. There is a hankering for more land, rather than a desire to cultivate the home farm well, and to bring it to the highest degree of productiveness.

But this, although we regard it as in some respects an unfortunate trait of the New England character, is not exactly the fault to which we refer. We shall find generally, that the farmer makes his calculations to do a little of everything instead of making a speciality of anything. He will have a little patch of corn, an acre or two of potatoes, a few roots, perhaps two or three cows and a horse, all of which is very well, in its way, but we shall discover no one central, leading idea, no one crop, no one branch of farming which seems to excite the mind and thought to special activity, no one product on which to rely for the money income of the farm, and so we shall find, at the end of the year, that both ends will hardly meet; buckle and strap won't come quite tight, or, if they do, there will be nothing to spare.

Now, we are not inclined to advocate the cultivation of one crop or another to the exclusion of all others, for that would be absurd, be like putting all the eggs into one basket. We would go further, and say that we would have the farmer raise even a greater variety of miscellaneous crops for the supply of his own family. There is no reason why a much larger assortment of garden vegetables for home consumption should not be produced upon every farm. It would promote the comfort, the health and the economy of the household, and need interfere but little with the general operations of the farm. But so far as the management of the farm is concerned, we wish simply to insist upon the adoption of some line of effort as a speciality.

Some farms are admirably adapted to the raising of fruit. Some have a warm southern exposure, with a light warm soil, adapted to the grape, where vineyards would return a profitable yield. Some have facilities for the raising of cranberries, and it is a pity not to take advantage of them. Some are remarkably well adapted to the raising of poultry, retired and free from disturbance. Some are specially suited for grass, and the raising of stock would seem to be a leading pursuit, and so on. The idea is to study and take advantage of the peculiar capacities of each farm, and of ten farms taken at random, scarcely any two would present the same characteristics.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Anecdotes.

"Pray bestow your charity, young gentleman, on a poor blind man," said a beggar to a person passing by.

"If you are blind my good fellow, how did you know that I was young?"

"O, sir, I made a mistake," said the beggar; "please give a trifle to a poor dumb man!"

"Whiskey is your greatest enemy," said "But," said Mr. Jones, "don't the Bible say, Mr. Preacher, that we are to love our enemies?"

"Oh, yes, Jones, but it don't say we are to swallow them."

A gentleman travelling in Ireland said to a very importunate beggar: "You have lost all your teeth."

The beggar quietly answered, "An' it's time I parted with um, when I'd nothing for um to do."

"Mr. Smith, you said you boarded at the Columbian Hotel for six months—did you foot your bill?"

"No, sir, but it amounted to the same thing—the landlord footed me."

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in youth or old age, the most certain and powerful agent in the market, and the only one that does not injure the system.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK.

Made of Pure Honey, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refine Liquors, doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonic," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California. Free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Restorer and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisons matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters without direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism,
Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Head, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Distress, Four Tristitions of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bileous Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them unequal efficiency in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt
Rheum, Itch, Scabs, Pimples, Pastules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Bryopsia, Itch, Burns, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally due up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

One Bottle in such cases will convince the most inflexible of their curative effect.

Chronic Vitiated Blood whenever you find its apparatus bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when its foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE AND OTHER WORMS, lurking in the system of many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circulars around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

REMOVAL. The rooms which have been undergoing repairs in Adams's building, for the accommodation of the Quincy Savings Bank, are nearly ready for occupancy. The front office has been very neatly and tastefully papered in panel form by Mr. D. Fred French, which gives it quite an attractive appearance; and when furnished will look very inviting. The Bank will be moved to its new location on Thursday next. It is in good and healthy condition, the funds are well invested, and the rate of interest paid is very satisfactory to its depositors. Under its newly appointed Treasurer may it continue to prosper until it becomes one of the first institutions of the kind in the State, like unto its neighbor, the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. The new Treasurer is certainly the right man for the place, and one who cannot help giving the most perfect satisfaction.

Rev. Geo. H. Vibbert gave a very entertaining lecture on temperance, in the Town Hall, on Saturday evening last. The audience was not large, but those that were present listened with marked attention, and if we could judge by the numerous applause, we should think he was well appreciated. He certainly advanced some new and strong points in a very able and acceptable manner.

CONVENTION. A Mass Convention for the consideration of the Labor Question, will be held under the auspices of the Boston Eight-Hour League, at Horticultural Hall, on Wednesday next, forenoon, afternoon, and evening, commencing at half past ten o'clock, A. M.

All who are interested in a practical and thorough discussion of this question are invited to be present.

CHRIST CHURCH. The relations between this Society and its former Rector, Mr. Brainard, having ceased to exist, the opportunity will be taken for making some repairs and improvements on the building, and it will be closed for a few weeks.

LUMBER. Everybody is building, and lumber in this vicinity has been quite scarce. For this reason it is quite essential that our readers should know where there is a good supply. We would therefore call their attention to the advertisement of Messrs. W. F. Lakin & Co., to be found in our columns to-day. They are receiving a large assortment of lumber, shingles, laths, pickets, &c., also lime and brick which they intend to sell at the lowest prices.

ICE CREAMS. Friend Carver, who has for many years kept a cool and refreshing saloon, on Temple street, during the warm months of the year, informs his patrons and friends through our columns to-day, that he will be prepared to receive his guests on and after Monday next. A more inviting place cannot be found in a warm day; and sipping one of his ice creams is always a pleasant luxury.

AUCTION. Pews Nos. 12 and 114, in the Unitarian Church, formerly owned by the late Dr. Woodward, will be sold at Auction, by Henry H. Faxon, on Monday afternoon next, at four o'clock.

FURNITURE. Jos. W. Lombard sells on Wednesday next, a very nice lot of furniture at the north part of the town. It belongs to Mr. Macabee, who resides near the Atlantic Station, and is nearly new. This offers a good chance to any in want of good furniture, as the owner is going West. Persons desirous of attending can take the 1.40 train for Boston and be left near his residence.

PERSONAL. Mr. Frederick Souther who has lived over half a century in this place, and we might say without much impropriety all his life time, but who is now rusticated on his farm at Kingston, celebrated in a simple but pleasant manner, on Tuesday last, the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedded life. Although far away from the home of his boyhood, and where the nuptial knot was tied, still he did not forget the many pleasant moments it had brought him, and the blessing of a loving and affectionate wife. He intends to return to the place of his nativity, believing the waning days of his life will pass more pleasantly here, than on his beautiful farm at Kingston.

TRIAL OF MORAN.

The trial of John Moran, for the murder of Charles M. Packard, a constable of the town of Stoughton, began Tuesday morning before the full bench of the Norfolk County Supreme Judicial Court, at Dedham.

The facts of the homicide, as they appeared at the time, are briefly as follows: Moran had committed an assault with a dangerous weapon upon a man named McClancy, and Constable Packard, on the 15th of September last, went to his house at Stoughton to arrest him. Moran resisted the officer, and after a short altercation drew a revolver and shot him through the heart. He then ran, and was not captured until the 30th day of November, when he was found secluded at East Stoughton.

The court-house was crowded a long time before the judges made their appearance.

E. C. Bumpus, Esq., for the prisoner, read a petition signed by him, setting forth that he could not have an impartial trial in this county, on account of the great prejudice existing against him here, and asking the court that a change of venue might be had, and that the trial might take place in Suffolk county.

P. R. Guiney, Esq., who also appeared for the prisoner, made a long argument in favor of the petition, citing several recent cases of English jurisdiction where, it being proved that a feeling of hostility had ever existed against a prisoner, a change of venue had been made with the consent of the highest authorities.

Without waiting for the reply of the attorney-general or his associate Hon. A. French, the district-attorney, the judges retired for consultation. They returned in a few minutes, and Chief-Justice Chapman said the court was clearly of opinion that no case had been made to change the venue.

The county of Suffolk, in the opinion of the court, would not be more impartial than the county of Norfolk, and the court therefore declined to grant the motion.

The jury roll was then called over. Mr. Bumpus moved that the names of jurors on the list coming from the towns of Randolph and Stoughton should be stricken off. The motion was overruled.

The empanelling of the jury was then proceeded with, the prisoner challenging twenty-two men on account of a supposed prejudice. One or two jurors were rejected by the court. The following persons were eventually sworn:

Rufus G. L. Candage (foreman), Brookline; Albert Ballou, Franklin; Whipple O. Whiton, Bellingham; Edwin R. Clark, Weymouth; Charles Clapp, Walpole; Benjamin L. Crane, Quincy; George E. Downes, Canton; Edmund Hartshorn, Franklin; James M. Hewins, Medford; Hiram Hill, Medway; Isaac Horton, Canton; Ezra S. Jackson, West Roxbury.

The case was given to the jury on Wednesday afternoon, and they remained out all night. The next morning about nine o'clock, they unanimously agreed to a verdict of Murder in the Second Degree. At the request of his junior counsel, Mr. Bumpus, sentence was deferred until the exceptions to the illegality of the warrant under which Packard acted in making the arrest, had been argued. The exceptions will probably be heard during the summer, and until the decision of the Court, Moran was remanded to the jail in Dedham.

BRAINTREE. Post 88, G. A. R., of Braintree, propose decorating the graves of their fallen comrades on the 30th. In order to visit all the cemeteries in town quite a long march will be taken. Hall's Band, twenty pieces, of Boston, has been engaged; and Gen. Harriman, Ex-Governor of N. H., a resident of Braintree, thirty years since, will deliver the address at the Town Hall, where a bountiful collation will be provided.

The estate of Mr. John Arnold was sold by E. F. E. Thayer, on Monday last, for something less than two thousand dollars.

There were six jurors from Braintree, but none had a voice in the conviction of Moran.

CANNED FRUITS. Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, 510 Washington Street, Boston, have just received a large lot of splendid canned fruits which they are selling very cheap. Now is the time to use these luxuries. Read their advertisement.

DENTISTRY. Dr. J. R. Dillingham, has removed from his old stand on Winter street, to 226 Tremont street, Boston, and is now prepared to receive customers. His rooms are commodious and convenient and it is evident that the Doctor understands his business.

TAKE NOTICE. Business men will see by reading the notice of the National Granite Bank, that there is a change of time in business hours.

WESTERN CORRESPONDENT.

RED ROCK, KANSAS, MAY 6th, 1871.

The New York Herald, says:—Mr. John Quincy Adams, a chip of the old block of Quincy granite, and the late democratic candidate for Governor in Massachusetts, has written a bold, outspoken letter to a political co-laborer in Missouri, which pretty sharply defines the democratic situation on the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, establishing negro civil and political equality. In this letter he says the people feel that as things are now going, they are going wrong, but that "the sweep of reaction is stayed by the dread of revolution;" that it is the true policy of the democrats to "dispel this apprehension;" that he deplores "the halting, hesitating step with which the democracy is sneaking up to its inevitable position;" that he regrets "the studious ambiguity which seems to search for a sallop through which to dodge its destiny"; that, on the other hand, he does not like the policy of those who proclaim "their purpose of revolution." He holds that "the republican organization can rally to no cry but a slogan, and conquer under no standard but a spear;" and that "hostility to the fifteenth amendment (negro suffrage) is the stock in trade of the fomenters of strife."

We have but little fruit; some wild plums, gooseberries and a small kind of grape. Few orchards have been set out as yet, in this part of the State, which has been settled over six years, though at our State Fair the fruit surpassed any thing I ever saw East. This is truly a wheat growing State, the crop of small grains never fails. Corn is not so sure, last year it was almost a failure in consequence of dry weather. Sorghum, sweet potatoes, peanuts, tobacco and broom corn are raised here, and it seems to me as though all kinds of vegetation would grow.

We have an abundance of limestone and red and yellow sandstone, for building purposes. In some parts of the State, magnesian limestone abounds, which is easily worked and susceptible of the highest polish. There is nothing here like Quincy granite,—no stone but can be worked out with a hatchet.

The climate is changeable as in New England. The winters are short and mild, with but little snow. The thermometer seldom falls below zero, and when it does it is but for a short time. The air is pure and bracing; we seldom see a fog, and never a whole day of foggy weather, consequently, the people are but little troubled with colds. It is said that no person ever dies with consumption here, unless the disease was contracted before they came.

We have a large breed of horses and cattle, brought from the east; also a small breed of Indian ponies, and of long horned cattle from Texas. This is the best stock raising State I ever saw.—Many farmers never feed their stock cattle at all in winter. I think it better to put up about one thousand pounds of hay to a head, this is a plenty. We have a kind of blue grass which cattle do well on, nearly all winter. It is common for a farmer to have from fifty to one hundred head of cattle, and some have as many as one thousand. Good native milk cows are worth from fifty to seventy-five dollars; Texas from $20 to $45. Large horses from $75 to $175; ponies from $40 to $75.

There are thousands of buffaloes a few miles from the settlements. I used to wonder what could support such vast herds, but now when I see such perpetual, unlimited pasturage, it is no matter for wonder. We have also, elk, antelope, deer, jack rabbit, wild cat, beaver, otter, porcupine and prairie dogs. Rattle snakes are plenty, and is the only venomous snake here. Buffalo is the meat mostly used.

The inhabitants are about one-third Yankees; the rest seem to have come from every State and Country in the universe. The Indians are our worst neighbors; making it dangerous to go buffalo hunting, in summer time, in small companies. More or less whites are killed by them, on the frontier, every season.—Two years ago, some people were attacked by them near here. Then, settlers were few and far between, but now there is no danger; a great many families have come in within a year, and still they come. There is room for more yet.

I would like to see some of my old Quincy friends here. Let them take a trip to Kansas, where land is cheap and good, and where all can be independent.

C. C. PAGE.

PEACHES. The growers from all parts of the peach section report that the trees are as full of peaches as they can well bear, and that the crop will, unless something not now expected occurs, reach at least 3,500,000 baskets, about 500,000 more than were gathered in 1869, the champion peach year. This increase over 1869 is based upon the fact that thousands of new trees will come into bearing for the first time, and that the extension of the Maryland and Delaware and Kent Railroads has stimulated the business of fruit growing along the lines of these roads. From 300,000 to 500,000 new trees have been planted this season, not only to supply the place of those that may die, but to increase the total annual product.—Delaware Gazette.

The music at Christ Church, N. Y., is costing $12,000 a year.

J. Q. Adams on the Democratic Situation.

The New York Herald, says:—Mr. John Quincy Adams, a chip of the old block of Quincy granite, and the late democratic candidate for Governor in Massachusetts, has written a bold, outspoken letter to a political co-laborer in Missouri, which pretty sharply defines the democratic situation on the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, establishing negro civil and political equality. In this letter he says the people feel that as things are now going, they are going wrong, but that "the sweep of reaction is stayed by the dread of revolution;" that it is the true policy of the democrats to "dispel this apprehension;" that he deplores "the halting, hesitating step with which the democracy is sneaking up to its inevitable position;" that he regrets "the studious ambiguity which seems to search for a sallop through which to dodge its destiny"; that, on the other hand, he does not like the policy of those who proclaim "their purpose of revolution." He holds that "the republican organization can rally to no cry but a slogan, and conquer under no standard but a spear;" and that "hostility to the fifteenth amendment (negro suffrage) is the stock in trade of the fomenters of strife."

This is speaking to the point and to the purpose. Mr. Adams says, furthermore, that everything gives way to "the supreme arbitrament of war;" that "the people will never resign their attitude of hostile vigilance, which is the real significance of the present administration, until they know that no one of their war trophies is any longer disputed," but that "then they will resume the habits which they love and the good nature they respect." So he urges the democrats to come up to the scratch of the fifteenth amendment of "equal and exact justice," and asks them "who dares face an intelligent people with that testimony (equal rights) upon his lips, and denounce a measure which is too democratic for democrats only because the enfranchised are black?" He says that "the old constitution is just as good as ever it was, for South as well as North, in spite of the marks of the mailed hand which must remain upon it for a warning to those that come after us." "It is war—civil war—that oppresses the States; and you have only to close this war and you restore self-government to the people of the States."

Here we have the whole merits of the main question in a nutshell, and Mr. Adams, in his independent way of speaking his convictions, has been doing the best service that he could possibly do to put the democratic party on the right track. It is a little remarkable, too, that at about the same time that late recognized chief of all the copperheads, that keen observer of "fixed facts," Mr. Vallandigham, of Ohio, should be doing the very thing recommended by Mr. Adams—an honest recognition, out and out, of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, negro civil and political equality, negro suffrage and all. And this is the very point to which the democracy of the nation must come before they can hope to reverse the popular judgment of the Presidential elections of 1860, 1864 and 1868.

"Better pay the Butcher than the Doctor." Pine Apples, Strawberries, and such like good things are to be found at G. & H. S. Totman's Provision store on Elm street. They also keep an excellent supply of groceries, as well as meats and vegetables, and sell them at reasonable prices.

END OF THE COAL TROUBLES. We may now reasonably infer an end to the coal troubles, for a season at least.—Arbitration, in which there was mutual concession on the part of the arbitrators, has secured this much desired consummation. There is, to be sure, no guaranty that the troubles will not be renewed whenever the market is again over-stocked or the miners desire a holiday. Coal was delivered at the works of the Pennsylvania Coal Company at Newburg, N. Y., on Monday last for the first time since December. Twenty-five trains will now run daily.

The cost of the strike is estimated as follows:—It is said that 30,000 miners have been idle five and a half months of 25 working days per month, at $2 50 per day (a low estimate); each day would have covered $75,000, and the whole period of idleness $10,350,000. Then 40,000 railroad employers, drivers, coal-handlers and others, and iron-workers, were thrown out of employment for want of cheap coal at the furnaces and mills; and, estimating that they have lost $2 per day on the average, their daily loss of wages was $40,000, and during the period of the strike, $11,040,000. The total loss to the working people thus exceeds $18,000,000.

A youth of Washington carries a lot of live snakes in his pockets, and isn't a bit afraid of pickpockets either.

BALLOONING. The Stone & Murray Circus balloon proved rather a slim affair. It went but a few hundred feet before it burst, and took a downward course, the car striking in the street, near Mr. Emerson's hair dressing saloon, and the top hitting against his house, knocking off part of the chimney. A horse harnessed to a covered carriage in the yard ran into the stable, breaking the wagon badly.

THE NATION'S DEAD

Head's Pond Revere Post, No. 88, G. A. R.

It is the intention of this Post, to decorate all the known graves of deceased Soldiers and Sailors, within the town, on MONDAY, 30th inst., ON MEMORIAL DAY.

Tuesday, May 30th.

Owing to the increased demand for flowers this year, it is impossible for us to procure the supply requisite to properly decorate the many graves of "our dead" without appealing for individual donations. Therefore, we earnestly solicit contributions of flowers, wreaths, crosses, and other designs in flower, from all interested in this touching and beautiful ceremony.

Wreaths, Crosses of Immortelles or Bouquets, intended for special graves, will be carefully deposited on the same, if properly addressed. It is requested that such special, and all contributions of flowers, may be sent to these Headquarters, (Hall's), on MONDAY, 29th inst., or early on morning of "Memorial Day."

Should the day prove stormy, the decorations will be performed by details from the Post, and the exercises pertaining to the occasion will be held in the Town Hall, commencing at 2 1-2 o'clock, P. M.

For the Committee, WILLIAM G. SHEEN.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

There is one thing in regard to our Public Library which some people do not understand. There is still an idea that, because it will probably be placed in a room in the Adams Academy building, it will be a part of the old Adams library, and books cannot be taken out to be read. On the contrary, it is entirely distinct; books will be taken out of the library as well as read in it, and moreover, there is no doubt that the trustees will have a reading room, with the leading periodicals and papers of the day. In fact, the library will be a place where we can all drop in and spend an evening pleasantly, and where perhaps some of our young men can find such a way of passing the time as they now seek in other localities. As a method of keeping up the standard of morality in the town, such a resort, with its means of improvement and its pleasant associations, is of great advantage.

Moreover, the character of the inhabitants of a town is largely estimated by its public institutions. It is lamentably true that in these, Quincy has been rather deficient, and even those she has had appear to have been disposed of as soon as possible. About the only one within my recollection was the Horse Railroad, and even that, by some strange hocus-focus, was removed. I suppose that the old Canal would have been taken up, also, if it had been possible. As it was, it was only rendered useless. But now, fortunately, there seems to be something of a change. Everybody agrees that, from a building point of view, the prospect never was brighter. Our population is increasing and the class of citizens who are coming in are apparently those who will be permanent, and of whom the town should be proud. We want to attract all the good citizens we can. One way to do it is by a public library. I confess that my own feeling in the matter is a selfish one. I want to read and have my children read magazines and papers, but I cannot afford to subscribe for them and do not want to borrow. I therefore can take the money which I now subscribe for one magazine, give it to the library, and then read a dozen.

I know that this is the case with many. Now, with the arrangements made by the trustees, the whole town can be canvassed within a week and if everybody strikes while the iron is hot, the $2,500, can be easily raised. Let everybody give something who likes the idea and thinks a public library a good thing. And as the dog-tax is appropriated to the maintenance of the library, let everybody who opposes books keep a dog and we shall get something out of him.

The Trustees of the National Sailors' Home in this town, have sent to Chief Damrell $100 for the Charitable Association of the Fire Department, in recognition of efficient service at the fire on May 16th.

A party of gentlemen and ladies visited Mount Mansfield a few days since and found snow in many places several feet deep, but frozen so hard as to be easy to walk on.

CARD.

Having become satisfied after thorough investigation, that Elastic Sponge, as now and lately manufactured, is one of the best of all the substitutes for curled hair, for many if not most uses in Upholstery, we have accepted the Agency of it, and intend to make it heretofore a specialty in our business. The objections which have been made to it, which it is well known we ourselves have thought were well founded, we have ascertained cannot be urged against the article as now perfected. The process of manufacture has been entirely remodelled under the advice and superintendence of one of the most eminent chemists of New England. New chemical and mechanical appliances have been introduced in cleaning curly hair, and in charging it with glycerine, with such entire success, that Elastic Sponge may now be said to be chemically pure. There is absolutely nothing in it but the clean fibre of sponge and chemically pure glycerine.

The objections to Elastic Sponge being thus removed, there remains its comparative merits which certainly entitle it to be considered one of the most valuable as it is one of the most curious and interesting of late discoveries. Chief among these merits is, that it is proof against moisture, the great scourge of the business, and against all other insects. The elasticity is permanent, based as it is upon the non-evaporable property of glycerine and the indestructibility of sponge fibre. We have always been satisfied upon these two points which are the essential requisites in such materials. The evidence is now equally clear that it is wholesome and sweet. It is certainly light and soft, easy to manipulate, and cheap enough for all except the lowest class of goods. For the cushioning of Churches, Theatres, Public Halls, Railway Stations, Omnibuses, Carriages, Siam and Horse Cars and the like, it will probably be found, everything considered, the best article in use. For all uses, and especially for bedding, we are now prepared to recommend the public to give it a trial as we ourselves have found it to be a most reliable and valuable material. We are ready also to answer inquiries, make estimates and take orders for every description of work in sponge, as well as to supply the trade, the article in bulk.

Poetry.

THE PRESENT.

See the shadow swiftly flying
Over valley, plain and height;
Here in gloom the landscape lying,
Flooded there with golden light.
Like the line before us fleeing,
Which the light and shade divides,
Is the present of our being,
Past and future, all besides;—
Just a line of separation,
Bright before, behind a blot;
Neither substance nor duration,
Only seen in what 'tis not;— Hope from memory defining,
The mere starting point of thought,
Two eternities combining,
In itself considered nought.
Nought, and yet as life streams swelling
From the rifted rock were brought,
At each stroke of time comes welling
Up from hence a flood of thought;—
Nought, and yet the thought hence springing,
Two eternities of error,
Over both its life bringing,
Making past and future one.

Farmers' Department.

THE CURRANT WORM.

We are informed by Dr. E. Worcester of Waltham, that the currant worm, so destructive to a favorite fruit, may be fully and almost immediately destroyed by the use of carbolic acid of lime. The doctor tried the powder in many instances last summer, and found that while it was fully as effective as hellebore, it was less disagreeable, less costly and perfectly safe. The method of using it is to sprinkle it over the vines as soon as the worm makes his appearance, bringing it to the insect in contact with the leaves, and soon the insect is destroyed. It will need but two or three applications, and the work is done. In this way, for a few cents, large quantities of currant bushes may be saved and the fruit be allowed to mature, and no danger whatever incurred. Neither the foliage nor the fruit is in any way injured by the carbolic acid of lime. It will be well for our readers to remember this when the fruit season returns.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

SOOT AS MANURE.

Soot is said, by those who ought to know, to be worth nearly as much as guano. On the grass plot, or in the flower or fruit garden, its effects when properly applied are very marked. When mixed with water and sprinkled over vines it seems to have the effect of keeping off insects of various kinds. On flowers it has the effect to intensify their colors.

It is not to be found in any great abundance to be sure, but more or less of it collects in the chimneys and stove pipes of almost every dwelling, and small as the quantity is, it is worth saving and applying to plants. Instead of burning out foul chimneys, why not sweep them out and save the soot always to be found in them. The habit of saving all the fertilizing materials is a good one to fall into, and they amount to a great deal in the course of the year.

ASHES FOR FRUIT TREES.

The editor of the Horticulturalist says: We have known quite a number of instances—indeed, so often as to make it quite a rule—that old orchards apparently dying out, have been brought back again to fruitfulness by the liberal use of wood ashes, also stirring the soil. Potash is the most important element in the successful growth of all kinds of fruit trees. An old gentleman told a club, not long ago, that he had known a man to make and preserve an orchard of apple trees in a flourishing and productive condition, originally placed on very poor ground, by sprinkling every year around each tree, to the circumference of the extent of its branches, half a bushel of ashes. We consider this a very important item.

Anecdotes.

An Irishman made a sudden bolt into a druggist shop, took from his pocket a soda water bottle, filled to the brim with some pure liquor, and handing it across the counter, exclaimed:—
"There, doctor, snuff that, will you?"
The doctor did as he was directed, and pronounced the liquor to be genuine whiskey.
"Thank you, doctor," said the Irishman. "Hand it to me again, if you please."
The doctor again did as directed, and asked what he meant.
"Och, this," said Pat, "if you will have it, the priest told me not to drink any of this unless I got it from the doctor. So here's your health, and the priest's health."

In the neighborhood of Boston once lived two clergymen, one of whom was remarkable for his dry humor, and the other for his prolixity. The former mentioned the latter, asked him to preach for him at the "Preparatory Lecture." The latter replied that he could not, as he was busy writing a sermon on the "Golden Calf."

"That's just the thing," was the rejoinder, "come and give us a fore-quarter of it."

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., MAY 27th, 1871.

AN ECCENTRIC GERMAN.

The will of a rich German nobleman was contested, and an attempt made to set it aside by his relations, on the ground that he had left his large fortune to his wife, who was not his equal in life, having been a waiting-maid at a country inn, and who had merely married him for his money. He was thirty years her senior, and who had merely married him for his money. He was thirty years her senior, and who had merely married him for his money. He was thirty years her senior, and who had merely married him for his money.

By the laws of Germany all persons can testify in their own case, and by an equally good law public sentiment holds ignorance to be a crime, so that all are educated. When this waiting-maid, that was, appeared in the witness-box, she proved to be not only a most beautiful woman, but a most intelligent one also.—She stood up uncovered before the court and jury, as is the custom there, neither willing nor reluctant to testify, and stated as follows:—

"Although it is true that my station in life was far below that of my dear, departed husband, and the disparity in age great, yet I saw, when he first addressed me, that his intentions were honorable and his principles good, and to a liberal and sweet disposition he added a cultivated mind, and in these good qualities I saw his beauty. "As to influencing him," she added, "in the disposition of his property, I never mentioned the matter to him. In the four years of happiness that we lived together money was never mentioned, nor did I ever know that he had made a will. As to his last illness, I well remember his last words"—and here she stopped.

One of the lawyers asked her to state what they were. She modestly replied that she would prefer not to do so. The opposing counsel, conceiving that her answer would be in favor of his client, insisted on it; and the judge kindly told her that by the laws she would have to do so, as she must tell them all.

"He had been ill for several days," she said, "and I was sitting near him at the window, knitting, when he beckoned me to come still nearer to him. He then said,—'Fredericka, my dear, kiss me, and get the glasses, and open that bottle of champagne, and let us take our last farewell, for I am about to leave you.' "And sobbing in her handkerchief, she continued, "Which we did, and he died."

The case was given to the jury without argument, and in less than five minutes they returned a verdict for the widow.

Lillie is the fashionable name for young ladies this year. No family should be without it.

MUNIFICENT DONATIONS. At its regular meeting last Monday evening, Fairmount Division, S. of T. of Hyde Park, received from Henry H. Faxon Esq., of Quincy, a present of fifty dollars to be used as the Division may deem best for the promotion of its own interest or for that of the cause at large. We are informed by Past-Commander Cobb that Mr. Faxon has also made a donation to the charity-tend of H. A. Darling, Post 151, G. A. R., of seventy-five dollars. If, as Portia declares, "it is more blessed to give than receive," Mr. Faxon must be particular blessed, for this is several times removed from being the first instance of his munificence in behalf of humane and religious objections in our town, as our readers may remember by reference to former items in these columns.—Gazette.

AN OLD WITCH. An astrologer, who calls herself Arabella Makapos, and pretends to have been born in one of the Greek islands 2,000 years ago, is creating a sensation in Smyrna by revealing the future in a manner declared to be wholly supernatural. She is reputed to be extremely handsome, and not to look more than 25. Her history is altogether mysterious.

PLUCKY. A Worcester boy ten years old who had a finger amputated by a hay-cutter, and went to a doctor who cut the stump off again, coolly stuck his sound hand in his pocket, after the operation, and offered to pay the bill, asking if it would be more than ten cents.

Anniversary week in Boston this year will commence on the twenty-ninth instant. It always includes the last Wednesday of the month.

Horse and Cattle Remedy.
SHERIDAN and Harvell's Condition Powders, Crapo's Horse Liniment, Very's Horse and Cattle Lotion, Mexican Mustang Liniment, Tobias Venetian Liniment, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, Merchants Gargling Oil, which has been successfully used in Quincy, for the last 35 years.

For sale by MRS. E. HAYDEN, Washington St. Quincy, March 18.

PAPER HANGINGS FOR 1871

At 24 Washington St., Next to Stetson's Shoe Store.

WE have received an invoice of New Papers, comprising all the various qualities, colors and patterns, from the finest stamined Gold to the common Browns, which we offer for sale low, and respectfully solicit inspection. Special pains have been taken in the selection of these papers, and persons about to paper their own rooms, will find in our assortment, that are strong and easy to hang. Paper Hangers furnished if desired.

KEATING & SPEAR.
Quincy, March 11, 1871.

The valley of the Red River of the North is said to contain 60,000 square miles of the finest wheat ground in the world. The six New England States contain 65,000 square miles, but a large portion of this area is taken up by mountains. When the Red River valley shall be cultivated, it is estimated that it will produce 600,000,000 bushels of wheat annually.

The "earth cure" was tried recently on a half dozen cases of scurvy on the western plains, the patients being planted up to their necks in the ground and allowed to remain over night. The virtues of the treatment are still a matter of dispute, however, as a pack of coyotes came along and ate all the six heads off.

"Time works wonders," as the lady said when she got married after thirteen-years' courtship.

Welcome the Washing Day!

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW!

Washing reduced to a Science by using the

CHAMPION Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN, Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

- 1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.
- 2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.
- 3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.
- 4th. It washes the whole garments at once.
- 5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.
- 6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.
- 7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.
- 8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 1 Eastcott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fibroid Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedily relieved guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obdurate complaints yield under it, and the affected persons soon regain their perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1848, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

For the Patriot.

ROBIN.

Come Robin, and sing me a song.

Oh I tell me a note that is sweet,

I have waited the whole winter long

For your voice with music replete.

Come set on the bonneted bird,

Of the elm, that stands by the pane,

Where oft I have watched you, and now,

Am watching, I hope not in vain.

Sweet Robin! I sing to my heart,

A song that is tender and true,

And tell me I never shall part,

From my Love, sweet Robin and you.

Come Robin, and let me forget,

The dark apples of Friendship's dead sea,

While I think of the violets yet,

That keep blooming forever for me.

You are coming I know, for the leaves

Sooty rustle beneath your light tread;

You are coming to sing, "he who grieves,"

Liveth only in hours that are dead.

FISH CHOWDER WITHOUT PORK.

Here is an excellent recipe for making fish chowder, for the benefit of those who do not eat pork. Take three pounds of fresh codfish, cut in pieces about three inches square, five or six good-sized potatoes, sliced very thin, and half a dozen hard crackers broken a little. Put two-thirds of a cup of butter in the bottom of the kettle, then a layer of fish, then a layer of potatoes and crackers, and so on till all is used. Sprinkle over each layer salt and pepper quite freely, and pour over it boiling water enough to cover it. Cover it closely to keep the steam. Let it boil twenty minutes, add a pint of new milk and it is ready for the table. All who have eaten it pronounce it delicious. Try it, and you will say it is far superior to a chowder made with pork. If hard crackers cannot be obtained, use common ones, but do not put them in until the chowder is nearly done cooking, as they will spoil it if put in too thick.

Household.

A Kentucky sheriff had notified the taxpayers in his district that he is "tired of dunning for tax," and that "the tax-payers of to no tax to pay without being dunned."

A very polite Frenchman applauded vehemently at the close of an exceeding tedious performance by a fair but wretched musician. "Why do you applaud?" asked a bystander. "Mon Dieu! because it is ended."

Fashionable brides are usually reported to be "much affected" at the matrimonial service, but in some instances it is said that they're not more affected than they always have been.

A cynical old bachelor says: "Believe one-half the ill woman speaks of another, twice the good she reports of her."

"No CARDS." Why do people affix the words "no cards" at the end of marriage announcements? Because they have played all their cards before marriage.

Miscellany.

A MINER'S STORY.

"It's caved!" exclaimed Bill Beave, bursting into the cabin, where I was,

leisurely eating breakfast and reading

the news from some last year's papers that was pasted on the wall. "The ground has caved! It came down mighty sudden; and Little Jimmy was at the breast. I was further out in the drift, and had the start of it; but it made such a close call for me, that I know he must

'a got ketched."

This technical jargon revealed to me

the fact that our mine had caved, and had buried one of our companions, for "Little Jimmy" was not an infant, but a man—a miner and a friend. He had been working at the "breast" or farthest end of the "drift," but was now perhaps sleeping his last sleep in the bosom of the mother of us all.

Three years before this we had come to this creek. We had prospected the "side gulches" and the bars, and found

"colors" everywhere. Indications were favorable, so we "staked" a body of ground along the main creek, built cabins, organized a company, of which the writer was elected president, and went to work to open our claim.

Those three years had been of toil and privation. We were in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Our camp was pitched in a little basin of a valley, warm and sunny, and just at the entrance of a deep and gloomy canon, which we named "The Devil's Gate," and through which our sparkling little stream foamed and tumbled down to that great river, the Missouri. Our ground was deep and very wet. Drainage was necessary, and we had driven a tunnel for this purpose through the earth and boulders that filled the primeval bed of the creek, until we had attained a horizontal distance of a thousand yards; but the slope of the gulch was so gradual that we had not reached the "bed-rock," where we hoped to find the gold laid in heaps. "Bedrock" being the objective point,

SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1871.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

MEMORIAL DAY.

The observance of the day in this place, on Tuesday last, was not so extensive or enthusiastic as last year. Many of the stores and other public places were open throughout the day, and those that were closed, remained so but for a short duration. The day opened warm and beautiful, but as the sun drew nearer and nearer the meridian, the heat became more and more oppressive, and for several hours the thermometer indicated one hundred degrees in the shade, in front of Mr. Holden's jewelry store.

The excessively hot weather no doubt had much to do in keeping our citizens indoors; still there were other reasons which had more or less effect in keeping the people at home. After the town had appropriated a handsome sum of money for decorating the graves, and placed it in the hands of Post 88, Grand Army of the Republic, we think they most decidedly missed it in not showing their appreciation for the same. No public notice was given that there were to be any beautiful and impressive ceremonies incident to the day, such as speaking, singing, &c. We were often asked what were to be the exercises of the day and at what time they were to take place, but could give no satisfactory reply, and we found no one that could. The Post in other respects did exceedingly well.

The programme of observance arranged for their own convenience, was fully carried out, although under considerable fatigue, owing to the scorching rays of the sun, and the dusty streets. About nine o'clock in the forenoon, the Quincy Brass Band, McClellan Guards, and Post 88, proceeded in carriages to the National Soldiers Home, there decorating a few graves of sailors; then re-embarcated and proceeded to the West District, and with appropriate ceremonies decorated all the graves of the heroic dead, in the three cemeteries there found. At both the Catholic Cemeteries the solemn service for the dead, according to the formula of that Church, were rendered by the Rev. Father Francis Frigolietti. These ceremonies concluded, the procession returned to the Headquarters of the Post, where, it was said, a bountiful collation had been provided under the direction of Comrade D. Fred French. The line was again formed at 2.30 in the following order:—

Quincy Brass Band,
The McClellan Light Guards,
45 Members,
Paul Revere Post, No. 88, G. A. R.,
Major William G. Shuen, Commanding,
40 Members,
Flower Wagon,
Carriages containing Disabled Soldiers and Sailors,
Officers of the Day and Chaplain,
The Selectmen of the Town.

The route of march was through Hancock and School streets, to the Episcopal Cemetery, thence returning through Phillips and Liberty streets, to the Old Cemetery in the centre of the town, at both of which places the graves of soldiers therein were appropriately decorated by details from the Post; thence proceeding through Temple and Codding streets, to the Wollaston Cemetery, which was reached at 3.12 P. M. The exercises were as follows:

Dirge by the Band; Prayer by Rev. Mr. Skinner, Post Chaplain; short Address by Commander of Post, followed by the decorating of the graves of soldiers and sailors within the enclosure. Every one of which was visited, and a handsome wreath or bouquet deposited on the same. After the ceremony of decorating the graves, the remaining flowers were placed around the Soldiers' Monument. At the conclusion of these touching rites, Col. Chas. H. Porter delivered a brief and impressive address.

The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. Mr. Kelly, and with this terminated the decorative rites of the day.

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
The soldiers' last tattoo,
No more to life's parade shall meet
The brave and gallant few;
On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn tread
The bivouac of the dead.

BASE BALL. A match game of ball was played on the 19th ult., between the Everett club of Quincy and a picked nine of South Quincy, which resulted in favor of the former by the following score:—

THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION.

The Session just closed, has not been a very eventful one except for the deadlock at the close. There was no conspicuous swindle attempted, and this is accounted for by the defeat of the Hartford and Erie swindle last year. Railroad questions, out of which swindles are so apt to grow, were pretty extensively discussed, but nothing of great importance was done. Several short lines were chartered, including the extension of the Massachusetts Central from Weston to Boston. A bill was passed looking to the reduction of rates for way freight, and railroads were authorized to run cheap trains, the tickets for those trains not being good on others. Measures looking to the ownership of railroads by the State were voted down. Nothing was done with the Hartford and Erie corpse except to take absolute possession of the pledged Berdell bonds. The South Boston flats were left in the mud. The most interesting work of the session was the State Police investigation, and the result was the change of the force by putting it in charge of a commission and reducing the number of men to seventy. Under the new law Deputy Constables will not find it profitable to serve without pay. The Agricultural College has been divorced from the State and received alimony to the tune of about $125,000. The Normal School at Worcester gets $60,000, and Prof. Agassiz, takes his usual $50,000. The woman suffragists were allowed to withdraw, the Boston Park bill was defeated, the high ways were put in charge of commissioners, and a new betterment law was passed. The righteous Ten-Hour bill was passed by the House, but was killed in the Senate. An attempt to make divorce easier of accomplishment failed, but widowed mothers are allowed to continue to act as guardians for their children, though they remarry. Two new cities were chartered—Somerville and Gloucester; and two new towns created—Ayer and Maynard. The name of one town was changed—North Chelsea to Revere. The session was nearly a month shorter than for the past two years, and about five hundred acts and resolves were passed, which are hardly worth what they cost. The Legislature could have done much better, but we should be thankful, perhaps, that it did no worse. —Post Herald.

LAND FOR SALE. Henry H. Faxon sells this afternoon, at four o'clock, about one and a half acres of land near the Wollaston School House. For particulars see notice.

Jonathan French, Esq., of Braintree, sells on Wednesday next, seven acres of valuable salt marsh, lying on the Neponset river. This sale will offer a grand chance for some one to purchase land well located for wharf property having a bold front on the river. The many thousand excellent building sites in the north part of the town, together with its close proximity to the city, makes it a very desirable location for a lumber or coal wharf. For particulars see notice.

SALES. John Q. Adams, Esq., has purchased of Mr. Edwin B. Pratt, the valuable piece of property in the centre of the town, which includes the land and buildings now occupied by Messrs. Wilson, Emerson, Haywards and others, at the junction of Hancock and Temple streets, for $9,000.

Twenty-one house lots, belonging to the estate of the late George Baxter, was recently sold at auction to Mr. John Southern, of Boston, for $2,575.

Mr. Isaac P. Willey has returned to this town, after an absence of six or eight years, and has purchased of Mr. Michael Griffin, his former place on Quincy Avenue, for $1,600.

SUMMER TRIPS. It will be seen by our advertising columns that the beautiful steamer Massasoit has commenced running her regular summer trips.

SUDDEN DEATH. Mr. Orrin F. Frye, who has resided at Railway Village, for some years during the Summer months, and is well known and esteemed by many of our citizens, died at his residence in Boston, on Monday last, from brain fever, after an illness of little more than a week. Mr. Frye has been connected for many years with the firm of Rand, Avery & Frye, and was highly respected by a large circle of friends, by whom his sudden death will be sincerely regretted.

Mr. Chase Parker has commenced a very fine house on the north side of Atlantic street, near the junction of Squantum street, North Quincy. It is on a pleasant piece of land, commanding a good view of the harbor, making it a very desirable location. There are quite a number of fine residences being built in that vicinity.

They have a spring of indelible ink in California.

BARNUM'S GREAT MORAL SHOW.

The advent of which has been so long heralded, with its vast army of men and horses, and the grand collection of animals and curiosities from the four winds of the earth, and sea, will be exhibited in three mammoth pavilions, for one price of admission, in Quincy, Saturday, June 10th.

Barnum has hit the right plan, viz:— combining wholesome instruction with innocent amusement. His grand combination of Museum and Menagerie is a perfect school of study and diversion, where we find living human phenomena, remarkable lusus nature, strange and unaccountable freaks of animal life, monstrosities in various forms and stages of development, Perizition giants and Lilliputian dwarfs, no armed woman and bearded child, or an Esauic prodigy, with a marvelous hirsute development in which a little girl only five years old, is found literally covered with hair, moustache and whiskers; a striking representation of corporal development on the one hand and diminution on the other,—a monster giant 8 feet high, and a little man in miniature only 25 inches high; being four times smaller than the famous Tom Thumb!

We also find a vast aggregation of the animal kingdom,—a sensible presence of God's living forms, from whose diversified forms and physiognomies, which we can study, as the best possible treatise on natural history. Man's perfect mastery and subjection of the brute creation, to his own will and purposes, and the admirable manner in which these interesting creatures are fed and conserved in captivity, and thus exhibited in a thorough and expansive zoological institute on wheels, of which P. T. Barnum's is the largest and most magnificent ever witnessed in America.

The wax figures, classic statuary, automaton and mechanical wonders, art and manufactures of all nations; his Digger Indians from the Yo-Semite Valley, Feege curiosities and Egyptian mummies 3000 years old,—in fact, all that is truly interesting, rare and startling, may be seen in Barnum's great show for only fifty cents.

To this is added a free Circus, in a separate tent, with the best performers in the world. Who does not want to go, under these circumstances, and witness the grandest affair of the season.

BRAINTREE. Decoration day passed here, as in many other towns. Post 87 went through with put half of their programme, and gave the remaining half to detachments, owing to the exceeding hot weather. One thing in the procession worthy of note was a miniature monument, with the fallen soldiers' names inscribed upon it. It was drawn by a span of horses; four young men accompanying the same. It was the work of Mr. T. B. Stoddard, and was a very beautiful affair.

Some five hundred partook of the collation at the Town Hall, and afterwards listened to Ex-Governor Harriman, who notwithstanding the heat was good, extra good.

Mr. Frederick Cram, in passing through one of our streets, was very much injured. A moving machine being set in operation just as he was passing, and his horse became frightened, overturned the carriage, throwing Mr. C. out, bruising him, and injuring the carriage. It is hoped his injuries will not prove fatal.

In the evening the different religious societies held a union prayer meeting, which was fully attended.

Summary Intelligence.

The Treasury Department is now turning out from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 of bonds daily.

Canker worms have commenced devastating the orchards throughout the State.

The best and probably the safest imitation of real hair now in the market is that made from linen thread.

A Racine, Wis., rope factory spun a yarn over a mile long lately.

The divers have at last succeeded in reaching the treasure of the English ship Hussar, sunk in the East river, New York, during the revolutionary war, with $5,800,000 in specie on board.

Young ladies in Iowa select shoes in company with their beaux. They always take No. 2's and exchange them next day for No. 5's.

Seventy-eight women are now regularly ordained preachers in the United States.

A Wisconsin postmaster has written to Washington for "some eternal revenue stamps," saying he has "several coils of them."

The wild land in the State of Vermont brought under cultivation in the last ten years is over three hundred thousand acres, or over eleven per cent.

Hay at Bangor Me., is higher than it has been for many years.

The fire losses in this State during 1870 have been nearly sixty and the marine nearly twenty millions,—both considerably in excess of 1869.

It is a singular circumstance that the word unabridged is not in the latest illustrated edition of "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary."

A Springfield man has collected 1200 specimens of the eggs of 400 of the 700 varieties of North American birds known to ornithologists, and has collectors busy still gathering.

Enormous flights of wild pigeons are destroying the crops in Nebraska.

The wives of General Sherman and Admiral Dahlgren, with Mrs. C. E. Beecher, have started a paper in Baltimore in opposition to woman's suffrage. It is called the "True Woman."

INJUNCTION. We learn that some of the heirs or owners of the estate of the late Peter Hardwick have caused an injunction to be served on the Highway Surveyor, Selectmen, Town Clerk and Treasurer, refraining them from proceeding with the work of laying out the new street from Sea to Washington, and the labor on the same accordingly ceased on Thursday last. The Selectmen made a report favorable to laying out the said street, at the last annual March meeting, and the town accepted the report, and ordered the road to be built. But through some slight mistake or ignorance, it is said, some of the owners were not notified, which has accordingly caused this trouble.

MAY TRAINING. The 3d Regiment held their usual May training at Taunton, on Wednesday last. The McClellan Guards, Capt. Boyd, of this place, were promptly on time, and made a very fine appearance.

ANCIENT CHURCH EDIFICE. In the year 1788 there was elected in Boston, on what is now the site of Hollis Street Church, a wooden structure 60 feet by 70 feet, with two steeples. It was built to take the place of one destroyed by fire the year before. After a service of twenty years, it was, in 1810, taken down and removed to Weymouth, having been used from then till now, a period of more than sixty years. It is still in a state of good preservation, and is to be raised up, a vestry, &c., built under it, and other additions made, under the directions of T. W. Silloway, architect, of Boston. It may be named, in this connection, that the venerable Jonas Perkins, at the advanced age of eighty years, is senior pastor of the society, and is in the enjoyment of health, permitting a constant attendance and a somewhat active ministrations in the parish.

WORTHY OF IMITATION. Rev. Dr. Storrs's church, of Brooklyn, recently owed $125,000 on the church. An effort was made to cancel it, and in four weeks $127,000 was raised. This is an example worthy of imitation by all churches having debts.

The Duxbury and Cohasset Railroad is to be opened to Greenbush station in the south part of Scituate, about the middle of next month, and through to Duxbury by the first of July.

In order to meet the requirements of business men the president of the Old Colony and Fall River line have decided to again run Sunday night trains, to connect with the steamer at Fall River for New York. They make their first trip to-morrow from the Old Colony Depot, in Boston at 6:30 p. m.

QUINCY, MAY 30th, 1871.

The members of Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., desire to return their thanks to the ladies of the Town of Quincy, for the generous supply of flowers forwarded to these headquarters for the Memorial Day; and particularly to those ladies who in addition to their floral offerings, gave to us also, the labor of their hands in forming the same into wreaths and bouquets. This adds another weight to the deep debt of obligation, which we already owe to our lady friends.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat

Requires immediate attention, as neglect often results in an incurable Lung Disease.
Brown's Bronchial Troches will most invariably give instant relief. For BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CATARRH, CONSUMPTIVE and THROAT DISEASES, they have a soothing effect.

SINGERS and PUBLIC SPEAKERS use them to clear and strengthen the voice.
Owing to the good reputation and popularity of the Troches, many worthless and cheap imitations are offered, which are good for nothing. Be sure to obtain the true BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

OFFER DECLINED. It is understood that Secretary Boutwell has decided to reject Mr. J. Cooke's offer for the remaining portion of the new loan. Although the terms of the offer are not officially made known, it appears that the Secretary regarded it as involving on the part of the Treasury a speculation which he did not feel at liberty to enter on. Hence, on principle as well as on the grounds of financial prudence, he feels bound to decline the proposition.

THE PUBLIC DEBT. Statement shows a decrease in the debt of about $3,000,000 during May.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION. The New York Sun nominates William Grosvonts and John Q. Adams, for President and Vice President.

WE ARE JUST WHAT WE ARE.
Some men were born with passions strong,
Some are just what we are,
Some are right and some are wrong,
Some are finding fault forever;
Some are jealous of their wives,
Some without cause or reason,
Some are unhappy all their lives,
Some are happy in their season.
Some to church on Sundays go,
Some like to ride to Brighton,

CARD.

Having been satisfied after thorough investigation, that Elastic Sponge, as now and lately manufactured, is one of the best of all the substitutes for curled hair, for many if not most uses in Upholstery, we have accepted the Agency of it, and intend to make it hereafter a specialty in our business. The objections which have been made to it, and which it is well known we ourselves have thought were well founded, we have ascertained cannot be urged against the article as now perfected. The process of manufacture has been entirely remodelled under the advice and supervision of some of the most eminent chemists of New England. New chemical and mechanical appliances have been introduced in cleansing crude Sponges, and in charging it with glycerine with such entire success, that Elastic Sponges are now said to be chemically pure. There is absolutely nothing in it but the clean fibre of sponge and chemically pure glycerine.

The objections to Elastic Sponge being thus removed, there remains its undisputed merits which certainly entitle it to be considered one of the most valuable as it is one of the most curious and interesting of late discoveries. Chief among these merits, that it is proof against moisture, the great source of the business, and against all other insects. It is upon the non-evaporable property of glycerine and the indestructibility of sponge fibre. We have always been satisfied upon these two points which are the essential requisites in such materials. The evidence is now equally clear in the case of whole and sweet. It is certainly light and soft, easy to manipulate, and cheap enough for all except the lowest class of goods. For the cushioning of Churches, Theatres, Public Halls, Railway Stations, Omnibuses, Carriages, Sevens and Horse Cars and the like, it will probably be found, everything considered, the best article in use. For all uses, and especially for Bedding, we are now prepared to recommend the public to give it a fair trial as we ourselves intend to do. We are ready also to answer inquiries, make estimates and take orders for every description of work in Sponges, as well as to supply the trade, the article in Bales.

QUINCY, MASS., JUNE 3d, 1871.

FELINE DETERMINATION. The Weymouth Gazette mentioned a week or two ago about a dog adopting a young pig, and now relates a wonderful story of a cat. A cat of a year's growth, belonging to a family at South Weymouth, recently gave birth to a few interesting specimens of the feline race, but regarding one of the litter with an evil eye, apparently, refused to allow the kitten its supply of nourishment, beating a hasty retreat whenever the youngster attempted to "take hold." An elderly cat, progenitor of the pitiless mother, observing this remissness of duty, seized the animal and held her firmly on the floor a sufficient length of time to allow the unlucky kitten the enjoyment of "a good square meal," when she released her. Our informant relates this to be an actual fact.

Not to be behind in the narration of "indigestible" yarns, the Bangor Whig spreads the following fish story, which will serve as a finale to our illustrations of animal life:—"It is said that one of our fish dealers had a tame clam, which he has taught to come at his whistle, and follow him all over the house. The clam will stand up on his hind legs and beg, or lie down at the command of his master, and will sing, whistle and count as high as thirteen, and if reports are true, is a most remarkable example of what patience will accomplish."

A gentleman in this town, whose word has never yet been doubted, says he saw a young lady and gentleman holding a gate on its hinges one night recently. They were evidently indignant at being out so late, as he saw them bite each other several times.

The Journal of Chemistry announces that the human body contains phosphorus enough for 400 boxes of matches, but not quite sulphur enough for them.

Quincy, Feb. 11.

During the last month nearly 750 carriages were shipped from Amesbury, Mass., and it is estimated that 10,000 will be constructed this year, and that the pay of the workmen will be fully $500,000.

A married couple met at the Boston station house under rather peculiar circumstances. Francis Cunningham, the husband, who had shared the hospitality of the city for his night's lodging, on coming from his "apartment" in the morning was surprised to see his wife emerge from a neighboring cell, where she had passed the night as a consequence of being found drunk on the streets.

A horned toad, from the swamps of Nevada, came through the mail a distance of three thousand miles to a young merchant of Wilmington, last week, having rode the whole distance encased in a sardine-box, from which he was taken out in the best of health and spirits.

THE BATTLE OF THE FROGS. A gentleman of Lynn was passing Goldfish Pond, on Fayette street, a few mornings since, when he witnessed a singular scene, which he describes substantially as follows:—Around the margin of the pond, in the water, there was a large collection of common toads; close beside them was an equally large gathering of bullfrogs; and a battle between the two was in progress. The frogs, being the most powerful, were busily engaged in drowning the toads. One or more frogs would seize a toad and hold his head under the water until he was drowned. Sometimes a frog would find that he was overmatched, and then he would utter a peculiar sound, when one or more of his comrades would come to his aid, and the toad was sure to go under, never to rise again. This battle continued for several minutes, until the toads were completely "cleaned out," when the frogs joined in one triumphant croak, as though they had achieved a victory over mortal enemies. The scene was a most singular one, and such as is rarely witnessed.—Lynn Reporter.

SHOO-FLY. Three little girls who had very carefully buried in a garden in Portsmouth, N. H., the dead body of a pet bird, after consultation, sent one of their number into the house to inquire "if people didn't sing at funerals." On being told that they often did, the messenger ran back, and in a few minutes the three were standing hand in hand around the little mound, gravely singing "Shoo fly, don't bodder me."

GIRLS READ THIS. A short time ago a very strict young lady in society gave her photograph to a devoted admirer for his locket. Two days afterwards her brother found it on the floor of a billiard-room decorated with a pair of mustaches and an immense cigar, artistically done with a pin.

PLEASEING. A Boston lady recently consoled herself while enduring a dentist's tortures, by counting the blows struck by the little hammer used in driving in the filling, and reached the surprising number of three thousand.

The likeness of Silas Wright will be the vignette of the new $50 Treasury bonds, Edward M. Stanton of the $100 bonds, Thomas H. Benton of the $500 bonds, ex-President Harrison of the $1,000 bonds, Anson Burlingame of the $5,000 bonds, and John A. Andrew of the $10,000 bonds.

Funeral and Furnishing UNDERTAKER.

THE Subscriber having taken the Furnishing Undertaker's business of Mr. CHAS. H. KIMBALL, and removed it to No. 51 Hancock St., replenishing the same with a full assortment of CASKETS, COFFINS, ROBES AND HABITS, is prepared to attend to all who may favor him with their orders at the shortest notice. Having had several years experience in the Undertaking business, he hopes by strict attention to merit a share of patronage. Mr. Kimball can also be found in attendance, and all duties connected with the profession, will be attended to by day or night.

Quincy, May

A new school teacher in one of the unexplored districts of Sodus, on entering the school house for the first time, noticed a three-legged stool.
"Is this the dunce block?" he asked of a fair young girl who was standing near.
The dark eyes sparkled, the curls nodded assent, and the lips rippled out, "I guess so, the teacher always sits on it."

THE WANDERING JEW.

The Wandering Jew once said to me,
I passed through a city in the cool of the year;
A man in the garden plucked fruit from a tree—
I asked, "How long has the city been here?"
And he answered me, and he plucked away—
"It has always stood where it stands to-day,
And here it will stand forever and aye."
Five hundred years rolled by, and then
I travelled the self-same road again.

No trace of a city there I found;
A shepherd sat blowing his pipe alone,
His flock went quietly nibbling round.
I asked, "How long has the city been gone?"
And he answered me, and he piped away—
"The new ones bloom and the old decay
This is my pasture ground for aye."
Five hundred years rolled by, and then
I travelled the self-same road again.

And I came to a sea, and the waves did roar,
And a fisherman threw his net out clear,
And, when heavy laden, he dragged it ashore,
I asked, "How long has the sea been here?"
And he laughed, and he said, and he laughed away—
"As long as you billows have tossed their spray, They've fished, and they've fished, in this self-same bay."
Five hundred years rolled by, and then
I travelled the self-same road again.

And I came to a forest, vast and free,
And a woodman stood in a thicket near—
His axe he laid at the foot of a tree.
I asked, "How long have the woods been here?"
And he answered, "These woods are a covert for aye."
Five hundred years rolled by, and then
I travelled the self-same road again.

And I found there a city, and far and near Resounded the drum of the toll and gloe,
And I asked, "How long has the city been here,
And where is the pipe, and the wood, and the sea?"
And they answered me, as they went their way—
"Things always have stood as they stand to-day,
And so they will stand forever and aye."
I'll travel the self-same road again.

Interesting Selections.

MINCED BEEF. Three and a-half pounds lean beef, chopped as sausage meat; six crackers, rolled fine; three well-beaten eggs, four tablespoonsful cream, butter the size of an egg; mix all together (salt and pepper) and make in a loaf, and bake in a dripping pan, one and a-half hours. Cut cold, in slices, for relish.

FRIED CAKES. Three eggs, one and a half cups sugar, one cup of sour cream, one and a half cups of buttermilk, one teaspoonful of soda; do not mix very stiff.

THOROUGH. Never do things by halves. If you have a task before you, do it at once with all your might and all your mind, and do not leave it till it is finished. This is the way to get a light heart and an easy conscience, as well as a full purse.

It is your every day experiences that will cultivate you—the little silent workings within and without—slower, shell that you throw off raises you so much higher.

A RHEUMATIC PATIENT.

The following amusing sketch is taken from an old Boston paper:—
Well, thin, I took a very bad cold as long ago as St. Patrick's day; and faith, now and wan't it a hard one? Bother-ation to it—it gave me such a rheumatiz in the leg that I couldn't stand up without falling down—and whenever I walked, faith and 'ouns, I just stood still; and when I went to bed I sit up all night.
Well, me old woman doctored me, as she used to do in my own country, but a devil a bit the good did it do.

If I was in a free country I could not get freed from the rheumatiz; so I sent for the doctor. And when he did come, and sure thinks I, now I'll be for getting well in less than no time. So he walks up to me, and says he,
"Let's see your tongue."

"Me tongue is it y'd be afther seeing?
Don't you name the leg, says I, for faith
that's what pains me?"
"No; I mane your tongue," says he;
"that will indicate the state of your legs."
"The devil it will, what a strange country this free country is." So I put out me tongue, and the doctor said it was a very bad one, entirely.

"And now," says he, "let me have your wrist."
"Me wrist," says I, "don't you mane me knee? for sure nothing is the matter of me wrist."
"No, it's your wrist I want," says he,
"to be afther feeling your pulse."

"After feeling for me pulse," says I,
"ye'll find that is your game," says I.
"Your pulse, not your purse," says he.
So after feeling me pulse, as he called it, he said I had the inflammatory rheumatism, and that I must be bled. Well, Misther Editor, he bled me and then gave me some white powders to take, and I got worse every day of me life. Faith now,
I couldn't shtraine me leg at all, and me misthery was complete it was. Well, this docther attended me six months—and I groud worse all the time. So I told him not to come any more, for he did me no good. And sure, in less than an hour he sent in his bill, and oh, murther! he had charged me one hundred dollars, and all for making me worse. The devil take 'm, says I. It was my purse, after all, that he wanted. This country is most too free for me, faith it is. Well, the blackguard that brought the bill, said that it must be paid thin, or the docther would be afther getting an execution on everything we had.

"Oh, murtheration!" said me ould woman, "is that a monstrous of a docther going to execute my dear man?" So she ran to the Savings Bank, and was back before she started with the money, and gave it to the blackguard, who made thracks with it. What a devil of a free country it is, thought I—and what free docthers!

Well, Misther editor, just at this moment John Carney came in, and told me there was a place in Salem Strate, where they could cure the rheumatiz before a man had it.

"Faith, now, and how are they doing it?" says I.
"They stame it out of 'em," says he.
"I'll be afther trying it," says I. So John got a coach and tuk me right down there. Well, the Thompsonian docther told me I could walk before night. Devil a bit says I, for I can't stand on me throtters. We shall see, says he. So he gave me a cupful of stuff to drink; and, oh!
St. Patrick, wasn't it hot? But this wasn't after being a beginning. He then gave me some medicine; and after that he put me in a stame-box and sweat me. Blood and 'ouns, what a staming I got. But I felt all the better for it. He then put me in bed, and put a young stame-box to me thro'tters. Then he brought me a cupful of stuff he called coffee, and said Lobelia was in it.

"What will it be afther doing to me?"
says I.
"It will make yez vomit," says he.
"What?" says I, "you don't mane to say I shall vomit up the rheumatiz?"
"I shouldn't wonder," says he. So I down with it.

"Oh, murther, what a dose!" says I.
"Instead of low-Billy, I think it's high-Johnny, for sure it's high stuff!"
Well, in less than no time I felt very bad entirely—just as if I had two Kilkenny cats in me. But after I vomited freely, I felt like another man. He then put me in the stame-box agen, and stamed

INVESTMENTS.

If we compare first-class Railroad Bonds with good Real Estate mortgages as an investment for the people generally, each will be found to have peculiar advantages of their own. For example —a Railroad Bond is readily and always negotiable; its cash value is known by all bankers; and hence it can be used as collateral at bank for temporary loans;
the interest it bears is regularly and promptly paid, without trouble or expense to the holder; the investor in Railroad Bonds, unlike the owner of Real Estate mortgages, has no anxiety about the title to the property on which his bond is secured, insurance on buildings, or the annual payment of taxes, on which the continued soundness of that title depends.

On the other hand, it is to be admitted, that a first mortgage on valuable Land is one of the best possible securities. The property can neither run away nor burn up. Its value is not affected by speculative combinations, nor by fluctuations in the amount of Railroad traffic. The actual value of good land steadily increases with the steady growth of population.

It is because the 7-30 Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad are both a first-class Railroad security, and a Real Estate mortgage, on lands worth twice the amount secured, that we commend them to those of our readers who desire an investment that is safe beyond question, while readily negotiable and bearing a good rate of interest. They are a first lien, not only on a great Railroad and its traffic, but in addition are a first mortgage on valuable lands at the rate of 50 acres to each $100 of indebtedness. Add to this the fact, that the rate of interest (7-30 per cent. gold) is more than 8 per cent. currency, and that the bonds are always exchangeable at 10 per cent.
premium for the lands on which they are secured, (practically giving the power of foreclosure at will), and it is easy to explain the high favor with which these securities are now regarded. Central Pacific R. R. Bonds, secured only on the Railroad itself, and bearing only six per cent. gold interest, are now selling at 103, and they are well worth the price.
In the light of this fact, it is not unsafe to predict that Northern Pacifics, bearing SEVEN AND THREE-TENTHS per cent. gold interest, secured both on the Railroad and on 25,000 acres of land to each mile of track, and now selling at par, will, at an early day be worth 110.

A wag, happening to go into the shop of a tailor just as the latter was mending an old garment with new cloth, thus addressed the knight of the bodkin:—
"You are no man, and I can prove it by the highest authority."

"How so?" inquired the unsuspecting tailor, as he plied the needle with redoubled activity. "I should like to hear the evidence of your assertion."

"You shall be accommodated, sir," says the wag, asking at the same time if he recollected of ever having read the passage in the New Testament which declares that no man putteth a piece of new cloth on an old garment.

NOT A MAN.

While John Branch, of North Carolina, was General Jackson's Secretary of the Navy, he, Tazewell, and Daniel Webster were walking on the north bank of the Potomac, at Washington. Tazewell, willing to amuse himself with Branch's simplicity, said, "Branch, I'll bet you a ten-dollar hat I can prove that you are on the other side of the river."

"Done," said Branch.
"Well," said Tazewell, pointing to the opposite shore, "isn't that one side of the river?"

"Yes?"
"Well, isn't this the other side?"
"Yes."
"Then as you are here, are you not on the other side?"

"Why I declare," said poor Branch,
"so it is! But here comes Webster. I'll win back the hat from him."

Webster had lagged behind, but now came up, and Branch accosted him:—
"Webster, I'll bet you a ten-dollar hat that I can prove that you are on the other side of the river."

"Done,"
"Well, isn't this one side?"
"Yes."
"Well, isn't that the other side?"
"Yes, but I am not on that side."

Branch hung his head, and submitted to the loss of the two hats as quietly as he could.—Harper's Magazine.

THE TOOTHACHE.

Two or three weeks ago we published a notice to the effect that roasted onions applied to the pulse would relieve the toothache; and requested any one trying it to make a report. Yesterday morning we received a note from a lady, stating that she applied the remedy to the wrist of her son on Thursday night, and in ten minutes the pain had ceased. The remedy is certainly worth trying.—Nantucket Inquirer.

HOW TO CLEAN MARBLE.

It may be of some value to telegraph operators who have marble-based instruments, and house-keepers who have marble top furniture, to know that the common solution of gum arabic is an excellent absorbent, and will remove dirt, &c., from marble. First—Brush the dust off the piece to be cleaned, then apply with a brush a good coat of gum-arabic, about the consistency of thick mullage, expose it to the sun or dry wind, or both. In a short time it will crack and peel off. If the gum should not peel off, wash it with clean water and a clean cloth. Of course if the first application does not have the desired effect, it should be applied again.
Second—Make a paste of soft soap and whiting. Wash the marble first with it and then leave a coat of plaster upon it for two or three days. Afterwards wash off with warm (not hot) water and soap.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

FLORAL FESTIVAL. The annual floral festival, of the Sunday School connected with the Unitarian Society, will take place at their Church to-morrow, at three o'clock. These festivals from year to year have become more and more attractive. The solemn rite of infant baptism, the address to the children, and the floral decorations about the altar, form a beautiful and impressive service. The address will be delivered by the Hon. Charles Francis Adams.

In the evening the children will unite with the choir, and the service will vary somewhat from the usual form. All are cordially invited both afternoon and evening.

A COSTLY PLACE AT AUCTION. E. F. E. Thayer, Esq., sells this afternoon, at 4 1/2 o'clock, one of the finest residences in this place. It consists of modern house, built the past season, in the most perfect and thorough manner, by one of the best carpenters in this vicinity, and we might say in the State, with the richest and most approved materials, and is said to be the costliest house in town, according to its size. It is situated within a few rods of the renowned spot where sprung into existence two Presidents of these United States, and as there are some fourteen thousand feet of land connected with this place, there certainly is a chance to raise at least two more. We shall wait with much anxiety to chronicle the name of the purchaser, believing that it will be handed down to posterity, with honor and distinction, for many generations.

MORE CALFSKINS. We are pleased to inform our readers, that more of the calfskins, which were stolen from the currying shop of Mr. John Page, Jr., on Christmas last, have been found in good condition. On Thursday last, State Constable Porter of Braintree, together with Mr. N. B. Fernald of this place, and other parties who have been carefully investigating this robbery, found in a ditch, about one-eighth of a mile from Patrick McGuire, in Braintree, about thirty dozen of skins, valued from six to seven hundred dollars. Some pieces of calf was found in the bundles, together with other things which indicated that they had been moved in a hurry from the cellar of McGuire, where some weeks since, our readers will remember, two dozen were found buried under a pile of coal. Some forty dozen have now been collected out of the forty-eight stolen, which were valued at that time about $1200. So much for shrewdness and perseverance. May the rogues meet their just deserts.

PERSONAL. We were much pleased one day the present week to receive a visit from Dr. James G. Shannon, a native of this place, and well known to the younger portion of our readers. He is now practicing medicine at Oldham, about sixteen miles from Worcester, with good pecuniary results; having stepped into a field where his labors have been highly appreciated.

SALES. We learn that Mr. Thomas H. Plumer has sold to Mr. Wm. A. Hodges, the present week, an estate on the corner of Hancock and Canal streets, for about $5,000. It consists of a double cottage house, large barn and about an eighth of an acre of land, formerly owned by Mr. Alfred Fernald.

An acre and one-half of land near the Willard School House, owned by Josiah Nightingale, Jr., was sold at auction on Saturday last, by Henry H. Faxon, to Mr. Geo. L. Miller, for $705.

PUBLIC LIBRARY. We learn that the persons, who have been canvassing the town to procure funds for the free public library, have met with good success. Those residing in the centre of the town have given very liberally; others more remote have not done so well; thinking, perhaps, that it would not be of much benefit to them. But we are happy to say that probably they will be mistaken, as plans are talked of by some of the Trustees already, whereby those living at a distance can be accommodated nearly or quite as well as those near. Let none be backward then in this noble public work. Give freely and liberally, as this library will in a few years be an institution we shall all be proud of, and take much pleasure in reading the many valuable works it may contain.

The Highway Surveyor has been busily engaged for some few weeks at Houghs Neck, in extending Sea street to Meigs', at Great Hill, by a new way as laid out by the County Commissioners.

We are now having beautiful weather; the frequent showers the present week have done much good to the growing crops.

A GALA DAY. To-day Barnum's Great Menagerie and Museum visits this place in all its splendor. It is a big institution and attracts great attention, and large crowds to its exhibitions. We would therefore advise ladies and children who think of attending, to go in the afternoon, as they will enjoy it more, and have a much better chance to see the animals and other curiosities. The exhibition will take place near the South Quincy depot, on the Adams farm; no grounds in the centre of the town could be obtained large enough to accommodate a show, offered by that prince of showmen—P. T. Barnum.

EARLY PEAS. John J. Glover, Esq., who resides at the north part of the town, and who usually has a very fine garden, placed on our table on Tuesday last, a sample of Early Caracacus peas, raised this season. The seed were planted March 13th, and the handsome pods left us were picked June 6th.

MUTINY. It is with feelings of sadness that we chronicle the following horrible case of mutiny, resulting in the death of one of our townsmen, Capt. J. O. Ansbury, who commanded the Brig J. L. Bowen, which left New York for Gibraltar and Cadiz on the 28th ult., with a cargo of tobacco and staves. Captain Ansbury is spoken of as a man of kind, peaceful disposition, by those who knew him best, and they feel certain that the trouble on board his vessel could not have arisen from any blame on his part. His crew consisted of the mate, second mate, steward and carpenter, and six colored seamen.

The following is the report of the mate, who succeeded to the command: "While stowing the anchors on 2d inst., at four P. M., one of the crew disobeyed orders, and on being spoken to by the first mate he and Captain Ansbury were set upon by the crew, six in number, who are all negroes, and Captain Ansbury was struck on the head with a capstan bar and fatally injured. The mate had his shoulder dislocated, and also received two severe wounds on the head which he was disabled for three days. The second mate and steward were also severely injured. Got the captain aft, but all efforts to save him were unavailing; he died at half-past six o'clock same day. 3d, latitude 47, longitude 68 27, was spoken by ship Europa (North German), from Bremen, and received from her the first mate, who took charge of the brig."

Capt. Ansbury has long been a resident of this place. He bought some years since, the beautiful estate of the late Bryant B. Newcomb at the Point, where he leaves a wife and three children, who have the sympathy of their neighbors and friends in this their sad bereavement. His remains were buried at sea on the 4th inst., at ten A. M., 252 miles east-south-east of Sandy Hook. The brig arrived in New York on Tuesday evening last, and the mutineers were arrested and locked up at Stapleton, Long Island.

CLOTHING. For choice and nobby styles of frock, derby and sack suits, we would call the attention of our readers to the store of C. H. Boynton & Co., 31 and 32 Dock Square, Boston. They have an immense stock adapted to the season, at very favorable prices. Many of our readers, particularly those at the Point and at North Weymouth, will here find a face familiar to them, even from his boyhood—G. Watson, Hennessey—who will be ready to show them stylish goods at as favorable prices as can be found anywhere in the city.

NEW HOTEL. The Pine Point House, which has been building for the past two months, is now nearly or quite completed. It is located close to the new steamboat wharf, at the Point, or more properly speaking at North Weymouth, as it is on the opposite side of the river. It will be opened on Monday, by Mrs. Joseph T. French, a lady well known to our readers, and one who has had considerable experience in this branch of business. Mr. George Saville for many years the polite and popular clerk of the Hancock House, will also be found at this new house, to wait upon its guest. The house is very pleasant and convenient, and well calculated to accommodate parties, and no doubt will do a large and profitable summer business.

INDIAN CHIEFS ON A VISIT TO BOSTON. The delegation of Indian Chiefs from the Indian Territory, who have lately visited Washington by invitation of the President, arrived in Boston on Saturday. They are the head chiefs of the Arrapahoes, Cheyennes, and Wichitas and are accompanied by their interpreters.

BRAINTREE. Quite a promising Brass Band has been organized under the direction of Mr. A. Allen. They meet every Monday evening for rehearsal, and so far have made fine progress, and with the help and encouragement of the citizens of their own town, bid fair to revive the days of the old Braintree Brass Band.

FRUIT. The prospects for a good apple crop in this vicinity is small. Many of the trees were badly injured by the drought last summer, and did not blossom well this spring. The canker worms, not to help the matter any, appear to be more numerous or voracious than ever, and have stripped many of the trees clean, not leaving so much as one green leaf. Many fine orchards, which often produced from one to two hundred barrels, will not have a dozen. It makes one's heart ache to look at some of the orchards in this place.

The pear trees are looking much better and some varieties are well loaded with fruit, but taken together the crop will not be an average one.

The cherry trees are making an unusual good appearance this season, and the prospects are that there will be a much larger crop here, than there has been for many years. Some of them have already commenced turning red, and look as though they might taste quite nice.

Some of our citizens have commenced picking green peas, and a few ripe strawberries are found on the vines. We have not seen any samples of potatoes raised by our patrons as yet.

COLTON'S REFRIGERATOR. A refrigerator is now considered to be an important article of furniture in a house, and to get a good one is very desirable. Colton's is said to be one of the best in use, and we think in many particulars that it is superior to any we have seen. The water instead of running off, is retained in an iron tank around the food closet, keeping it cool for a long time after the ice has melted and can be drawn off at pleasure. The closet, being lined with wood is free from dampness which is apt to give a taint to victuals placed in the ordinary chest. It is very convenient, and we think that food can be kept in it with a small quantity of ice.

The first peaches of the season, were received in Boston, on the 6th inst. It was a crate from Georgia, and was bought by the Tremont House for $13.

MUSEUM. An extra performance will be given at the Boston Museum, on the afternoon of June 13th, the day of the Old Fellows celebration; for the convenience of visitors to the city. Mr. Warren, the great comedian, will appear in two of his best characters.

Probate Court meets at the Selectmen's Room, in this place, on Wednesday morning next.

THE INJUNCTION. The Selectmen appeared before the Supreme Judicial Court in Boston, on Saturday last, in the case of N. B. Fernald and others in equity against the Town of Quincy. This is a bill in equity to restrain defendants from building a town way from Sea to Washington street, over land of petitioners. The petitioners claim that no notice was given them of the way, and that the damages for such laying out were unlawfully awarded. Respondents deny those allegations. The complainants at this Court had the injunction removed from the street, with the exception of a small portion known as the Hardwick estate. Therefore the work will go on and will probably be finished in a few weeks with the exception of a small corner on Washington street. A hearing on that portion will be had before the Supreme Judicial Court, in Boston, on the 10th of next month.

GOODS FOR THE SEASON. The old and familiar names of the firm Cushman & Brooks, which we have listened to with pleasure since our childhood, always greets us with thoughts of rich and serviceable goods at low prices. But never were the words more applicable than now. Never have we seen more, or a better display of articles in their line, than those offered by them at the present time. Their stock is immense: 12,000 dozen fans; 1000 dozen hosiery; 200 cases sun umbrellas; summer hats, ribbons, millinery goods, trimmings, &c., in endless quantities, and styles. Query—Can our ladies stay away from the city when such an immense quantity of goods are awaiting them? and we might almost say, when reading their advertisement in our columns, without money or price.

SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR. The Trustees of this institution held their annual meeting on Monday last, in Boston, and chose the following officers for the coming year:—President—Albert Fearing; Treasurer—Wm. A. Wellman; Secretary, J. Francis Tuckerman; Executive Committee—Albert Fearing, George B. Upton, R. B. Forbes, Andrew T. Hall, William Perkins.

The daily consumption of spirits in the United States is estimated at 230,000 gallons per day, or 13,646 gallons more than are produced.

NEW BELL. The Engineers of the Fire Department have purchased of Messrs. Blake & Co., of Boston, a bell of the weight of 310 pounds, and caused the same to be placed on the Tiger Engine House, at the south part of the town. This is a wise and judicious move. Since the bell on the old Orthodox Church was removed there has been no means for giving a general fire alarm in that district. The cost of the new bell, and hanging the same, is about $150.

CHANGE. We learn that Mr. Daniel H. Bills has sold his stock of groceries, &c., in store at the Point to A. P. Messer & Co., of Rockland, Maine, who will continue the business at the old stand.

Summary Intelligence.

The first meeting-house in Wheelock, Va., was built in 1797. A curious vote was taken by the town for the purpose of selling off the pews. The record of it reads as follows: "Voted, that the town be at the expense of rum for the venduing of the meeting-house pews."

The manufacture of paper boxes was introduced at Richmond, Virginia, in the spring of 1869. One firm there turns out daily 2500 boxes, and gives employment to about thirty ladies.

Eggs are very abundant this season. Last week there were received in Boston fifteen hundred and seventy-eight barrels, and nine hundred and twenty-two boxes.

The amount of "green stuff" in market this season has not been surpassed, at the corresponding time for many seasons.

There are 6,000,000 cotton spindles now in operation in the United States, of which over 2,000,000 are running on cloths for printing, and produce 450,000 yards per annum.

The only manufactory of hair pins in the United States turns out fifty tons of those useful articles per month.

There are 30,000 women and girls in New York who earn their living in the stores and manufactories.

Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil is sold by most of our Druggists and Merchants, and has become a standard article in market. This position it has won by its merit. It is clean to use. It cures pain where it is used faithfully, and we intend always to keep it in the house to use. Try it.

Poetry.

TOUCH NOT.

Touch not the tempting cup, my boy,
Though urged by friend or foe;
Dare, when the tempter urges most,
Dare boldly say, No—no!
The joyous angel from on high
Shall tell your soul the reason why.
Touch not the tempting cup, my boy:
In righteousness be brave;
Take not the first, a single step,
Towards a drunkard's grave;
The widow's groan, the orphan's sigh,
Shall tell your soul the reason why.

Farmers' Department.

How Little Land Will Keep a Cow.

On the first of June last I commenced cutting clover for one cow confined in a yard enclosed by a high tight board fence, with a stable attached in which she has been fed. She had no feed but freshly cut clover from the first of June to the fifteenth of October, and all taken from one-fourth of an acre of ground. She has averaged eighteen quarts of strained milk per day, from which my wife has made eight pounds of butter per week, during the four and a half months. The cow is five years old, and a cross of the Ayrshire and Durham. She has given more milk, more butter, and of a better quality, than she has ever done on pasture. On one-eighth of an acre I have raised 150 bushels of sugar beets and carrots, which with the two tons of hay will keep her handsomely the balance of the year. The labor of cutting clover for the cow is less than driving her three-fourths of a mile to pasture; besides, the manure saved is quite an item. In the dairy districts, the usual estimate is four acres to the cow, on the hay and pasture system, whereas by soiling and raising roots five-eighths of an acre is found to be sufficient. I will state further, what I believe from nearly thirty years' experience is, that there is no crop so valuable for soiling as clover, no crop so valuable for which, and of equal value for milk and butter, can be produced from an acre of ground. Sweet corn is a good crop for late feeding, where clover will not grow, but not profitable for winter feeding.—Exchange.

TO PURIFY A SINK.

In hot weather it is almost impossible to prevent sinks becoming foul, unless some chemical preparation is used. One pound of copperas dissolved in four gallons of water poured over a sink three or four times, will completely destroy the offensive odor. As a disinfecting agent, to scatter around premises affected with any unpleasant odor, nothing is better than a mixture of four parts dry ground plaster of Paris to one part of fine charcoal by weight. All sorts of glass vessels and other utensils may be effectually purified from offensive smells by rinsing them with charcoal powder, after grosser impurities have been scoured off with sand and soap.

REMEDY FOR THE TURNIP FLY.

One bushel of white gas ashes, fresh from the gas house, one bushel of fresh lime from the kiln, six pounds of sulphur, and ten pounds of soot, well mixed together, and got to as fine a powder as possible, so that it may adhere to the young plants.

The above quantity is sufficient for two acres when drilled at twenty-seven inches. It should be applied very early in the morning, when the dew is on the leaf, a broadcast sowing machine being the most expeditious mode of distributing it, or it may be sprinkled with the hand carefully over the rows. If the fly continues troublesome, the application should be repeated; but Mr. Fisher Hobbs stated it had never failed where applied at night to Swedes, turnips or rape.—Gardener's Magazine.

Inedicates.

"Why, you'd better knock the door down! What do you want?"
"Oh, my darling! I'm just using your knocker to wake the people next door. I'm locked out, I've seen, and they've never a knocker."
Rap, rap, rap!

A countryman took his seat at a tavern table, opposite to a gentleman who was indulging in a bottle of wine.—Supposing the wine to be common port, our unsophisticated country friend helped himself to it with the gentleman's glass.

"That's cool!" exclaimed the owner of the wine, indignantly.
"Yes," replied the other; "I should think there was ice in it."

A new-made minister, having occasion to marry a couple as his first official act, and there being quite an assemblage present, he determined to strike them dumb with awe, and so, winding up he said,

"I pronounce you man and wife, and the Lord have mercy on your sinful souls!"

THIRTY THOUSAND

DOLLARS PAID. The TRAVELERS LIFE AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY, of Hartford, Connecticut, paid $20,000 on W. H. FROST and WILLIAM C. GERRY, victims of the New Hampshire railroad accident; $5,000 on the late James B. Blake, mayor of Worcester, Mass.; and $5,000 on the late H. Lewis, Jr., of St. Albans, Vt. All these accidents occurred, and the insurance was paid, within three months—each claim being paid about thirty days before it was due by the terms of the policy. The TRAVELERS has paid SEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS A DAY in benefits to its policyholders, for death or injury by accident, for every working day during the past seven years.

The TRAVELERS LIFE AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY, of Hartford, Conn., grants all the usual forms of LIFE and ENDOWMENT Policies, on exceedingly favorable terms. AMPLIFIED AND LOW RATES.

THE METHODIST. of New York, has all ways been edited with marked ability by Rev. Dr. CROOK. Its publishers have just added to its editorial corps, Rev. Dr. W. T. FARRIS, an equally experienced journalist, and author of the best History of Methodism extant. They have also engaged contributions and sermons from Rev. Dr. W. T. FARRIS, whose success and popularity as a preacher, writer and lecturer, are almost unexampled, and whose free Tabernacle in Brooklyn, with its congregation of over 3,000 people, is one of the marvels of the age. Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER has a Letter to the Editor every week.

THE METHODIST abounds in good things, is never dull or dry, has stories for children, hints for farmers, and something for everybody. Mrs. Willing's great serial story is always popular, and the paper is one of the most valuable and profitable of the age. One of the marvels of the age, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER has a Letter to the Editor every week.

Poetry.

ALWAYS BUY THE BEST.

'Twas ever thought the better plan,
And one that stood the test,
In shopping or in marketing,
Always to buy the best.
And this holds good in all the ways
Of life, my thrifty friend;
In purchasing, you'll find the best Prove cheapest in the end.
The best of truth, to clothe one's self,
Right royally, forsooth!
For truth, if woven with a lie,
Is neither lie nor truth!
And lies are such transparent things,
They vanish with a breath;
Or 'tween if it alone, will soon
Quite run themselves to death!
The best of Will to make one's way,
In sorrow or in joy—
The best of Honor when we trade,
The kind without alloy!

Farmers' Department.

INCREASING THE FLAVOR OF FRUIT.

For a number of years past, there has been a decided tendency on the part of fruit growers, and more especially those who cultivate for market, to grow only large fruit, or rather varieties of small fruit of a large size. We are not surprised at this, from the fact, that however insipid and flavorless a strawberry may be, it will always command the highest price in the market, if it is only large and fine looking. Hence, with the cultivator, it becomes a matter of dollars and cents. Fruit growing for profit is his business, and it is to such, generally, a matter of indifference whether the fruit is of fine flavor or otherwise, so that he finds ready purchasers at good figures. It would be simply folly to argue against such a spirit and as long as people are content to sacrifice the sense of taste for that of sight, we have no right to object.

But it does not follow, necessarily, that large fruit is obtained at the expense of its flavor. Every horticulturist knows that a well, cloudy season invariably produces greatly increasing acidity in the small fruits, and this is especially noticeable in the peach and strawberry. The result is, of course, beyond human control. But not so in some other cases. We believe that it is in the power of a cultivator, who has not too keen an eye to profit, to command a flavor. "The method," says a first class authority on this subject, "is to thin out severely."

The same writer assumes that if a peach or plum tree is allowed to mature five or six dozen of fruit, where only half that quantity should be permitted, the result will be a flavor of decidedly inferior quality. A case in point is cited:—A favorite plum tree, in 1861, bore but a light crop of fruit, all of which was carefully preserved. The aroma of the fruit, when made into puddings and tarts, was delicious. In 1862 the crop of plums on the same trees was so abundant as to hide the leaves. The usual quantity was preserved, but the fine aroma of those of the previous year was wanting. From all of which he insisted on the following:—"By thinning you make indifferent fruit good. By crowding you make good fruit bad."

We are aware that it is asking a great deal of an amateur to thin out fruit, but it will pay in the end when quality and not quantity is desired.—Journal of the Farm.

DEATH TO BUGS.

A correspondent sends the following recipe which he has successfully used for years. It is certainly worth trying:—"Bugs on squash and cucumber vines—How to destroy them. Dissolve a table spoonful of saltpetre in a pailful of water, pour one pint of this around each hill, shaping the earth so that it will not spread much, and the thing is done. Use more saltpetre if you can afford it—it is good for vegetable, but death to animal life. The bugs burrow in the earth at night, and fail to rise in the morning. It is also good to kill the "grub" in peach trees—only use twice as much, say a quart or two to each tree. There was not a yellow or blistered leaf on twelve or fifteen trees to which it was applied last season. No danger of killing any vegetable with it. A concentrated solution applied to young beans made them grow wonderfully."

Incidents.

An Irish girl told her forbidden lover she was longing to possess his portrait, and intended to obtain it.
"But what if your friends see it?"
"Ah, but I'll tell the artist not to make it like you, so they won't know it."

"Gerty, my dear," said a Sabbath-school teacher to one of her class, "you were a very good little girl to-day."
"Yes—I couldn't help being good; I got a stiff neck," said Gerty, with perfect seriousness.

"I will lay you a wager," said one sportsman to another, "that I will shoot more crows to-day than you!"
"Oh, yes, you could always beat me crowing."

Poetry.
WILLIE'S BREECHES.

I'm just a little boy, you know,
And hardly can remember,
When people ask me now old I am,
To tell 'em four last 'vember.
And yet for I am so small,
I made so many stitches
For mamma's fingers, that she put Her little boy in breeches.

You may be sure, I was glad,
I marched right up and kissed her,
Then gave my little one a peck on the cheek,
And all, to baby sister.
I never whine now I'm so fine,
And don't get into meases;
For mamma says, if I am bad,
She'll put me back in dresses!

I'd like to tell you how I look,
And will, if I am not too good,
My eyes are black, my hair is white,
I'm taller than the table.
Sometimes I peek the looking-glass,
And, peeping in, I see there,
A round-faced, rosy, roguish boy,
And mamma says it's me there.

There's buttons up and down my legs,
And buttons on my jacket;
I'd count 'em all, but baby makes,
Just now, an awful racket.
She's sitting there, behind the chair,
With blocks, and dolls, and kitty,
A playing, "Go to gran'ma's house,"
Alone and that's a pity.

I think I'll go and help her some,
I'm sure it would amuse me;
So I won't bother any more
To talk—if you'll excuse me.
But first I'll stand before the glass,
From top to toe in rakes;
Now look! there's head, and hands, and feet,
But all the rest is breeches!

STRAWBERRY SHORT-CAKE. Make a biscuit, using sour cream, or sour milk and butter; when baked, split open, spread on butter, strawberries, and sugar; then put the halves together again. It should be made thin.

Man has two chambers in his heart: the one for himself, the other for a friend; but the latter had better be empty than filled with that which is false.

Jennie June boasts that she "was born a woman." Herein she has the advantage of her unfortunate sisters, who were born girls and obliged to grow up.

A pleasant, cheerful wife is a rainbow set in the sky, when her husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests; but a dissatisfied and fretful wife, in the hour of trouble, is like one of those fiends who delight to torture lost spirits.

It requires not a little real philosophy to enable one to travel widely and enjoy his journeyings. There are many annoyances upon the road which, if not borne with fortitude, will impair all the pleasures, and render the traveler miserable.

There is no man, let him be as wise as he may, who knows what circumstances are calculated to make him really happy.

Never attempt to do anything that is not right. Just as sure as you do you will get into trouble. If you even suspect that anything is wrong, do it not until you are sure that your suspicions are groundless.

Women have a much nicer sense of the beautiful than men. They are, by far, the safer umpires in matters of propriety and grace. A mere school-girl will be thinking and writing about the beauty of birds and blossoms, while her brother is robbing the nests and destroying the flowers.

A gentleman recently hired a negro girl to act as a servant in his house. Thenceforth the rooms were not redolent of roses, and the mistress of the house appealed to the girl's better feelings. In reply the girl said, "Well, missis, I generally washes myself twice a year, but the fact is, dis season I've neglected myself."

A young gentleman on being asked why he did not go into society replied that he did not care about it, as the girls were overdressed or undressed, and cared to talk about nothing but the German, fast horses, dress and eating—rather severe.

Will you take this woman to be your wife? "Well, Squire," was the reply, "you must be a green one to ax such a question as that. Miscellany.
THE TWO ANSWERS.

"No Charles,—it cannot be. As a friend I shall respect and esteem you; but I cannot be your wife. Have compassion on me, and do not press me further."

Mary Granville stood before me as she thus spoke, with her hands clasped, and her head bowed, trembling like an aspen; and I fancied that there were tears in her eyes. She was a beautiful girl; and I had thought her as good and pure as she was beautiful, and, further than this, I had believed that she loved me.

She was an orphan, and had been engaged during the past year in teaching one of our village schools. Of her early life I knew nothing save that she had been well educated, and had moved in good society; and I had reason to believe that, at some time her parents had been wealthy; but her father had failed in business, and it had been told to me that the old reverses killed him. I had known that Mary was poor—that she was dependent upon her daily labor for support—and the thought that I could offer her a comfortable home, with the advantages of moderate wealth, had given increase to my prospective happiness. But this unexpected answer dashed all my bright hopes to the ground.

"Do you mean," I cried vehemently, "that you thus dismiss me? Am I cast off?"

"I cannot be your wife," was her reply. "Then," said I, with more warmth than I might have betrayed under other circumstances, "I leave you to yourself, and while I strive to shake off the love that has bound me to you, I will only hope that ere you lead another into your net, you will conclude beforehand whether you will keep him!"

She gazed up into my face with a painful, frightened look; but I did not stop to hear her speak further. While she stood there, pale and trembling, I turned and left the house.

I was a little heated with wine. I had drunk just enough to warm my blood, and give my brain an extra impulse; and my words were not chosen as I should have chosen them had the spirit of the wine been absent. As I walked towards my home I sought to persuade myself that I had fortunately escaped the snare of a coquette, and that I might be enabled thus to reason, I stopped at the hotel, where I found a few of my companions, and helped dispose of half a dozen bottles of wine.

On the following morning I awoke with a headache, and when I called to mind the events of the preceding evening I was anything but happy. I began to realize how much I had loved Mary Granville. It was my first love, and its influence had penetrated every fibre of my being. I had resolved that I would feel very angry, very indignant; but when the sweet face was called up to mental view, such feelings melted away, leaving me sad and desolate.

On the following Sabbath I attended church, where I saw Mary once more. She played the organ, as she had done for the year past, and as her fingers now swept over the keys I fancied that I could detect a tremulousness which I had never noticed before. Was it only imagination, or was it really a plaintiveness—a sadness—in the expression of her music?

To me it seemed as though at times, the organ moaned and wept. It was like the wailing of the daughters of Zion by the rivers of Babylon.

When the services were over, and we went out from church, I saw Mary's face. It was pale and wan, as though she had been sick. What could it be? Was she suffering as I had suffered? The thought flashed upon me that some one might have been telling her of my disadvantage. I had enemies in the village—enemies who envied me because I inherited some wealth; and I fancied, enemies who envied me the love of Mary Granville.

Another week passed, and I became more sad and homesome. My business was irksome to me, and my books and papers afforded me no respite. In fact, I could not read, for my mind was never upon the page before me. Another Sabbath at the church, and I saw Mary again. It seemed to me that she was paler than before, and her eyes looked as though she had been weeping.

During the succeeding week I received a visit from my old college chum, Jack Stanton, who had just opened a law office in Berryville. After supper as we sat in my cozy parlor smoking our cigars, I suggested that a bottle of wine would not be amiss. Jack shook his head.

"No Charles," he said. "We'll leave the wine for those who need it." "You used to drink it, Jack." "Yes, but it never did me any good." "And do you think it ever did you any harm?"

"As for that I will not say; but, my boy, I will tell you what I can say: I never shall do me harm! I know it has harmed others who were as strong as I am. By the way Charles, isn't Mary Granville here?"

"Yes," said I. "Do you know her?" "I turned away my face, and pretended that I heard something at the window."

"I have seen her," I replied, when I had composed myself. She plays the organ in the church."

"She and I were schoolmates," pursued Stanton; "and speaking of wine brings her to my mind. Do you know anything of her early life?"

"Nothing," I answered. "Poor Mary! I never think of her without feeling my resolution of total abstinence grow stronger and stronger. When we were school children together her father was the wealthiest man in Berryville, and she and her brother were among the happiest happy."

Mr. Granville was in the habit of drinking wine; and the habit grew upon him until he felt he could not live without his brandy. He was of a social disposition, and in time it came to pass that he was often grossly intoxicated. Of course, under such circumstances, one of the two things must happen. The man must reform, or he must sink. Mr. Granville did not reform, and ere many years he died a drunkard's death, leaving his family in poverty and suffering. Thomas, the son, was four years older than Mary, became very dissipated, and, at the age of eighteen, was killed in a street-fight in New York. Mrs. Granville survived her son but a few months, absolutely dying, the doctor said, of a broken heart.

Poor Mary, thus left fatherless and motherless, without brother or sister, at the age of fifteen, was forced to earn the bread which she eat, and nobly has she done it. If you know her Charles, you know one of the noblest women that ever lived.

At a late hour Jack departed for the hotel, and when I had retired to my chamber I paced to and fro until long past midnight. I could now understand the motives which had actuated Mary in rejecting my hand. She knew that I was in the habit of using wine, and on that evening when last we met she discovered that I had drunk enough to bring a false flush to my cheek.

On Saturday evening I called at Mary's boarding place. Mary herself answered my summons. She started when she saw me, and I saw her right hand move quickly towards her heart.

"Mary," said I speaking very calmly, for I had a mighty strength of will now to support me, "I have not come to distress you. I have come as a friend, and I humbly ask that you will give me audience for a few minutes."

She went into the parlor, and I followed her closing the door behind me; and when we were alone she set the lamp upon the table, and motioned me to a seat.

"No," said I "I will not sit down yet. Give me your hands, Mary."

Mechanically she put forth her hands and I took them in my own. There was a wondering look in her face, and a slight flush had come to her pale cheeks.

"Mary," I continued, speaking slowly and softly—and I knew that a moisture was gathering in my eyes—"you must answer me one simple question. Answer it as you please, and take my solemn assurance that I only ask it for my good. Tell me—Do you love me? No—do not take your hands away yet. Answer me if you can. Fear not—O fear not; for I would rather go forth into endless night than do you wrong—Tell me, Mary, do you love me?"

"I cannot speak falsely," she tremulously whispered. "For my own peace perhaps I love you too well."

"Listen to me one moment," I added, drawing her nearer to me; "and when I have told you what I have to tell, you shall be the judge."

She did not strive to free her hands; but she gazed eagerly up into my face, and her eyes beamed with a hopeful light. "You know John Stanton?" I said.

"Yes," she replied. "He was my best friend while we were at college and our friendship has not grown less. He came to see me, and told the story of the trials and sufferings of one of the school-mates of his earlier days. O, Mary, I think I know very well why you refused my hand and I blame you not. It may be that our paths will be different through life; but you shall at least know that he whom you have loved will so live that he shall not be unworthy of your kindest remembrance. And now Mary, if, at some future time, you should feel that you can trust your happiness in my keeping you will give me some token thereof, and I will come and ask you again for your hand; and should it be my blessed lot to receive it, I will devote every energy of my being to making your life a joyous and peaceful one."

I let go her hands, and bowed my head to wipe away a tear. I had turned towards the door, really intending to depart, and give her time for reflection, when she pronounced my name. I looked back and her hands were stretched out towards me.

"Not now," I whispered. "I will not ask your answer yet. Watch me—prove me. Only give me to know that I have your love, and I will—"

I stopped speaking for Mary's head had been pillowed upon my bosom, and she was weeping like a child.

"Now! now!" she uttered, as I wound my arms about her. "O, Charles, I never doubted your truth. I know you cannot deceive me. God bless your noble resolution; and let me help you to keep it!"

I cannot tell how long I stopped that evening. I can only tell that I was very happy, and that my prospect of the coming year was bright and glorious.

On the following day—a Sabbath calm and pleasant—the organ gave forth a new strain. All marked the grandeur of the music that sprang into life beneath the touch of the fair organist on that beautiful Sabbath morning, and all seemed moved by the inspiration.

Ere many weeks had passed another hand pressed the keys of the organ, for Mary was not in the choir. She knelt before the altar—by my side—and over us both the aged clergyman stretched his hands with prayer and blessing.

And we went out from the church together—Mary and I—out into the new life—bound heart to heart, and hand to hand, to love, honor, and cherish, forevermore.

MENTAL ACTIVITY.
If the water runneth, it holdeth clear, sweet, and fresh; but stagnation turneth it into a noisome puddle. If the air be fanned by the winds, it is pure and wholesome; but from being shut up it groweth thick and putrid. If metal be employed, they abide smooth and splendid; but lay them up, and they soon contract dust. If the earth is labored with culture, it yieldeth corn; but, lying neglected, it will be overgrown with bushes and thistles, and the better the soil is the ranker weeds it will produce. All nature is upheld in its being, order and shape by constant agitation; every creature is incessantly employed in action conformable to its designed use. In like manner, the preservation and improvement of the faculties depend on their constant exercise; to it God has annexed the best and most desirable reward—success to our undertakings, wealth, honor, wisdom, virtue, salvation.—Barrow.

HOW TO PRESERVE ICE.
A German chemist publishes the following simple method to preserve small quantities of ice which he has practiced with success. Put ice into a deep dish, cover it with a plate, and place the dish on a pillow stuffed with feathers, and cover the top with another pillow carefully, and by this means exclude the external air. Feathers are well known non-conductors of heat, and in consequence the ice is preserved from melting. Dr. Schwartz states that he has thus preserved six pounds of ice for eight days. This plan is simple and within the reach of every household.

COWS FOR SALE TO-DAY. We would call the attention of farmers and others wishing to purchase valuable cows, raised from imported stock, to a sale this afternoon, commencing at 1 o'clock, in the Hancock House yard. The stock was raised at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, and comprises full blood Jersey, Grade Ayrshire and Grade Jersey, and is well worth the attention of our citizens.—Another such chance to buy choice breeds may not be offered for years.

NATIONAL SAILORS' HOME. The carpenters, who have been busily engaged for some weeks in repairing the damages caused by fire at this institution last month, have nearly completed their labors. Mr. Merrill, of Boston, took the job by contract, for the sum of fourteen hundred dollars. But it is said it will cost him a much larger amount, the cost of the lumber alone being double what it was first estimated.

A BEAUTIFUL PLACE. Col. Packard has one of the finest residences in our village. We cannot help admiring from our office the handsome plot just north of his residence, which has been laid down to grass. Its beautiful green carpet, with handsome flowers bordering the same, looks very inviting at this season; together with the fine pear orchard, south of the mansion, and the large and stately elms, concrete walks, &c., in front, makes his place very attractive.

THE EDITORS' EXCURSION. Numerous and hearty responses are coming in from the press in all quarters of the State in regard to the proposed excursion in July. Certainly nothing could be more attractive than the programme as laid out, embracing a visit to Mt. Mansfield, Vt., Montreal, Lake Memphremagog and the White Mountains, including at Montreal, a trip up the St. Lawrence river and down the rapids. The excursion train will start from the Lowell Depot, Boston at half past eight o'clock, Monday morning, July 10th, and occupy the whole week, and at a very small expense. Circulars giving particulars of the trip, its expense, &c., have been issued, and any information wanted, can be obtained by addressing the editor of the Webster Times. No one will accompany the excursion but members of the four Associations and their ladies. A band of music is expected for the entire trip. It will be a most enjoyable affair and largely participated in by the fraternity.

SALES. Joseph W. Lombard Esq., sold at auction, on Friday of last week, several beautiful house lots on Edwards Hill, to the following persons, viz:—

Henry G. Pratt, one lot for $240
Dr. Joseph Underwood, " 312
George Morton, one lot with stable thereon, for $1,025.
Henry H. Faxon, Esq., two lots for $800.
Jeremiah Ford, one lot in "Dublin" for $105.

The Wollaston Heights Sabbath School, by invitation, will hold its next Concert, at the Chapel of the Soldiers' Home, to-morrow evening at six o'clock. SUBJECT—FAITH.

It will be seen by a card on the first page of to-day's Patriot, that E. C. Bumpus, Esq., of Weymouth, has opened an office, in Water street, Boston, where he will be pleased to receive his numerous friends and patrons from this place and vicinity. Few professional gentlemen have brought themselves so prominently before the people of this County, in so short a time, as Mr. Bumpus. And it has been done mainly by energy and perseverance, with a close application to business.

The citizens of Neponset will soon be supplied with Cochituate water. Pipes have been laid in most of the streets.—It may be very convenient for culinary purposes, but it does not quite come up to good well water, in our opinion, when one is thirsty.

EXAMINATIONS. The usual summer examinations, of the public schools in this place, will commence on Monday next, as will be seen by a notice in another column. Parents and friends are respectfully invited to attend, and we think all who are interested should try to be present.

HARPER'S. The July number of Harper's Magazine is before us. It is an unusual good number,—very entertaining and very instructive. It will please both old and young. Souther has it at his periodical store. Ask for Harper's for July, and you will get a Magazine that will please you, if you like good reading.

PUBLIC TOWN LIBRARY.

Report from the Centre District.

In accordance with the plan proposed by the Board of Trustees of the Public Town Library, for raising by subscription the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, the Centre District has been thoroughly canvassed.

At the first meeting of the Canvassing Committee, an organization was made by the election of Charles P. Greenough for Chairman; George L. Gill, Treasurer; Helen M. Porter, Secretary.

The active duties of the canvassing were assigned to Mrs. Lucetta W. Revere, Sarah J. T. Carr, Helen L. Bass, Hannah A. Porter, Misses Elizabeth C. Adams, Dora A. French, Lizzie Morse, Minnie Carr, Lizzie French, Caroline L. P. Torrey, Hattie Morse, S. Addie Souther, M. Lizzie Hardwick, Sarah A. Nash, Lizzie Flint, Julia E. Underwood, Helen M. Porter, Josie M. Wright, Messrs. Henry B. Brown, Henry Chubbuck, Dr. J. H. Gilbert.

The object of the Committee being not only to procure as large an amount of money, but to enlist the interest of as many different individuals as was possible, it was their endeavor to give every person in the District an opportunity to subscribe. As doubtless, some may have been unavoidably and unintentionally omitted, the Committee are still ready to receive their subscriptions, and enroll their names.

The smallest sum set against any one name, is Five Cents, and the largest Sixty Dollars.

The whole amount subscribed and collected in this District, falls but little short of fourteen hundred dollars, other subscriptions to be paid in will probably carry the amount fully up to, and perhaps exceed this sum.

The following are the names of the subscribers:—

Edw. H. Dewson, William A. Field, Mrs. E. H. Dewson, Mrs. Wm. A. Field, Frank W. Dewson, William Field, George B. Dewson, William Field, Wm. J. Dewson, Isaac Fenno, Edw. H. Summary Intelligence.

The crown diamonds and jewels of France are officially announced as safe.

The State Prison contains five hundred and sixty inmates at the present time.

There are some fears of a peanut famine. North Carolina sends but 2,000 bags this year against 20,000 for the same time last season, and the supply from Virginia is short one-half.

Mr. Seward and his party were at Suez on the 5th of May and were going thence through Egypt. They had already travelled over 30,000 miles.

One of the large starch factories of Central New York has twelve acres of flooring, six hundred cisterns, and twenty miles of steam pipes. It turns out about twenty six tons of starch daily.

The King of Bavaria has had a garden laid out on the top of the palace at Munich. In the centre of it is a lake, upon which swans are seen swimming.

A Portland paper asserts that a man recently walked into the office of the Zion Advocate, in that city, and inquired if Mr. Zion was in.

Philadelphia encourages female physicians to the amount of about $12,000 per year.

A Massachusetts turning-shop made thirteen thousand thread-spools in one day.

The steam power employed in this country is equal to 130,000,000 men, but that of Great Britain is superior, being equal to 400,000,000 men.

The four highest mountains in the state of Vermont rank as follows in feet above the level of the sea: Mansfield, 4,279; Camel's Hump, 4,188; Jay Peak, 3,675; Ascotbury, 3,320.

Terre Haute has just been the scene of the wedding of a young lady of 29 to her fourth husband.

The atmosphere is said to be so dry at Cordova, in the Argentine Republic, that a bowl of milk left uncovered in the morning is dry at night, while ink vanishes from the inkstand and becomes thick almost by magic.

The whole number of market wagons bringing the different varieties of meat, vegetables, &c., to Faneuil Hall Market, Boston during May was 3,120 as follows: Varieties, 372; Hog, 34; Beef, 1,015; Vegetables 1,077; Tripe, 81; Mutton, 441.

Butterflies have been found flying at sea, six hundred miles from land. Their buoyancy is great and the muscular effort of flying must be small, while the wind drives them forward rapidly over great distances.

Experiments in the army bakery in Washington have shown that 802 one-pound loaves of bread can be made from a barrel of flour.

South Africa last year shipped 5802 diamonds. They were said to be of an inferior quality, though they brought $602,775 in money that wasn't inferior at all.

BEAUTY IN ALL THINGS.

There is beauty in the bright blue sky,
There is beauty in the glistering dewdrops
That sparkle on the trees,
There is beauty in the sunset clouds
That deck the sky at even;
There is beauty in the tall green pine
That rears its head toward heaven.
There is beauty in the rose-bud red,
There is beauty in the violet sweet
That blooms within the vale,
There is beauty in the sunlight bright,
There is beauty in the shade;
There is beauty in the leafy woods—
And in all that God has made.

Farmers' Department.

CARE OF GRAPE VINES.

Grape vines have grown very rapidly this month and now should have considerable care. Those that were not trimmed last winter, need considerable pruning now; and those that were carefully looked after then, require but little; but all want some. From many of the buds, two or more shoots have started, and these must be thinned out, or all removed except one. There is a prospect of a large crop of grapes in this vicinity if the season is favorable, as the vines have blossomed full, particularly the Isabella, which is the most common variety in this locality. Many of the shoots have three or four bunches.

We believe it to be for the interest of those wishing to raise good grapes, to see that but two bunches remain on each shoot; as one bunch of large, sweet, delicious grapes are worth three or four sour, half-ripened bunches, either to eat or sell. The seasons in this latitude for the variety is usually short, and many do not arrive to perfection before the frost takes them, therefore a little help, in removing the inferior bunches at this time, will greatly benefit the vine and the quality of the fruit.

CABBAGES.

Now is the right time to set out late varieties of cabbage plants for winter use. Any dull wet day when our farmers cannot work at hoeing or haying may be profitably spent in setting out cabbage plants. If the crop cannot be sold at a good price in the fall, it can be kept for the stock, being an article of intrinsic value as food. It can be cheaply raised and is the most nutritious of all the cultivated green crops, and the one of all others, most relished by cattle. It is more nutritious than turnips and is said to be equal to clover and our common grasses, and certainly is a great milk producer.

TOMATO TRELLISES. The cheapest and most convenient trellis for tomatoes is, to make a four-square frame for every hill, of four pieces of hard wood, two feet long and one inch square, for the four corner posts. Let three pieces of lath, each one foot long, be nailed on each side. Such trellises will cost only a few cents each, and they will save four times their cost in the value of tomatoes. Let such a trellis be placed over each hill, before the plant has begun to bend sideways; then the fruit will be kept off the ground.

The Ploughman advises farmers to begin haying early and put it through with vigor. It is a great thing to get on rapidly with this operation, and to close it up and get time for draining and other permanent improvements in August.

Anecdotes.

A prisoner, when called upon by a magistrate for his defence, said, "I've ordered a lawyer for to-morrow, and I hope your worship will be so good as to put it off till he comes."

"Why, what can your lawyer say about it?"

"That's what I want to know, your worship," said the prisoner.

A boy remarked to his mother the other day that he never knew before that Mr. — (who kept a liquor saloon,) was a milliner.

"Well he isn't," said the mother.

"Yes he is," said the boy, "for father went in there last night and got a night cap."

A stout, jolly-looking merchant recently entered a shop in Dublin, and asked the owner for charity. He shook his head and said:

"I'm not able to give you anything. The woman, in quite a cheerful tone, promptly replied:

"Thank you, sir, and may you long be in the same position."

"What have you done with your doll, Mary?"

"Lock it up, papa; don't let it see any little girl when I get big, just like mamma."

"Ah, but if you shouldn't have any little girl?"

"Never mind, papa; then I'll give it to my gawdchild."

LIVERY STABLE.

THE Subscriber would respectfully inform his patrons that he has removed to his

New Stable on Hancock Street,

REAR OF MESSRS. TIRRELL'S SHOP,

where he is prepared to furnish Horses and Carriages at short notice.

He would also take this opportunity to thank the public for their liberal support, and hopes by furnishing good teams at reasonable prices to continue to receive their patronage.
